Electric Shock gave - - - Away Her Sex.

The force of telegraph linemen at Bridgeport, Conn., was increased about two weeks ago by a fellow named Chas. Morgan, who said he had experience, and when a trial was given to him showed that he was speaking the truth. He was of medium height and was built slenderly but strongly. He had dark curly hair a very handsome face, and personal habits and manners that suggested to his fellow-workers that he had "seen better days." He kept alof from them, but not in an objectionable way.

As far as the work was concerned he was the best man on the force. He was very regular, knew the business and could climb the polls without the spurs about as well as with them. One afternoon he climbed a pole in Fairfield avenue and was sitting on the cross trees making the repairs. He forgot and touched the trolley wire with one hand. Straightway the powerful current shot through his body. He dropped to the street like a stone, his right hand terribly burned. They thought he was dead but sent for the ambulance. He was taken to the Emergency Hospital and was laid upon the operating table. The pulse at the wrist was not noticeable and Dr. Brennan unfastened and threw back the shirt.

He jumped away in amazement and stared at the fine form laid out before him, at the peculiarly curving legs, to which were strapped the big iron spurs. Then he looked at the face—smooth, delicate. "Great Scott!" he said. "Send for one of the nurses! This is a woman!"

They tried all the quick remedies without bringing any signs of life. Then they stripped Charlie Morgan and threw her into an ice-bath. She revived a little at once, and in a few moments was recovered enough to realize that she had been fairly caught. The matron took charge of her, and as she rested she told her story.

"Oh, I've got to leave town," she said, laughing and shrugging her shoulders. "I'm caught. They'll discharge me if I don't quit. But there is plenty of other places. I'll just move on. I like the life and I'm going to stick to it."

The Thorough Woman.

Thoroughness would be a good onward cry for the advancing women—I say advancing with emphasis, for really the advanced women are not on hand in and considerable number.

To a large extent those who are to be of value when they arrive are holding back for good equipment.

They know that men require proper mental habiliment for the war of life, and the first rate women who expect to cope—not fight—with first rate men in the struggle of the world realize that they must be prepared to halt for repairs. And thoroughness is a mighty fine battle-axe.

Putting on a little veneer and pretending to know never deceives ourselves, and rarely any one else, save for a very short time. Life, like love, is a leveler, and if we live among folks they soon find out just how much we don't know, and the weak spots in our armor become the bulls-eyes for their shafts.

I tell you the trumpet blast of progress isn't "all cry and no wool!"—Polly Pog in N. Y. Recorder.

Cannot Reap the Benefit.

We well know in what spirit some affect to ignore and even to decry the value of the church. If a person never crosses the threshold of the house of God, yet there is a reflex influence which is of untold value to the individual; he cannot reap the entire benefits even if he performs the moral and spiritual obligations resting upon him.

The Darkest Days.

"The darkest day in any man's career is that when he fancies there is some easier way of getting a dollar than by squarely earning it." Ah, that is the ruinous thought, the entering wedge to dishonesty! If once admitted and harbored it will work death. Holiness keeps evil thoughts at a respectful distance.

Not What He Meant.

A story is told of a certain committee meeting in which the proceedings commenced with noise and gradually became uproarious. At last one of the disputants, losing all control over his emotions, exclaimed to his opponents: "Sir you are, I think, the biggest ass that I ever had the misfortune to set eyes upon!" "Order, order!" said the chairman gravely. "You seem to forget that I am in the room."

When Others Fail

Hood's Sarsaparilla builds up the shattered system by giving vigorous action to the digestive organs, creating an appetite and purifying the blood. It is prepared by modern methods, possesses the great curative powers, and has the most wonderful record of actual cures of any medicine in existence. Take only Hood's.

Hood's Pills are purely vegetable, and do not purge, pain or grip. 25cents.

AN INDEPENDENT LAWYER.

A lawyer with his client, called one day at the office of a gentleman who is considered to be one of the leading men of the Philadelphia bar. The lawyer had an important case, and he wanted to take the legal big gun in as adviser. He explained his business and said he and the client would be back in the afternoon. "I won't be here then," said the legal giant. "I have an engagement at 3 o'clock, and won't be here after that hour." "But there is $5,000 fee in this for you," explained the young lawyer. "Can't help it. I wont be here. You will have to come tomorrow."

"But my client can't come tomorrow."

"Well, I can't break my engagement," said the senior. After some further talk it was agreed that a meeting be held that night. That afternoon, having very little else to do, the young lawyer and his client went to a base ball game. The first man they saw inside the grounds was the great lawyer, who was hurrahing for the "Phillies" with all of his lungs. That was his important engagement. Needless to say the lawyer's practice nets him enough money, each year to make him independent.

Satisfaction in Living.

"I have a half notion to end my existence," said the dejected youth. "I have nothing on earth to live for."

"Better wait awhile," said the Cummingsville sage. "After you get to be a few years older you won't want anything to live for. Just living will be considerable satisfaction."
