MANY HORSES DIE RESULT OF POISON

On the farm of Mrs. Alice Woodall, of Georgetown, in Grove Neck, five miles south of Cecilton, Md., twelve horses have died within a week from forage poisoning. They were all less than 7 years old, and were worth on an average of $200 each. Three other horses are very sick and expected to die. Dr. Harrison B. McDowell, the attending veterinarian, attributes the disease to some fungus in the feed the horses have been eating.

The disease appeared among the horses about two weeks ago, and was at first noticed by the horses dropping their feed, indicating paralysis of the throat. This was followed by a general paralysis within 48 hours, and in each case death soon followed.

The disease so far has been confined to the one farm, and samples of all the forage on the farm have been collected, and will be taken to Washington for analysis by Dr. McDowell.

FOR SALE

Anyone in need of a good safe HORSE to work or drive can easily get suited by calling at my place. I have a fine stable of horses and will sell anything I have at a reasonable figure. Am overstocked and must dispose of something.

Top Dress Your Wheat and Grass

It is the experience of a great many farmers who have top dressed Wheat with a special top dresser Fertilizer, that it not only makes a larger yield, but produces a better quality af grain and insures a good catch of grass and clover.

The readily available plant food in our top dresser Fertilizer gives the young Wheat a splendid start and enables it to send out strong vigorous roots and the increased yield in consequence is marvelous.

We are manufacturing for this purpose a Special Top Dresser Fertilizer that contains some Nitrate of Soda, Fish and Dissolved Bone, the price of which is $26 per ton and an application of 150 lbs. to the acre would only cost about $2 the acre the result of which would prove to be eminently satisfactory.

A few years ago one of our customers claimed that an increased yield from an application of 200 lbs. was thirteen bushels more Wheat and when you think of the present price of Wheat, it certainly would pay handsomely. Mr. James T. Dixon always top dresses his hay crop and says that it certainly pays him.

If therefore you want a substantial and profitable increase in the yield of your Wheat, or to greatly increase your Hay crop, be sure to apply some of our Top Dresser as early as possible in February.

Yours respectfully,

THE PEERLESS FERTILIZER CO.

CHAMPIONS OF THE STATE

Washington College Can Be Proud of Basketball Honors—Got Title By Hard Work—St. Johns and Loyola Fought to Very End.

Washington College is proud of its basketball team, which cleaned up all the other state college quints and won a title which has not the semblance of a cloud upon it. She has the right to feel proud, for both Loyola College and St. John's had fast clever teams which fought valiantly for the championship.

Wise old sport lovers shook their heads when Washington agreed to settle her dispute with St. John's by staging the rubber game of the series on a neutral floor in Baltimore. They said that Coach Tom Kibler must know that he had the better team. On Friday night the Chestertown basketers went to Baltimore, engaged the Annapolitans on the floor of the Central Young Men's Christian Association and won, 20 to 17.

They deserved the victory, because they put up a better article of basketball, despite the fact that the court there is more like St. John's than Washington's. Then, too, they played with the sharp eyes of the Loyola players upon them. The Blue and Gold athletes felt they surely had a chance to land the championship, because they knew their rival's style of play and also realized that the Washington crew would be tired after the strenuous battle given them by the Cadets.

But the Eastern Shore experts did not worry about their secrets or their strength. They beat Loyola 34 to 20, but it was not until Coach Kibler pulled his clever bit of strategy that Washington began to show superior form against the Baltimoreans. The teams looked too much alike at the opening of the contest, Washington wearing white jerseys and Loyola light blue. Kibler saw his teamwork going to the bad because his players had no marks to throw to, so he stopped the game, had the men put on their maroon jerseys and it was all over but the shouting.

A banquet was given the basket ball team last night at the Eastern Shore Inn, at which about 75 were present.

A CASE for violation of the School Attendance law was tried March 7 at Galena. The delinquent parent was ordered to pay a fine and costs.
