

Neglect of duty, by failing to send in his report call at 4:15 a.m., July 16th., 1911, being forty minutes late; and also with failing to send in his report call at 3:12 a.m., July 16th., 1911.

Neglect of duty by failing to report for duty at 7 p.m., July 16th., 1911.

It developed in the testimony offered in this case that when the first charge, as above, was brought against Patrolman Kehl on July 16th., 1911, he failed to report for duty on the evening of that date through fear to answer before the Board the charge laid against him, owing to a warning received by him when last tried by the Board on a similar charge; that thereupon the second charge, as above, was preferred and the officer rather than stand trial offered his resignation; that he subsequently expressed his regret in having resigned, asked that the resignation be withdrawn and that he be permitted to stand trial.

The Board in view of all the circumstances in the case permitted the resignation to be withdrawn and tried him upon the charges with the result as above shown. (See Exhibit No. 3485.)
