Powermaker

As simple as A B C—as strong as iron and the best grade steel can make it—more easily handled than any other piece of farm machinery — less wearing on your car and tires than an ordinary 25-mile-an-hour spin—and capable of more work per day than six good men—that is the

POWERMAKER

It weighs only 110 pounds and can be handled easily by one man.

Your car and a POWERMAKER give you a portable power plant for all kinds of farm work.

The cost is low. Think of it—with your Car and the Powermaker you have an outfit that will do any job up to 10-horse power.

The price of the POWERMAKER is only

$37.50

We sold one the day it was demonstrated to us. Our own opinion is that it is the most practical tool that has yet been devised to be used with a car to furnish power for other work.

Don't wait until the day you wish to use it, as our supply is limited and we expect the first lot to go quick.

The world war ended Monday morning at 6 o'Clock Washington time, 11 o'Clock, Paris time. The Armistice was signed by the German Representatives at midnight. This announcement was made by the State Department at 2.50 o'Clock Monday morning.

The terms of the armistice include:

Immediate retirement of the German military forces from France, Belgium and Alsace Lorraine.

Disarming and demobilization of the German armies.

Occupation by the allied and American forces of such strategic points in Germany as will make impossible a renewal of hostilities.

Delivery of part of the German high seas fleet and the whole number of submarines to the allied and American naval forces.

Occupation of the principal German naval bases by Sea forces of the Victorious nations.

Release of Allied and American soldiers, sailors and civilians held prisoners in Germany without such reciprocal action by the associated governments.

PRESIDENT HERALDS A JUST DEMOCRACY THROUGHOUT THE WORLD

President Wilson issued a formal proclamation at 10 o'clock Monday morning announcing that the armistice with Germany had been signed.

The proclamation follows:

"My Fellow-Countrymen: The armistice was signed this morning. Everything for which America fought has been accomplished. It will now be our fortunate duty to assist by example, by sober, friendly counsel and by material aid in the establishment of just democracy throughout the world."

Standing upon the same spot from which 19 months ago he asked Congress to declare war against the Imperial German Government, President Wilson Monday pronounced the sentence of death upon the powerful military machine which for four years had challenged the force of four continents. He read to Congress the terms of the armatice to which Germany had subscribed this morning, an armistice which disarms her, paralyzes and renders it impossible for her to resist any peace which her associated enemies may impose upon her.

The world had been led by the fate of Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria to believe that the Allies would compel the unconditional surrender of Germany, but few people had dreamed that Germany's conquerors would so completely destroy her army and her navy. Few of them understood just what would be meant by "unconditional surrender" as interpreted by a victorious commander from the field of battle. Few of them realized how sweeping would be the steps necessary to reduce Germany to a state of utter powerlessness.

When Germany has complied with the demands made upon her, not only will she have demoblized her army, dismanteled her navy and delivered up her stolen goods, but she will have given her enemies possession of all her territory south of the Rhine, she will have turned over her ports to them and will have liberated every Allied prisoner of war.

This done, Germany will be impotent. She will be bound hand and foot. Not only will she be unable again to make war, but she will have given her enemies perhaps the richest of her territory to secure the obligations which she must enter into before she can make peace with the nations against which she warred for more than four years. And the importance of this cannot be minimized.

Especially is this true at a time when Germany is seething with revolution, at a time when she has no stable government, at a time when the Kaiser is in flight and Bolshevikism is raising its angry head from end to end of the empire. The world does not know and cannot know with whom it is to deal in the matter of peace. It does not know what power will rise up in Germany. It does not know when a responsible government will be formed and empowered by the German people to carry out international covenants.

PEACE TIDINGS IN TOWN

The joyful tidings of peace were posted on the News bulletin board early Monday morning and then followed the pealing of the bells all over town. Flags and bunting were put out and a big parade organized. S. W. Granberry awakened the natives with a small cannon on his auto. A remarkable scene was witnessed—a parade in which white and colored children joined with the colored band in their midst. It proved the unanimity with which all had participated in the war and the oneness of our people in celebrating the victory.

At night another big time was enjoyed with bon-fire, etc. The Kaiser was dragged thru the streets and then burned on the Square. It was a great day all over Kent.

The local boards will remain on the job and continue to send out questionnaires to all registrants between the ages of 18 and 37. These must be filled out and returned to the local boards, but they will not be classified until instructions are received to do so. Those questionnaires that have been sent to registrants between the ages of 37 and 45 need not be executed and returned. They may be regarded as dead.

It goes without saying that the younger registrants will not be called into the service, even though they may be classified, but the government desires to keep these on its files for future use or in the event of an emergency arising which will render necessary additional troops. Of course, this contingency is a remote one, but at this time nothing is taken for granted.

It is definitely settled that no more men will be sent to the camps, and the last order issued by the Provost Marshal General is construed to mean that those now in the various cantonments will in the very near future be returned to civil life. Much depends, of course, again on a contingency that may render their retention advisible. Conditions in Germany are so chaotic that there is no telling what may happen.
