The code is here. We are all under it.

We can make it either a nightmare, or a machine for serving us well.

If we kick and groan, bellyache and chisel, the code will bring us nothing but grief, and make our industry despised.

If we take the code as intended, and try courageously and fairly to work out labor hours and wages that are fair, prices that will support the industry, we shall thank the day it was put upon us.

The code is placed here to set for us the standards we should have set a decade ago.

In the morning worship hour, which begins at 11 o'clock, the sermon subject, "Finding God." promises a simple discussion of life's great quest. All our people are looked for in this service and those without a church home in the community are invited.

Chestertown is fortunate in its summer Sunday evening open air service, fortunate in all that goes to make the service possible and popular: the spirit of co-operation, the band, the park. etc. Additional seats will be provided for next Sunday evening when the second of this year's series will be held and the pastor of Christ Church will preach.

Quintuplets' Milk Protected

(Int. News Photo)

The five babies shown above with their mother are the famous Dionne quintuplets born in a small farmhouse in the Canadian north woods. To insure scientific care of the human milk which was fed every few hours to these tiny incubator infants, a kerosene refrigerator was rushed to the Dionne home from the Electrolux factory at Evansville. Julian Eveque, an Electrolux engineer, who installed the gift in the little Dionne kitchen, is showing one of the nurses in charge. Louisa de Kirilene of Toronto, how the refrigerator operates.
