PAINS SHARP AND STABBING

Woman Thought She Would Die. Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Ogdensburg, Wis.—"I suffered from female troubles which caused piercing pains like a knife through my back and side. I finally lost all my strength so I had to go to bed. The doctor advised an operation but I would not listen to it. I thought of what I had read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and tried it. The first bottle brought great relief and six bottles have entirely cured me. All women who have female trouble of any kind should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. ETTA DORION, Ogdensburg, Wis.

Physicians undoubtedly did their best, battled with this case steadily and could do no more, but often the most scientific treatment is surpassed by the medicinal properties of the good old fashioned roots and herbs contained in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If any complication exists it pays to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. Lynn, Mass., for special free advice.

GIVES IDEA OF WAR'S MAGNITUDE

Big Items in Five Billion Dollar Deficiency Bill—Surprise for Congressmen—The Needs of All Branches of the Service.

The Congress of these United States, which has frequently been accused of acting as if it did not know the country is engaged in the world war, is due to "wise up" when it tackles the five billion dollar urgent deficiency bill.

This statement is based on the study congressmen are making of the 1,000-page report of the Appropriations Committee, which is made up almost entirely of military information. The committee presented with the bill a report on the hearings it held with army officers, going into detail on the most minute requests for money.

If any congressman had any doubt about the war or its magnitude the doubt was certainly jarred by the tremendous estimates. Here, for instance, is one:

General Squier asked for $3,000,000 more for the signal service, having already had $1,000,000 in the army bill and $3,817,766 in the June urgent deficiencies bill. The total of $7,817,766 is needed to provide motor cycles, telephones, telegraph instruments, etc., for the forces in France.

If that does not convince the congressmen that war is on, this item may:

Thirteen million one hundred and fifty thousand dollars for medicines, antiseptics, disinfectants and surgical dressings. Or, to take another instance from the Hospital Corps' budget, $6,840,000 for accessories and spare parts for motor ambulances. Or still another, $23,000,000 for gas masks and trench sprayers.

Runs Into Big Figures

Motoring congressmen will get a good idea of the size of the war job when they note that Colonel Fisher, of the staff of Surgeon General Gorgas, may have to ask for $8,000,000 worth of auto tires for the ambulances.

General Gorgas, discussing hospital beds, told the committee England maintains 1,000,000 beds and France 650,000, and that he would want beds for 28 per cent. of the American forces, or about 650,000.

Transportation costs give another sidelight on the war problem. General Sharpe, of the Quartermaster Corps, had already received $16,000,000 in the army bill and $221,963,745 in the June deficiencies measure. He asked for $450,490,305 in the new budget. His figures were based on an average transportation cost of $86 50 per man in the total army strength of 2,033,000, and were to cover all transportation of all these men up to June 30, 1918

The quartermaster asked for 60 machine shop trucks costing $7 500 each to be used only in cruising around among all the other trucks and supplying them with spare parts, making repairs, etc. These trucks are designed to serve some 31,308 other trucks, which are to cost Uncle Sam about $125,000,

Officers travel almost entirely by motor nowadays, General Sharp told the committee, and use horses for exercise. He asked the committee for 4,310 touring cars and 1,310 runabouts.

General Sharp had about 61,000 animals, but the Army estimate will require no less than 102 534 riding horses and 358,705 artillery horses. The riding nags were estimated at $180 and the others at $195 each By the time 2 033,000 are in the field Uncle Sam will have spent $125,333 716 for horses, if prices do not rise in the meantime

For Draft Army.

General Crowder, father of the conscript army of 687,000, appeared before the Appropriation Committee to ask for $6,002,067 for the draft, the report shows. Chairman Fitzgerald called attention to the fact that the draft was almost completed and that he had already had $2,658,413 General Crowder pointed out that he still had appeal boards to pay all over the United States, with expenses of mobilization, etc. General Crowder produced some interesting figures on the relative cost of raising armies. In the Civil War, with the states doing the work, it cost about $34 per volunteer to raise an army. It has been costing the regular Army about $18 per man to get recruits, he said, whereas through the draft the cost per man was only $9.94. He hopes to get the cost per man down to $5 under the selective service system.

Congressmen in the newspaper business and all users of white paper will get an idea of General Crowder's part of the war job when they find he used up 400 tons of blank forms. His bill at the Government Printing Office was $100,000.

For War Prisoners.

Civil War veterans in Congress accustomed to thinking of an army as made up of infantry, cavalry, etc, will be very much surprised to find infantry is no longer infantry, and cavalry is no longer cavalry. Both are to be turned into walking artillery, if dollar signs mean anything. General Crozier asked the commission for $140 722 000 with which to buy machine guns. He had already received $70,000,000 for machine guns, making the total amount for this particular death dealing rifle $210,277,000

The committee was surprised to find in the budget this item:

Subsistence for prisoners of war—$12,775,000

One member of the committee declared that this, as an instance of being forearmed, beats any example of German efficiency he ever read about. It has been estimated the amount would subsist 200,000 prisoners. Chairman Fitzgerald remarked in effect that the Army could begin to worry about feeding prisoners when it had caught them. The item was lopped off the budget.
