WEDDING NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Hudson, of Dagsboro, Del., announce the marriage of their daughter, Mildred M., to Mr. D. Granville McCauley, son of Mrs. Eva McCauley, of Galena, Md. The wedding occured at Milford, Del., Dec. 16th.

GITT—CLARKE.

The Chestertown Methodist Episcopal Church was crowded from pulpit to door Saturday evening with an interested audience to witness what proved to be the most unique and the most novel wedding ceremony ever seen in this sacred edifice. The principals to this occasion were Miss Daisy Beatrice Clarke, the accomplished daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. Frank Clarke, and Mr. Earle Gitt, formerly with Mr. H. B. Rote, but now employed in the jewelry business at Charlestown, W. Va. Deft hands had tastefully trimmed the church with potted plants and evergreens and at the appointed hour, 8 o'clock, the wedding party approached the altar. Up either side of the church there gracefully and slowly marched a bridesmaid and an usher singly until all had entered with measured tread and took their places in front of the chancel. By this means it required a half hour for all the party to take their places, thus affording an unobstructed and beautiful view.

Upon reaching the altar they were met by Rev. T. F. Beauchamp, pastor of the church, and just before he began the ceremony that sweet and melodious voice of Miss Helen Boyd sang with emphasis the song, "Beloved, it is Morn." Miss Boyd wore yellow satin with silver and blue tulle and carnations. Then followed the ceremony, during which Miss Mabel Toulson, organist, and Mr. T. Kemp Bordley, violinist, in a most entrancing manner rendered softly the "Wedding Bells." Miss Toulson wore cerise Georgette crepe with black trimmings and sweet peas.

The bride and maid of honor, with the bevy of pretty bridesmaids all dressed in bewitching costumes, made a veritable "Rainbow," and it was from this novel dressing the name was taken. The bride wore white satin charmeuse, Georgette crepe trimming, high point veil of tulle and carried bride's roses. Her sister, Miss Ruth, was maid of honor, and was robed in pale green satin, with silver lace and pink satin, and carried a small basket of flowers. First of the bridesmaids came Miss Ida Smith, wearing turquoise blue satin charmeuse, opalescent and tulle trimmings; Miss Marion Horn, of Wilmington, gold satin, with silver and tulle trimmings; Miss Grace Newnam, pink satin, with silver and Georgette crepe; Miss Anna Jones, of Lynch, pink satin, with tulle and silver trimmings; Miss Hazel Crew, of Betterton, yellow satin, with gold and tulle trimmings; Miss Bernice Clymo, of Dover, turquoise blue satin, with opalescent and tulle. Each carried carnations of different hue and all costumes were decollette.

The groom was accompanied by Mr. Thomas W. Perkins, of Chestertown, who acted as best man, both being in evening dress. The ushers, Messrs. Robert Moffett, H. L. Lemon, Philip Kratzer, Wm. H. Elliott, of Chestertown; Lee Mont Brown and Richard D. Marstella, of Charlestown, W. Va., were also attired in evening dress.

After the wedding a splendid reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, on Kent Circle, at which about 50 were present. At about 10 30 the bride and groom left by auto for their honeymoon to visit Northern cities and will be at home in Charlestown, W. Va., after February 1. The bride's traveling suit was purple velour with hat to match, steel shoes and gloves.

The presents included a purse of gold from the Kent County Savings Bank, silver, linen, candlesticks, cut glass, &c.

Mr. and Mrs. Gitt, of Hanover, Pa., parents of the groom, were present at the wedding.

ROBINSON—PHILLIPS.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. James K. Phillips, in Seaford, Monday morning, Miss Elsie F., their daughter, and R. Clyde Robinson, of Millington, were married. The wedding march was played by Miss Margaret Wright, of Wilmington. After the ceremony, performed by Rev. John J. Bunting of the Methodist Episcopal Church, the couple left for an extended trip south. They will live with Mr. and Mrs. Jesse F. Lears, on Cannon street, Bridgeville.

CHANCE—MOFFETT

The wedding of Miss Ella Moffett, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Jones and Adolphus Chance, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Chance, took place Sundey evening at the home of the bride's grandparents, 522 N. Schroeder st., Balto. The Rev Benfer performing the ceremony. The bride who was given in marriage by her grandparents wore a dress of white carry bride roses. The groom was attired in a blue serge suit.

Miss Louise Chance was maid of honor wearing a steel colored dress and carried pink rose buds.

Mr. Vickers Moffett was best man. The home was beautifully decorated in palms. Miss Sallie Jones rendered the wedding march. A reception followed the wedding which was only attended by members of both families.
