LARGE FARM IN LIQUIDATION

Determining Marshall Delaplaine McDaniel to have been sober and in his right mind when he executed a deed of trust in 1932, the principal question in a litigation concerning the control of a 1262-acre farm in Elk Neck, the Circuit Court for Cecil county has handed down an oponion in favor of Alexander H. McDaniel, the defendant in a law suit which has been in progress in Cecil for more than a year.

By virtue of the decision Alexander H. McDaniel, a brother of the plaintiff, will continue as trustee of the Shady Beach property. near North East, but will act under the supervision of the court and was required to furnish bond to the extent of $10,000. The plaintiff, the older of the two brothers, alleged that the deed of trust which he had signed two years ago should be declared void, because, he said, he was intoxicated at the time of the transaction.
