VOL. 84. CHESTERTOWN, MD., SATURDAY, JULY 14, 1923 NO. 10

FARM BUREAU UNDER WAY.

State Farm Bureau Organizer, O. Z. Remsberg, working with the committee of Kent farmers, have about completed with great success, the soliciting of adds for the Farm Bureau Special Edition, which will appear on July 28th.

The farmers of Kent are becoming interested in the Farm Bureau and what it is doing for the farmers of Maryland and other States. In the Special Edition, which will be published by the Farmers of Kent, will be found articles telling of the work of the Farm Bureau in all parts of the United States. Be sure to read every article in the Special Edition as it will be helpful in the operation of the Farm Bureau in Kent.

During the week of July 30th there will be held fifteen meetings in as many different communities of Kent, to tell the story of the Farm Bureau to the farmers of Kent. No memberships will be received into the Kent County Farm Bureau that week. It will be a week to familiarize the farmers of Kent with the Farm Bureau Organization.

The week of August 6 will be membership solicitation week. Every Kent farmer will be visited on his farm and asked to join the Farm Bureau.

The American Farm Bureau Federation is going forward with over a million and a half farmers. Soon Kent County farmers will be marching forward too.

LIGHTNING STRIKES

A fine $500 registered bull belonging to Walter Wright was killed on Wednesday night. The bull was in the stable in a stall next to a horse and was the only animal struck nor was the building injured. It was insured for $200 in G. W. French's agency.

George Parrott, living near Still Pond, lost his wheat by lightning on Wednesday evening. It was in the stack.

A NARROW ESCAPE

Considerable excitement was caused on Main street near Kent street, Wednesday afternoon when Norton, the 4-year-old son of B. L. Bonnett and wife was knocked down by an auto driven by Mr. Hudson, an employe of C. A. Goodwin. Norton ran from behind another machine to cross the road and was struck by the passing auto and rendered unconscious. Scores of persons on their porches saw the accident and thought sure the lad was killed. Dr. Dodd was on his porch and saw the accident. He hurried to the child and rendered first aid. Dr. Simpers arrived later. As a precaution against serious results Norton was carried to Easton Hospital but returned Thursday without any evidence of injury. It was a narrow escape.

The Ford Automobile Business Changes.

C. A. Goodwin Sells His Garage, Shops And Ford Agency In Chestertown To Local Interests—He To Remove To Baltimore.

Thomas W. Eliason, Philip G. Wilmer and John E. Speicher, Jr., have purchased the garage property and business of C. A. Goodwin, in Chestertown, and will take over the Ford agency for this territory.

This change in business is the result of Mr. Goodwin in having purchased an agency in Baltimore, on Park Avenue, where his field will be greater and which he felt would require his undivided time and efforts.

The new owners of the Chestertown business will incorporate and will assume charge next week. The Company will have a capital of $100,000.

Mr. Goodwin has been very successful in his conduct of the business, and it is believed his sucessors will be equally so. A farewell to Mr. Goodwin will be found on another page.

REAL ESATE SALES

Charles D. Rollison has purchased of Joseph Sachs the Connelly house on Queen street, Chestertown, and will occupy same as soon as extensive repairs are made by Contractor Wm. F. Malin and force of workmen. The price paid for this property was $3000.

Mrs. Emma J. Cannon and daughter have purchased from Leslie Needles the house and lot on Cannon St., Chestertown, for $1300. Mr. Needles will occupy his new bungalow in Quaker Neck on Chester River.

Mrs. S. J. Cannon has sold her farm consisting of fifty acres, located near Hanesville, to Mr. Ivens, of near Worton. Price $1800.

The Watts property on Queen St. was offered at public sale on Tuesday but withdrawn on account of insufficient bid.

The Boggs farm of 301 acres, near Crumpton, on Kent side of the river has been sold at private sale by S. P. Townshend, Esq., to Col. C. M. Lloyd, of Chestertown. The price was $11,500. This farm was bought by the late C. L. Jarrell from Mr. Boggs for $21,000.
