Garments and Furs

Not merely garments and furs but choice of their respective kinds are shown here. Wool Coats, Plush Coats, Wool Suits, Wool Dresses, Silk Dresses, Dancing Frocks, Separate Skirts and Waists are all equally shown in a wide range of styles. Furs, whether secured from us or elsewhere, should come from some house in whom you have confidence, as fur selling is largely a matter of confidence here. STILL POND

The convention of the Epworth League of the Easton District held in Still Pond during the week was a notable success. Speakers of world-wide reputation, with glowing messages; discussions and helpful papers, music inspiring and beautiful, and fellowship strong and deep marked the sessions and gave deepened spiritual experience.

The Epworth League was lead Sunday evening by Mrs. W. L. Ford. Topic—"Christ's Yoke Made Easy."

A business and social meeting of the Epworth League was held on Thursday evening.

A meeting of the Red Cross unit was held Tuesday afternoon in the home of Mrs. William Medders.

Betterton Lodge No. 164, I. O. O. F. of Still Pond attended church at Betterton Sunday afternoon in a body. They certainly made a grand showing and we are sure made those that were not members feel as though they ought to be.

The Still Pond Hall Co. of the I. O. O. F. Inc. are about ready to start to build a new and up-to-date hall here. The contract calls for same to be completed by Xmas. This is something that has long been needed in our town, and we are sure there will be a great demand for its use. Good luck, boys.

A BELATED XMAS GIFT

We have heard a good joke on a certain well-known merchant of Chestertown that is too good to keep. This gentleman is very courteous and accommodating to everybody, but last week he was complaining to one of his customers of the very annoying habit some people had of leaving parcels of various kinds at his store with no address on them and occasionally failing to call and get them.

As an instance, he related how a very handsome cap and scarf had been left there last Christmas, and up to this time no one had appeared to claim it. To show the quality of the articles he produced them for the customers inspection They were enclosed in a neat box and consisted of a handsome cap and scarf to match. But in removing the articles from the box he lifted some tissue paper at the bottom (under which he had never looked before) and found a Christmas card from his sister wishing him a very merry Christmas!

It was then that it dawned upon him why no owner had appeared to claim the box, and there was a very, very funny look on his face as he said: "Well, it seems as if these things belong to me, after all."

HORSE FLESH SOLD IN NEW YORK

New York city has recently tackled the high cost of living problem by selling horse flesh. People who can no longer afford to pay from 36 to 40 cents a pound for the tenderloin and sirloin of beef may buy the same cuts of horse for from six to fifteen cents a pound. There is no doubt but that the nutritive value of horse flesh is very high, and, according to those who have experimented, the horse is a tasty animal, but people are distinctly prejudiced against eating him. Yet, it is pointed out by food authorities that the horse is a much cleaner and healthier animal than the cow. He eats clean food, usually lives in clean surroundings and is not subject to tuberculosis and other dangerous diseases that attack our standard meat animals. So far, there is only one establishment in New York selling horse flesh, but it is doing a tremendous business. The horses are slaughtered under the supervision of veterinarians connected with the department of health, members of which are also stationed on the premises while the meat is being sold.
