SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1934

THE ladies are taking an unusual interest in the success of the Democratic Harmony Ticket in Kent. This is a good omen.

THERE are 7240 voters in Kent. Of these there are 4633 Democrats and 2481 Republicans. A new registration will be held Tuesday, Sept. 11th.

KENT county farmers appreciate the corn cannery at Kennedyville. It is turning out a fine product. Some growers are getting from $35 to $40 per acre for sugar corn. This crop also provides dairymen with good feed.

THE oyster season begins today. Why not serve oysters in some style every week and thus the public can create a demand for the watermen's catch.

KENT county welcomes to Chestertown Golf Club the noted singer, John Charles Thomas. He came in his yacht and spent several days here. He says there's no place like this good old Eastern Sho!

HON. GEORGE L. RADCLIFFE, candidate for United States Senate, is welcome to Kent. He spoke at Kennedyville last evening. He will make a worthy successor to the other Democratic Senator from this State.

THERE have been three withdrawals of candidates on the Independent ticket. These men withdrew to enhance the spirit of harmony within the Party and are deserving of credit by the Party for the sacrifice they make. We believe that no one, who manifests such a sportsmanlike spirit, will be a loser in the long run. Messrs. Ashley, Thompson and Jacquette are to be congratulated.

DO YOU RECALL

WHEN Radcliff Creek, on the south of the town, was a place of great adventure for the boys of long ago. Along its marshy course and in the big timber on the opposite side, known to us as "Wickes' Woods." Wild game of almost every kind was plentiful, and before the refuse from the paper mill had polluted the water there was good fishing at some points on the creek. This was especially true of the old wooden bridge that spanned the creek on the Quaker Neck road, where in the fall of the year the fishing for "yellow neds" was fine.

WHEN during the Civil War one the principal articles of food given the soldiers was a large cracker, about as hard as cement and known as "hard tack." We can recall as a boy, however, seeing some soldiers camped here at the time frying in bacon fat, which rendered them soft and very palatable.

-:-:-:-

WHEN people in the old days did not use blotters to dry the ink after writing, but used for this purpose a very fine black sand, and we can recall very distinctly as a boy an old gentleman of the town who was still using a quill pen.

NEW FLOORS FOR OLD ONES

The other day I dressed off some floors that were put down in 1740. They were well preserved with paint and were tough pine, but came out beautifully, showing twelve-inch boards clean and white as the day they came from the sawyers, with numerous knots and the old hand-made nail heads two to a board in very joist, these did not help the sandpaper on the machine much but still the floors were sanded and in a reasonable time.

Your floors no doubt would sand up as well and once again be beautiful and smooth. Drop me a card and I will gladly see you about them.
