ALBERT C. RITCHIE
DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

"Legislature of 1924 Should Be the Legislature of the Farmer," Says Governor Ritchie

Stand of the Governor Has Back of It Pledge of Democratic Party

Speaking at the convention of The Maryland Agricultural Society, Maryland Farm Bureau Federation at Frederick last January, Governor Ritchie said:

"The Legislature of 1924 should be the Legislature of the farmer. . . . It must be the farmer's turn now. It is his right to look to the Legislature of 1924 to give him whatever legislation his needs and interests require: and it is his right to look to the State Government to place nothing ahead of helping him to solve his problems."

PROGRAM BEING FORMULATED

Later at a meeting in Annapolis of representatives of agricultural societies, the suggestion was made that a committee be appointed by Governor Ritchie to study the agricultural situation throughout the State and draw up a program for its betterment. This committee was named. It in turn appointed a sub-committee to which all suggestions are referred. That committee is now doing its work. Its program will soon be completed.

Mindful of the fact that such a program was being evolved, the Democratic party in its platform made this pledge to the agricultural interests of Maryland:

"We pledge our party to the continuance and proper extension of the State's agricultural activities in all branches, and when the non-partisan Agricultural Commission appointed by the Governor recommends its program for the development of agriculture in Maryland, we will give all the aid we can consistent with the public good, to put that program into effect."

LEGISLATION WILL BE NECESSARY

Every farmer knows too well how complicated are the problems that baffle him—how sensitive his interests are to the ever changing order in the industrial and commercial world. He must be prepared to meet each situation as it arises. Organization would seem to be the first step. Without it such a thing as concerted and successful action is out of the question. When the committee on agriculture makes its report, legislation will be recommended—certainly such legislation as may be necessary to give the organizing farmers of Maryland the aid they need in making their organization effective.

The Democratic platform pledges all the aid it can give.

Governor Ritchie declares that the farmers' interests shall come first in the Legislature of 1924. The Governor says:

"And it is his (the farmer's) right to look to the State Government to place nothing ahead of helping him to solve his problems."
