THE BEST

SPRING MEDICINE

is SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR—don't forget to take it. The Liver gets sluggish during the Winter, just like all nature, and the system becomes choked up by the accumulated waste, which brings on Malaria, Fever and Ague and Rheumatism. You want to wake up your Liver now, but be sure you take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR to do it. It also regulates the Liver—keeps it properly at work, when your system will be free from poison and the whole body invigorated.

You get THE BEST BLOOD when your system is in A1 condition, and that will only be when the Liver is kept active. Try a Liver Remedy once and note the difference. But take only SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR—it is SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR which makes the difference. Take it in powder or in liquid already prepared, or make a tea of the powder; but take SIMMONS LIVER REGULATOR. You'll find the RED Z on every package. Look for it.

C. S. FRICK,

Sec'y and Treas. of the Frick Merchantile Co., Keithsburg, Ill.

Gives an interesting account of the cure of a severe case of Rheumatism that came directly under his personal observation. Being in the merchantile business he had many calls for the most celebrated "Yagers Cream Chloroform Liniment." He says:—

"The first bottle he sold was to a party who came into our place of business suffering intensely with Rhematic pains. I advised him to try a bottle of the Yager's Liniment, he thought it would be useless, said he had tried almost everything and could get no relief. I insisted on his trying it and informed him if it did not relieve him should cost him nothing. This was about 4 P. M. He took a bottle and started home, he was hardly able to walk. I saw nothing more of him until bright and early the next morning, when he came into our store walking as lively as could be with no signs of suffering about him. I inquired about the Liniment, he said it was the best stuff he ever used, would not take $5 for the bottle. Said he got home almost done up and as soon thereafter as he could he applied the Liniment, and it gave him almost instant relief, before retiring he applied it once more, went to bed and slept soundly all night, and in the morning bathed the parts affected again and at present felt no pain whatever. This was about four or five weeks ago. I see the party every few days and he says he is not troubled with Rheumatism any more."

The Goodwin Washer.

READ THIS TESTIMONIAL:

TOLCHESTER BEACH, MD., Jan 20, 1896.
MR. WM. T. MATTHEWS, Gen'l Agent:

Dear Sir—I have been using 3 of your Goodwin Washers for the past year, and I find them a very durable and useful machine. We used these machines not once a week, but every day at the Hotel and Bath Houses, and in fact washed every thing we had occasion to wash, with one-half the labor as formerly. After the close of the season here I sent one of these machines to Baltimore, to a friend, and quote their words, "You have certainly sent us a good friend." It gives me pleasure to recommend this Washer to anyone who desires a Labor Saving, Easy, Durable and Clean Washer. Resp'y, yours, &c.,

THOUGHTS FOR THE THOUGHTFUL.

To develop in each individual all the perfection of which he is susceptible is the object of education.

Nothing is denied to well-directed labor, and equally true it is that nothing is to be attained without it.

Courtesy at home, like other virtues, cannot be practised too constantly, or be too well fortified by undeviating habit.

It is through many victories over strong desires and passions which might have swept us away, and made us slaves that we can win freedom to walk in the pleasant paths of virtue.

To lay aside the habit of grumbing in favor of cheerfulness when dealing with the minor events of life is a small and very prosaic virtue, but, all the same, it is an admirable one.

It is those who are nearest to us, and whose affection for us is the greatest, who are rendered happy by the daily courtesies. Graciousness of manner is of great value in the world of home.

Even though we may acknowledge all the premises upon which the pessimist builds his gloomy structure, we should not abate our vigor in daily life or cease our upward strivings.

Being forced to work, and forced to do your best will produce in you temperance and self-control, diligence and strength of will, cheerfulness and contentment, and a hundred virtues which the idle never know.

Just as no single part of the body can thrive while the rest is enfeebled, and no true individual wellfare can be gained at the expense of the community, so no single appetite will render its natural and healthful pleasure when suffered to violate the other parts of the individual economy.

There is nothing in life better worth having than the feeling that one stands honestly before all men. The consciousness of uprightness and the reputation for reliability and evenness of temper, and a desire to make everything go smoothly have not only a very high social value, but are commercially a most excellent and trustworthy capital on which to base future business success.

Only real friends understand silence. With a passing guest or ceremonial acquaintance you feel under an obligation to talk; but with a very dear and intimate friend sitting by you there is no feeling of the kind. To be sure you may talk if you feel able, pouring out all sorts of confidences, relieved and refreshed by the interchange of thoughts and sympathies. But if you are very tired you know you may not say a word. You are perfectly understood and you know it. You can enjoy the mere fact of your friends presence, and find that does you more good than conversation. The sense of that present and sympathetic affection rests you more than any words. And your friend takes it as the highest proof of your friendship and confidence, and probably never loves you so vividly as in these moments of stillness.

A Novel Plan of Building.

A German inventor has built a house of tubes, whose advantages are, he says, a constant temperature and, incidentally, strength, comfort, and beauty. He first put up a frame of water tubing, allowing continuous circulation to a stream of water. Around this frame he put up his house in the ordinary way. The peculiarity is that all floors and ceilings are crossed and recrossed by the water pipes. The water, having passed through horizontal tubes under the floors and ceilings, passes through the vertical tubes until all have been gone through. In the summer, fresh, cool water circulates under pressure through the network of tubes, cools off the walls, and, after having run its course, flows considerably warmer than when it entered. In its course it has absorbed much heat, which it carries awar. During the long and severe winter the water entering through the basement is first heated to nearly 100 degrees and then forced through the ceiling. Of course much of the heat is left all over the house, and at the outlet the temperature of the water is about 40 degrees. The speed of the circulation of water can be regulated so as to allow fixing a certain temperature, equal throughout the building. —Stone.

Candles In China.

It is not generally known, says th Progressive Age, that several large firms at Tientsin occupy themselves wholly with the importation of candles. Very large quantities of these luminaries are imported into Shanghai from Holland, but it is not often possible to find their place of manufacture, owing to the fact that large ports such as London and Hamburg are responsible for the shipment and the contracts of delivery. In the year 1894, 1,000,000 pounds of English candles were imported into Shanghai, and the present payment for a packet of from 9 to 10 oz. is 1.85 taels, and for a packet of 12 to 16 oz. 2.40 taels. These are the sizes mostly in favor with the chinese consumers. Most of the import firms of Shanghai do business in this trade, but it is extremely likely that in the future Japanese competition will threaton it; in this, as in other trades, busy Japan has commenced operations.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. OSGOOD,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. KINCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ARCHER, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
