ADJUSTMENT PROGRAMS WILL PROVIDE CROP INSURANCE

The severe drought in some sections of the country has emphasized one feature of the crop adjustment programs carried on in Maryland and other States, which had not been so generally appreciated, according to Dr. T. B. Symons, director of the University of Maryland Extension Service, who is in charge of such programs in this State. Although the programs for reducing production of wheat, corn, hogs, and the like were designed primarily to cut down burdensome surpluses and bring supply more nearly into line with effective demand, he points out that the benefit payments are based on past production averages, rather than on the current crop. The amount of these payments, therefore, is not diminished by a current crop failure. These assured payments guarantee that farmers who have signed contracts to cooperate will have some income, even if their crops are utter failures.

Dr. Symons states that even if the draught continues, the 1934 crop of wheat, along with present stocks will give ample supplies for food and an adequate carryover into the next season, an analysis made by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration indicates.

The carryover on July 1 is expected to be about 260 million bushels, it is stated. Added to what the crop might total with continued drought, it is estimated that there would be a total for the coming season of about 825 million bushels. The country uses about 625 million bushels a year for all purposes, so that after normal use, the nation would still have in the neighborhood of 200 million bushels available for carryover, or for export.

ONE-ARM PITCHER DEFEATS TILGHMAN

A one-armed pitcher named Loller led the Chestertown team to victory here last Sunday when Tilghman found it impossible to solve his delivery. Not only did he pitch effectively but he used the willow with telling effect, making a clean drive at one of the critical stages of the game.

Loller also fielded his position equal to a man with two good hands. He fielded sharp grounders with his bare hand and made several assists. He gave two passes, and fanned five. The final score was 6 to 4, in favor of the Chestertown team. Tilghman made 9 hits while Chestertown made but 8, but in the critical stages of the game Loller was effective. — Star-Dem., Easton.
