SATURDAY, MAY 5, 1917.

LET "SAFETY FIRST" be the motto and practice of all autoists in Kent. Time is valuable but life is more so.

THE accident at Kennedyville crossing is a warning to every autoist. Be sure you're right, then go ahead. Make haste slowly.

OUR chicken fanciers and raisers may help in the conservation of food in a most efficient way by keeping their fowls off the many gardens and plots of ground now seeded with valuable crops A good rule to follow would be the Golden Rule.

WE can see no reason why Teddy should not be allowed to take his army of volunteers to the front either in France or Germany. It is just such men as Teddy who inspire enthusiasm and bring victories in battle. Let Mr. Bryan raise his army also and go wherever they can be of service. This is a Democracy and room for all to win fame and glory.

GREAT CARE should be exercised when the extra session of the Legislature is convened to see that only such legislation as is absolutely necessary for the exigencies of the occasion demands. Extra sessions of the Legislature are always dangerous unless surrounded by the most sagacious leadership, and especially is this true in times like the present. People are so apt to be swept off their feet by what they term patriotism and rushed to have unjust and unpatriotic legislation passed under stress that it takes the most expert leadership to keep the special session from doing more damage than good. Great care should be exercised in the amount of money appropriated for war purposes, as fat treasures always lead to extravagance and waste. Maryland is in no position to throw away money at the present time, as taxes are bearing very heavily on our people, and are likely to grow as the war progresses and living expenses increase. It is, therefore, to be hoped that great care will exercised by those having charge of the work to be done at this special session to see that economy shall be the password in all the business transacted at Annapolis. The Democratic managers should not forget the fact that they will be held responsible by the taxpayers for any extravagance which may creep into the legislation to be enacted at this special session.

LEGISLATURE TO MEET SOON

Gov. Harrington will likely call an extra session of the Legislature May 15th The bills to be introduced include one for a State loan of $2 000 000 or whatever sum the Legislature may deem requisite, a bill for the formation and payment of a home guard to take the place of the militia, after it is all in the Federal service; one to give the Governor power to declare bank holidays in case of emergency, giving authority to suspend for a period the compulsory school attendance law in certain circumstances, one suspending actions for debt against members of the National Guard while they are out of the State, and one to extend the statute of limitations for a similar purpose.

There is, it is understood, a bill to provide for the payment of dependent families of Guardsmen, but it is doubtful if this will be pushed because of the determination of the Federal Government to take no men with dependent families and also to raise the pay of the army in war times from $15 to $30 per month. This will take a burden off the State.

There will be other bills relating to farm labor, to deal with idlers and to conserve the public interests in various ways.

Of course, it is not to be expected that the special session will be a tea party. The Governor thinks it can get through in four or five days—others think it can, but will not.

CLEAN UP YOUR HOUSE!

Health Department Says That Now Is The Time.

The Health Department in a bulletin has called the attention of the people of Baltimore to the necessity of cleaning up and disposing of at an early date all the accumulations of rubbish, dirt, ashes paper, rags and bottles in their houses, cellars, yards and vacant lots. Fortunately the Baltimore people in general have a high regardfor cleanliness, but unfortunately in certain localities, the love of cleanliness is not as strong as it should be. The health wardens and other officials of the Health Department and the police are to keep a sharp lookout for dirt of all kinds.

The law gives the Health Commissioner broad powers in the matter of nuisances, and these will be exercised to the fullest extent. While active co-operation on the part of all citizens is desired and expected, the department particularly depends upon the influence and example of improvement associations, women's clubs, the Women's Civic League, religious organizations, Boy Scouts, etc.

Complaints of dirt and unhealthy conditions should be made in writing or by telephone to the complaint clerk, Health Department. The above is applicable to Chestertown and every village and farm in Kent also.

FROM 21 TO 27 YEARS IN THE FIRST DRAFT

LINING UP FOR REAL SERVICE WITHIN TWO WEEKS

SELECTED LIKE JURIES

Sheriffs in Baltimore City and in the Several Counties Will Summon the Young Men to Colors—About One-half of the First Allotment Will Have to Don Their Uniforms and Shoulder Rifles—The Process of Selection.

With the passage of the selective draft bill Maryland will be called upon to furnish 7,000 men for the first army of 500,000, and of this number Kent county must provide about 100. This means that it will be necessary for 200 Kent young men to undergo an examination as to fitness.

In accordance with the federal plan, which will be enacted into law this week, the first call will be for young men from 21 to 27 years of age. The call to those beyond 27 years of age will come as emergencies may demand. The men will be summoned by sheriffs of the several counties in a manner similar to that employed in selecting juries. This will be the registration stage. While a thousand men might be called in one county, only 500 would actually be required to don uniforms, shoulder rifles and get ready to go into camp.

With the setting of a registration day throughout Maryland Governor Harrington expects that this will be preceded by a general proclamation commanding all men within the military age limits to appear at their several registration and polling place on the specified day and register. Regular election officers in each precinct will act. A heavy penalty will be provided for all who disobey the order.

Just how soon the actual drawing of lots and the drafting will take place has not been decided, but Governor Harrington believes several months may elapse before the next move. When the date for the latter is decided upon each state will be notified of the quota of men to be drafted and these totals will be sub-divided among the various units, for example, among the 23 counties of the state and Baltimore city.

This drafting will have no bearing on the work of raising the Maryland National Guard to war strength. The latter has not yet been authorized, but Adjutant General Warfield believes such an order will soon follow the passage of the drafting bill. Maryland is already equipped with the necessary machinery to draft men for National Guard service if necessary, and it is estimated that about 5,000 men will be necessary to bring the ranks up to its full strength. In addition to this number Maryland will be alloted about 7,040 men to raise for service in the half million men army and additional drives will be made for about 2,500 volunteers for the regular army of 270,000 and for additional numbers for the Navy and Marine Corps service.

With the new regiments assembled, a rigorous course of training will be undertaken. The officers' training camp to be established within a few days in each district will begin, at the end of three months pouring new officers into this organization and the enlisted men selected from the ranks of the regulars for commissions will be given special instructions to fit them for officers. Until the army of young men presents itself at the camps in August or September, the regulars and guardsmen also will pursue a vigorous course of training.

The plans call for the transfer to the first 500 000 men obtained by draft of from 150 000 to 200,000 non-commissioned officers trained in the regular and National Guard regiments. It is here that the opportunity lies for men in the ranks of the two services. On them, War Department, officials believe, even to a greater extent than upon the commissioned officers, will depend the efficiency of the new armies. The backbone of any military organization is its non-commissioned force, and in the months that precede the calling out of the first 500 000 officers of the General Staff hope, there will be found in the ranks of the regulars and guardsmen such a supply of men competent for these positions that the future of the later armies will be assured beyond doubt.

While definite ascendency over the German war machine has been established by the Allied forces in France, both in personnel and equipment and eventually victory is in sight, many months of bitter fighting are still ahead.

NOTED CHESTER BRIDGE

A New Concrete Structure to be Built Across The Chester—Location a Bone of Contention—Some Facts From History of Kent

Chester Bridge which spans Chester River, was begun in 1802 by the following committee; Robert Wright, Benjamin Chambers, Samuel Chew, William McKenney and Richard Tilghman, of Chestertown; James Brown, William Chambers, R. E. Harrison, Charles Vanderen and W. B. Hackett, of Queen Anne's, S. Betz, Thomas S. Burgess and Richard Frisby were afterwards named to fill vacancies. Chapter 76 of 1821 states that the bridge has been actually built and authorized a lottery to be drawn to reimburse those who erected it by private subscriptions. It was built by William Vannort, of Trenton, N. J., the grandfather of Col. William J. Vannort, Samuel Vannort and Mrs. J. H. Simpers. Mr. Vannort fell into the river the day it was completed and died a few days later from pleurisy. The stock of the company was put at $40,000, at $50 per share. The bridge was afterwards burned, the drawer changed and the whole rebuilt by lottery. In July, 1890, the bridge was purchased by the two counties of Kent and Queen Anne's for $11,400, and made free, it being previous to that time a toll bridge. As high as 500 teams crossed this bridge in one day during 1895. Cupid has found many a victim on this structure.

As for fishing, this bridge is sometimes lined with white and colored anglers, and some fine rock, perch and catfish have been caught. In earlier years, when wild game was more plentiful than now, this was a favorite place from which local sportsmen brought down wild ducks.

It was over this bridge that many of the shows came to town, and many remember when the proprietors of a large circus made the elephant swim the river because of the reported unsafe condition of the bridge.

The State Roads Commission took over this bridge in 1914 and propose to replace it with a magnificent concrete structure, it being a part of the improved macadam road which has been built by the State from the Pennsylvania line clear through to Ocean City.

Chester River.

BY GEORGE ALFRED TOWNSEND.

Wise is the wild duck winging straight to thee,
River of summer; from the cold Arctic sea.
Coming like his fathers for centuries, to seek
The sweet, salt pastures of the far Chesapeake.
Swift 'twixt thy capes like sunset's purple coves,
Shallow the channel glides through silent oyster groves,
Round Kent's ancient isle by beeches brown,
Cleaving the fruity farms to hustling Chestertown.
Still like thy water-fowl yearly do I yearn
In memory's migration once more to return,
Where the dear old college from the gentle ridge
O'erlooks the sunny village, the river and bridge.
On the pier decrepit I do loiter yet,
With my crafty crab lines and my homespun net,
Till the silver fishes in pools of twilight swam,
And stars played round my bait in the coves of calm.
Sweet were the chinquapins growing by the brink,
Sweet the cool spring water in the gourd to drink.
Beautiful the lilies when the tide declined,
As if night receding had left some stars behind.
But when the peach tints vanished from the plain
Or struggled no longer the shad against the seine,
Every reed in thy marsh unto music stirred,
And to gold it blossomed in a singing bird.
Silent the otter, stealing by the moon
Through the marshy places, hears the howl of the loon;
Motionless the setter in the daylight gray,
Shows the happy hidden cove where the wild ducks play.
Homely are thy boatmen, venturing no more
In their dusky punjies than to Baltimore,
Happy when the freshet from northern mountain sweeps,
And strews the bay with lumber like wrecks upon the deep.
From the mightier Empire of the solid land,
A pilgrim infrequent I seek thy fertile strand,
And with a calm affection would wish my grave to be
Where falls the Chester to the bay, the bay unto the sea.

SUFFRAGE NEWS

Quite an interesting meeting of the Just Government League of Kent county was held on Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Lewis H. Wood, on Water street.

Miss Lucy Branham, State Organizer, was present and told of plans for the quarterly convention of the State Just Government League, which will take place on the Eastern Shore. The immediate work to be done by the League, she says, is the securing of the passage of the Partial Suffrage Bill at the special session of the Maryland Legislature, which bill includes Presidential, Congressional, Municipal and Primary Suffrage. This partial suffrage can be granted by direct vote of the Legislature, without referring it to the voters for ratification.

President Wilson said in his recent speech before Congress: "We shall fight for the things which we have always nearest our hearts—for Democracy, for the right of those who submit to authority to have a voice in their own governments." In a letter to Mrs. Donald R. Hooker, President of the Just Government League of Maryland, Mr. Wilson says that "he hopes with all his heart that the Maryland Suffrage Bill will pass." On March 3rd he sent a telegram to the Senate of Tennessee urging them to reconsider their vote upon the suffrage bill, which had been rejected, with this explanation: "Our party is so distinctly pledged to Woman Suffrage that it seems to me the moral obligation is complete." Because of this fact about 40 Maryland women visited Washington last week petitioning by resolutions that the President use his influence with the Maryland Legislature at its special session in May.

Among the things accomplished by the Kent branch of the J. G. L. during the past week was the securing of the passage of resolutions by the Rock Hall Grange, by the Kent Pomona Grange, and by the Chestertown W. C. T. U., endorsing the suffrage bill to be presented at the special session of the Maryland Legislature. These resolutions will be sent to the Governor and the Kent delegates.

The following officers were elected:

President—Mrs. Lewis H. Wood.
Vice-President—Mrs. Herbert E. Perkins.
Cor. secretary—Mrs. Fred. G. Usilton.
Rec Secretary—Miss Louisa Urie.
Treasurer—Mrs. C. N. Satterfield.

Committees appointed were as follows:

Literature and Membership—Miss Ethel Price.
Legislature—Mrs. P. A. M. Brooks and Mrs. Lewis H. Wood.
Publicity—Mrs. D. B. Ford and Mrs. W. Frank Jarrell.

It was decided that regular meetings should be held on the first Tuesday evening of each month, the June meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Herbert E. Perkins.

To the Farmers of this County

Last year we advised you to raise White Corn. All who did so have profited more than by any other crop.

The demand for Hominy, Grits, Meal and Corn Flour made from white corn both for home and foreign consumption is increasing every day.

Europeans have discovered that white corn produces the cheapest nourishing food for their armies and citizens. We predict a demand next season that will give every farmer a good price for corn and fair premium for White Corn.

Do not overlook this opportunity—plant every available acre in white corn as we can assure you a ready cash market. This season our mill bought every bushel of white corn for sale on this market.
