TRADE S.S.S. MARK

CURES SCROFULA

Mrs. E. J. Rowell, Medford, Mass., says her mother has been cured of Scrofula by the use of four bottles of S.S.S. after having had much other treatment, and being reduced to quite a low condition of health, as it was thought she could not live.

S.S.S. Cured my little boy of hereditary scrofula which appeared all over his face. For a year I had given up all hope of his recovery, when finally I was induced to use S.S.S. A few bottles cured him, and no symptoms of the disease remain.

Ivory Billiard Balls Stained With Blood.

The globe of ivory which is knocked about a table in a game of billiards costs, if of good quality, at least $10. This represents its cost in money. There is, however, a far more important and formidable element in the price which has been paid for it. The billiard ball of pure ivory represents as it lies white and glistening upon the cloth an expenditure of human lifeblood as well as of money.

Elephants' tusks are brought down to the African coasts by carayans generally in charge of Arabs, which have been trading in the interior. Very often they have picked up slaves as well as ivory. But this phase of the matter may be left out of the account.

It is estimated that every large caravan bringing ivory to the coast has cost more than 160 human lives through fights and murders in the course of the expedition. Thirty more men are likely to have succumbed to fevers or other diseases and the fatigues of the march.

The hunting of the elephants and the capture of the ivory are very likely to have caused the death of 10 men altogether. Such casualties are the rule in elephant hunting rather than the exception.

An average tusk does not furnish more than enough material for two good billiard balls. Of course the remainder of the ivory in each tusk is made use of in other ways. A perfectly cut billiard ball requires special quality or so called "nerve," which is found only in one part of the tusk.

The chances are that a billiard ball of the first quality has cost at least one human life, and there is not one such ball which may not truly be said to be stained with human blood. They can hardly be considered, therefore, a cheerful accompaniment to a sensitive person's diversions.—Youth's Companion.

An Anecdote of Justice Fuller.

The chairman of the lecture committee in Oldtown, Me., told me that he once belonged to a debating club of which the chief justice, when a boy, was a member. One evening "Capital Punishment" was the subject debated. The deacon of the church and two clergymen were for hanging. Young Fuller was opposed.

Said the deacon, quoting from the Mosaic law, "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man his blood shall be shed." Thinking this to be a bombshell to his opponents, he dwelt upon it till his time had expired, when the boy sprang to his feet and said:

"Supposing we take the law which the gentleman has quoted and see what the logical deduction would come to. For example, one man kills another; another man kills him, and so on until we come to the last man on earth. Who's going to kill him? He dare not commit suicide, for the same law forbids it. Now, deacon," continued the boy, "what are you going to do with the last man?" [Laughter.]

The boy's logic called out rounds of applause and vanquished the deacon.—New York Advertiser.

Dreams of Authors.

Who would imagine that the actual sleeping dream of an author could be used as literary material—part of his mental stock in trade? But this has been so.

They are of little use for consecutive narrative, although I have been told that Mrs. Southworth derived the plots of some of her stories from suggestions of her dreams. As a rule dreams furnish only situations or impressions which are likely to be both subtle and intense. Who does not remember some haunting melody of his dreams whose sweetness moved him to tears, some glimmering landscape, some strange and weird journeying or faces that suddenly appeared and as suddenly vanished in this quaint borderland of the mind?

"Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" came, it is said, from Mr. Stevenson's dream people, and the intensity of the impression produced by this fantastic creation would suggest such an origin. But no moral sense exists in the irresponsible region of sleep, so that the graver and deeper lesson which the thoughtful reader must draw from Mr. Stevenson's pages must have been evolved in his waking moments.—Kate Field's Washington.

An Odd Form of Courtship.

Mr. Mortimer Menpes, the artist, traveling in the east in search of subjects, has come upon a curious form of courtship. Sketching one day in Burmah, he noticed a man a little distance off glaring fiercely straight ahead of him at some object he could not see from his position. The man sat with the same fixed glare the whole afternoon and was at it again next morning. Mr. Menpes had the curiosity to ask an English visitor what it meant. The reply was, "Oh, he is in love!" And it was explained that this was their method of courtship.

The object of the man's attentive gaze was a girl in a neighboring bazaar. When a young man falls in love, he has to seat himself at a certain distance from his adored one and wait for her to do the rest. If she looks in his direction once or twice on the first or second day, he is wildly encouraged, and if on the third day she nods to him and smiles it is time to go to the parents with reference to the marriage settlements.—London Tit-Bits.

The Medical Profession.

Every new treatment, every fresh drug, every medicine that is discovered is one more drop from the great ocean of knowledge segregated that we may study it for the benefit of mankind. In it there are good and evil, but if we approach it with reverent earnestness and study that we may know we can assure ourselves that we are helping on the great science to which we have devoted our lives. This is reward enough, and this reward shall surely come to the physician who will work. The amelioration of the physical ills of man is the end and aim of our most noble profession, and it is pleasant to remember that even the enthusiasts aid in the great work by their devotion to their fads.—Cyrus Edson, M. D., in North American Review.

Mrs. Kendal's Views.

In a recent interview Mrs. Kendal, the English actress, was asked, "Have you any special views on the subject of the education of children?" "Of course I have," came the reply. "Could a mother help thinking very, very seriously upon a subject of such vital importance to the future of her children?" When the reader gets thus far, he feels that the mountain is trembling—and this is the small mouse that creeps forth. "I have always felt that a great mistake is made in consigning children to the care of a resident governess." With which trite commonplace Mrs. Kendal's "views" begin and end.—New York Times.

Double Consciousness.

The phenomenon of double consciousness so skillfully used in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" is by no means uncommon. Many mysterious disappearances are by it accounted for in a manner wholly consistent with the innocence of the missing one, and even with his apparent sanity. A very singular recent case was that of a western judge who went away from home while deranged from overwork and became a day laborer under another name.—New York Recorder.

Ready For the Building.

"Hello!" said a Chicago man as he stood near the Washington monument. "That's a pretty good elevator shaft. I wonder when they are going to put up the rest of the building."—Youth's Companion.

A Million Frinds.

A friend in need is a friend indeed, and not less than one million people have found just such a friend in Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs, and Colds.—If you have never used this Great Cough Medicine, one trial will convince you that it has wonderful curative powers in all diseases of Throat, Chest and Lungs. Each bottle is guaranteed to do all that is claimed or money will be refunded. Trial bottles free at M. A. Toulson's Drug Store. Large bottles 50c. and $1.00.

Deserving Praise.

We desire to say to our citizens, that for years we have been selling Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Dr. Kings New Life Pills, Bucklen's Arnica Salve and Electric Bitters, and have never handled remedies that sell as well, or that have given such universal satisfaction. We do not hesitate to guarantee them every time, and we stand ready to refund the purchase price, if satisfactory results do not follow their use. These remedies have won their great popularity purely on their merits M. A. Toulson, Druggist.

A Well-Known Hotel Man.

For six years I suffered with indigestion and dyspepsia, lost a considerable in weight and felt miserable most of the time. I tried a number of doctors and many of the remedies for those troubles, without receiving any material benefit, until I was persuaded to use Dr. Deane's Dyspepsia Pills, which are a wonderful remedy for those ailments, as they completely cured me after two-month's use.

Navigation on the Nile.

From the beginning of winter to the end of spring—that is, while the Nile is navigable—the north wind blows steadily up stream with sufficient force to drive sailing boats against the current at a fair pace, while, on the other hand, the current is strong enough to carry a boat without sails down against the wind, except when it blows a gale. That is why ancient Egypt did not need steam power nor electric motors for the immense commerce that covered the Nile, nor for the barges carrying building material for hundreds of miles.—Harper's Young People.

Peeling an Orange.

If one wants to peel an orange, all that is necessary to be done is to cut with a knife a very small circle around the stem end, and then mark dividing lines from the stem to the summit—at points on the surface of the orange. The skin can then be drawn off just as easily as one may draw a finger from a glove.—Exchange.

Proclamation by the Governor.

STATE OF MARYLAND,
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

WHEREAS, Section one of Article fourteen of the Constitution of Maryland makes it the duty of the Governor to order the publication in certain newspapers to be designated by him, of any bill, or bills passed proposing any amendments to the said Constitution; and

WHEREAS, at the January Session, 1892, of the General Assembly of Maryland, a bill passed proposing an amendment to the Constitution, which amendment is Chapter 313 of the Acts of 1892, and is as follows, to wit:

CHAPTER 343.

AN ACT to add an additional section to Article four of the Constitution of this State.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, Three-fifths of all the members of the two houses concurring, that the following section be, and the same is hereby proposed, as an amendment to the Constitution of this State; and if adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof, as herein provided, the same shall supercede and stand in the place of Section thirty-nine of Article four of said Constitution.

SEC. 39. The General Assembly shall, as often as it may think the same proper and expedient, provide by law for the election of an additional Judge of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore city, and whenever provision is so made by the General Assembly, there shall be elected by the voters of the said city another Judge of the Supreme Bench of Baltimore city, who shall be subject to the same Constitutional provisions, hold his office for the same term of years, receive the same compensation, and have the same powers as are, or shall be provided by the Constitution, or laws of this State, for the Judges of said Supreme Bench of Baltimore city, and the General Assembly may provide by laws, or the Supreme Bench by its rules, for requiring causes in any of the courts of Baltimore city to be tried before the Court without a jury, unless the litigants or some one of them shall within some reasonable time or times, as may be prescribed, elect to have their causes tried before a jury. And the General Assembly may reapportion, change or enlarge the jurisdiction of the several courts in said city.

SEC. 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the foregoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution shall be, at the next general election to be held in this State, submitted to the legal and qualified voters thereof for their adoption or rejection in pursuance of the direction contained in Article fourteen of the Constitution of this State; and at the said general election the vote on said proposed amendment to the Constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be written or printed the words "For the Constitutional Amendment." or "Against the Constitutional Amendment," as the voter may elect, and immediately after said election due returns shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment, as directed by said fourteenth Article of the Constitution.

Approved April 4th, 1892.

WE HEREBY CERTIFY that the aforegoing is a correct copy of an act of the General Assembly of Maryland, passed January Session, 1892.

W. G. PURNELL,
Secretary of the Senate.
CARLTON SHAFER,
Chief Clerk of the House of Delegates.

Now, therefore, I, Frank Brown, Governor of Maryland, do hereby order and direct that the said hereinbefore described bill or Act of the General Assembly, proposing an amendment to the Constitution of Maryland, be published once a week for at least three months in two newspapers published in each county in this State, if so many are therein published, and in three newspapers in the city of Baltimore, before the next ensuing general election, will be held on Tuesday, the seventh day of November, 1893; at which said election the proposed amendment aforesaid will be submitted to the legal and qualified voters of Maryland for adoption or rejection.

THE GREAT SEAL OF MARYLAND.

Given under my hand and the Great Seal of Maryland, at the city Annapolis, on the 19th day of July, in the year of Our Lord, eighteen hundred and ninety-three, and of the Independence of the United States, the one hundred and seventeenth.

Wall Paper!

CHEAPER THAN LIME

IF YOU HANG THE PAPER YOURSELF.

Our "GUIDE" tells you everything, what to do and how to do it. The labor alone would cost you for one room from $2.00 to $2.50 then why not do it yourself and save that much. Try it, you will be more than pleased.

We'll Sell You the Paper Cheaper than you can buy it anywhere else and give you our "GUIDE" free.

Our CURTAIN POLES and WINDOW SHADES are the LOWEST in PRICE.

Please bear this in mind: If you desire a PAPER HANGER we have the BEST in Kent, who will go anywhere when you say the word.
