New Lyceum Offers "Broadway Melody Of 1936" Here Next Week

The radio, the stage and the screen were scoured in the search for talent to make the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer musical extravaganza, "Broadway Melody of 1936," which comes to the New Lyceum Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, October 21, 22 and 23.

Headed by Jack Benny, number one hero of the air waves, the cast of noted entertainers includes: Eleanor Powell, the "world's greatest feminine tap dancer"; Robert Taylor, Hollywood's most rapidly rising luminary; popular Una Merkel; June Knight, stage and screen favorite; Nick Long, Jr., world-famous acrobatic dancer; Vilma and Buddy Ebsen, Broadway stage favorites; Robert Wildhack, the "snore specialist," who created a sensation on the stage and repeated his success on radio; Frances Langford, radio's songbird; Harry Stockwell, New York singer famous on both stage and on the air, and Sid Silvers, "king of the Stooges."

For five years M-G-M has been planning a second edition of the screen's most successful musical "Broadway Melody," but the producing organization was determined that it would not be made until the necessary brillance of talent was available.

During much of this time, when they were not working on other attractions, Nacio Herb Brown and Arthur Freed have devoted their talents to devising new songs for the picture. The result is five outstanding numbers, which the publishers believe will surpass the Brown and Freed songs in the first "Melody."

The numbers include "Broadway Rhythm," "You Are My Lucky Star," "Sing Before Breakfast," "I've Got a Feelin' You're Foolin'," and "On a Sunday Afternoon."

The world's most beautiful girls, selected after screen tests were made of thousands of ravishing dancers, are seen in the elaborate musical numbers.
