SATURDAY, JUNE 22, 1918.

The News is proud of the colored citizens of Kent who gave the 45 drafted men such an enthusiastic and creditable send-off last Tuesday.

The deputy compulsory work officer of the State says that Kent is the most efficient county in the State in the enforcement of this law. The reason is because of alert officers, a diligent State's attorney and co-operation on the part of farmers.

A meeting of the business men and citizens of Chestertown is to be held at the office of Davis & Satterfield next Tuesday at 8 p. m., for the purpose of organizing for emergency farm help. Willard Mc.C Hillegeist, a specialist, is trying to bring all the labor possible into service and we should co-operate. Pocomoke City merchants are already on the job several days a week. Kent will do her part, we are sure.

GOOD WAR WORK

The Colored Preachers Of Kent Are Getting Busy In The Sale Of Thrift And War Savings Stamps

At a meeting in the Olivet M. E. Church (colored) near Galena, Monday night, Pastor Rev. T. E. Randall, a War Savings Society was organized and subscriptions to the amount of $1.000 were pledged. This was a fine start. Rev. Frank White, of Galena M. E. Church, (white) made an address and the Galena committee, Jas. D. Davis, Jr., Chairman, organized the meeting.

Other colored churches organized into War Saving Societies are Coleman's Union Church, Still Pond Mt. Zion, Morgnec, Chesterville, Fountain, Buttlertown and Melitota.

A meeting was held in Chestertown Friday afternoon of all the county ministers of the colored churches and plans mapped out for a complete organization of all the churches of the county. Howard Turner, County Director, Rev. T. F. Beauchamp, A. Parks Rasin and R. Hynson Rogers, Esq., were present. It is expected that $25,000 worth of Thrift and War Savings Stamps will be sold through these churches by November 1.

The ministers and their respective charges are located as follows: Revs. C. W. Moore, Millington; Harry Young, Golts; T. E. Randall, Galena; W. C. West, Sassafras; J. W. Price, Still Pond; W. C. Bowland, Coleman; W. H. Johns, Chestertown; C. B. Bailey, Chestertown; J. T. Bond, Worton; W. T. Doveron, Morgnec; S. A. Waters, Pomona; R. N. Davis, Melitota; C. W. Winder, Fairlee; G. R. Hollis, Rock Hall.

MISS STEWART INSTRUCTOR

A class in patriotic public speaking is to be introduced in the summer schools as a Maryland Council of Defense Class. At the schools at Ocean City, Frostburg and Hagerstown the teacher will be Miss Anne Rothwell Stewart, of Kent County. The Sunday Sun published a picture of Miss Stewart and the following article:

Miss Anne Rothwell Stewart is a Marylander and was born on the "Eastern Sho," coming from sturdy Scotch Irish stock. Her great grandfather's sword, which he used during the war of '12, is one of the treasured relics of her family. She was educated in the public schools of Kent, studied at Maryland College, and holds three diplomas from the School of Expression, Boston, where she studied for three years. In addition she has returned to Boston several times for post-graduate work. She has been honored by being made an Associate of the School of Expression, a compliment which has been extended by the school to only about 50 of its graduates.

Miss Stewart is well qualified for the work to be done in the patriotic propaganda courses, from the standpoint of practical platform experience as well as from that of the teacher. As secretary and organizer of one branch of the Woman's Section, Council of Defense, she served her prenticeship in Maryland and was then called into the national work, traveling and speaking through New England, the South and the great Northwest. She has also been abroad several times and is familiar with life on the other side. This experience taught her to know people in a way that perhaps does not come to the average teacher.

Under the Woman's Section, Maryland Council of Defense, Miss Stewart gave two courses to women last winter in patriotic public speaking, and in Allegany county quite recently she had a class of 22 women, which she left organized for the work before it.

Miss Stewart had charge of the Department of Expression at Maryland College several years ago during the temporary absence of its head; she was largely responsible for the organization of the Readers' Club of Baltimore, and for several years was leader of the vocal expression section of the Educational Society of Baltimore. She is a member of the Arundel Club, and prior to the war director of the dramatic sections of the Arundel and Gracchur Clubs.

NEWSY TIDINGS FROM OUR BOYS

The "News" Will Be Glad To Mention Any Items of Interest You May Send About Your Soldier Lad —Let's Help Each Other In This

John H. Ahern, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Ahern, of Millington, has sent word that he has arrived on the other side safe and sound. He is in the artillery branch of Uncle Sam.

Percy T. McFeely who is with the Y. M. C. A. in France writes to a friend in Chestertown "I am on the watch for any of our Maryland boys for we never know when we may meet some of them and if I should I want to be able to help them in whatever way they may need help. I have others on the watch so you can say to the mothers of our boys who are over here to inquire for me whenever near a Y. M. C. A. Canteen."

Private Walter Hickman, of Camp Meade, spent Sunday with relatives.

Lieut. Hope H. Barroll, Jr., has been appointed instructor in Field Artillery at Camp Jackson, S. C.

Corporal Frank Jarman, of Camp Meade, spent Sunday at home with his mother and sister.

William Sachs, who recently enlisted in the Naval Reserves, has received orders to report in Philadelphia, next Monday.

Colin F. Stam volunteered last week in the Naval Reserves and expects to be called in service in a few days. He registered in Washington for military service.

Private Walter Lewis, who trained at the rifle range at the Fifth Regiment Armory last winter and enlisted a month ago, has been sent to repairing auto trucks, near New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Brown, of Chestertown, received word recently that their son, Merritt Brown, had arrived safely in England. Mr. Brown has been transferred from the Ambulance Corps to the Ammunition Train.

Joseph R. Lambert has been placed in charge of the culinary department at Camp Meade.

William E. Tarbutton, son of Mr. Cooper Tarbutton, of Crumpton, graduated at the U. S. Naval Academy last week and is now at home for a few days, before reporting for active duty.

Editors of "Kent News:"

Camp life is better than I expected. While I know I am in a little different camp than a regular army camp, as we only have men here who have qualified for commissions. Then again they are men through and through. You never hear a cross word spoken among them and the commissioned officers are ready at all times to help you out. Every man is on his tip toes as our leaving times is determined upon our qualifications. I am told we will remain here from three to six weeks. Our squadron was the last to report therefor should be the last to leave, but as we only have a one-third of a squadron I believe we will not remain here over four weeks for we have already jumped from 13th to 10th place. The meals we get are fine and I will assure you we certainly do put the food some other place than on the table. The thermometer for the past two days stood at 115 degrees in the sun, but with all I feel better than I ever did. There were returned to this camp 400 commissioned aviators to be trained or taught military drill, etc. This was done because of that little speech of General Pershing, which goes as follows: If you men in command in America call the men (officers) that you are sending over to me I want no more. Now do not forget to send me the paper as I am still interested in all that goes on in dear old Kent. With best wishes I remain,

CADET J. H. CLENDANIEL, JR.,
13th Squadron, Camp Dick,
Dallas, Texas.

William S. Leaverton, of the Officers Training School, Camp Meade, visited his parents at Fairlee last week-end.

Private Edward E. Brown, of Camp Humphrey, Va., visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. E. Brown, of near town last Sunday.

Among the new Colonels recently promoted by President Wilson is Guy V. Henry, the Commander of Cadets at the United States Military Academy. Col. Henry is well-known in Chestertown, having married Miss Mary Rogers, sister to R. H. Rogers, Esq., and granddaughter of the late Richard Hynson.

Mrs. George E. Chaires received last week an interesting letter from her brother, Sergt. Walter E. Groff, who is with the American Forces in France:

Sergt. Groff who was attached to the regular army saw several years service on the Mexican border and was among the very first to go across seas. Among other things he says: I have been over the top and have had the Hun to come over on me a couple of times. Believe me, it looks all right in the movies but the real thing is not so healthy. It's all right when you get used to it, but the duce of it is you never get used to it. I was in the first fight in which the Americans took part, on the morning of November 3. There were three of our boys killed and eleven captured. I knew them all a long time. I have seen quite a few of my comrades bombed since then, and I have witnessed many sights that would make your blood run cold, but it makes mine run hot. You can get along fine with the French if you let them kiss you every five minutes. But take it from me, the "frog" is a good soldier. It is not easy to write over here. When you go 40 days without taking off your shoes or hat, living on one meal a night, dodging shot and shell and trying to hook a big juicy dutchman in his sauer-kraut department at the same time keeping him from kicking you in your bean basket, it is hard to find time to write. I am writing this from about 60 feet underground, count the blots and you can tell how many shells have bursted over us since I started writing.

Since arriving at Camp Lee, Va., Robert E. Jones has been promoted from captain to major and is now in command of a battalion of 150 officers and 1,000 enlisted men which are being trained to replace casualties in divisions overseas.

Private Albert Wheat has been made store-keeper at the Virginia camp and likes his job. He was home Sunday for a few hours.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Brown, of Pomona, heard from their son, Sergeant J. Randolph Brown, saying he was enjoying good health and in the Post Exchange. He sells everything from buttons up. He says the Red Cross are doing wonderful work; it is far reaching. It puts the back bone in the men to know the folks at home are working heart and hand for their comfort and pleasure. He says the marines are boss of the island and have it in perfect control. There is no prospect of him going across at this time.
