MONEY DESIGN CHANGED

The rearrangement of the stars, or rather the regrouping, on the face side of the silver quarter dollar pieces has caused many inquiries at the United States Subtreasury as to the genuineness of the coins.

Assistant Treasurer Charles B. Strecker said the design had been changed, for instead of there being six stars on one side of the eagle and seven on the other, there are now five on either side and three beneath the bird.

Still another change has been made in the manner of hairdressing for the Goddess of Liberty on the reverse side of the coin. The Psyche pug has loosened somewhat into a widow's lock, which gives the lady a more carelessly dressed appearance. Girls who are arbitors of style in hair dressing insist that the change was in conformity with the more modern style which indicates that the Treasury Department at Washington is on the job.
