LOCAL NOTES.

THE Tolchester Company have met the Betterton Company by cutting the rate on Sunday from Baltimore to Betterton to 25 cents.

REV. J. S. BOWERS, accompanied by the official board of St. John's Independent Methodist Church, Baltimore, visited Chestertown Thursday for the purpose of inspecting Christ M. P. Church and of getting ideas for a new edifice which they are about to erect. The whole company were delighted with the country church and determined to adopt some of its features. It is a high compliment to country architecture to have such noted visitors from Baltimore to inspect the same.

FRED. P. MURREN, of Quaker Neck, on Saturday lost $24 on High street between the Second National Bank and the postoffice. This was his pension money and of which he stands sorely in need. The money consisted of two tens, two ones and at wo dollar bill. If left at the NEWS office the finder will be rewarded.

THE notorious "Dick" Robinson, who escaped from the late Officer Amos B. Kelley, was captured by Deputy Sheriff Gill and Officer Cooper on Tuesday night in Morgnec.

IN LUCK—Mr. C. C. Wood, on his East-Neck Island farm, is reported to have a full crop of peaches and expects to market 18,000 baskets! Mr. Wood and his good wife honored the NEWS office with a call last Tuesday and presented us with a sample of the most luscious fruit, of both red and yellow varieties. Every peach in the box was a perfect beauty and if his crop is in any respect "kin" to these the lucky grower will realize a good big fortune in this single season.

Mr. P. Clair, near Smithville, presented us some days since a basket of very fine Queen tomatoes, perfect in every respect and 42 filled a large peach basket.

A TWO YEAR OLD CHILD, of Wm. Ashley, near Rock Hall, fell from a second story window last Monday. It was pressing against a screen when it came out and the child fell to the hard ground below making an impression in the earth. No bones were broken but it has been in a critical state since, but the physican, Dr. Selby, expects it to recover.

THE Board of Election Supervisors have accepted the resignation of Azariah M. Kendall as register in the 3rd district and filled the vacancy by appointing Andrew A. Rinehart. There are ten not yet qualified and the board will meet next Monday to attend to that business.

DR. S. G. FISHER has purchased of Mrs. J. E. Draper a double frame dwelling on Queen street for $575.

CAPT. J. J. SCOON, of Rock Hall, was in town Thursday morning with forty bunches of fine taylors which he readily disposed of before 9.30.

MR. W. W. HUBBARD has bought of Hon. C. T. Westcott a lot of land adjoining the former's fertilizer factory. The price paid was $1500.

Capt. Llyod Tydings, of the Iceboat "Latrobe" of Balto., has purchased a farm of Mrs. Dr. Glascock situated near St. Michaels Md., at $150 per acre cash. Surely the captain thinks farming pays.

DOVE shooting is quite popular. Mr. J. W. Howard bagged 8 fine birds Wednesday, his first day.

THERE is in Chestertown postoffice a letter from the Phillipine Islands, addressed to Miss Lena Jester. The letter is postmarked Manila, July 1, 1899, and reached Chestertown Aug. 10th. The envelope bears no postmarks other than the stamp of the Manila and Chestertown offices. On the upper right hand is written Charles Jester, Company I, 22nd Infantry, Manila, Phillipine Islands. As addressee, Miss Lena Jester, is not known at the Chestertown office, any one knowing her would perhaps confer a great favor by calling her attention to this notice.

THIS has been a great week at Smith's cash store in Chestertown. In every department his sales have exceeded his anticipations and the bakery is still in the lead. Stop in and see how the charming and courteous clerks can wait on you.

MOODY & LUSBY'S sales of summer goods still continues. Their window of novelties was greatly admired this week and you would do well to call and see them at once.

MESSRS. T. R. HUBBARD & SON, the old and reliable as well as up-to-date fertilizer concern come out in this issue with their fall advertisement. This firm does more business every year and if you want to use anything in their line read what their many patrons have to say elsewhere in this issue.

OFFICE OF THE

Local Board of Health

FOR KENT COUNTY.

CHESTERTOWN, Aug. 15, 1899.

The circular received by the Local Board of Health from Dr. John S. Fulton, Secretary of the State Board, published below, explains itself, and will, I feel quite sure, commend itself to the people of the community. The slaughterhouse question, like the hog-pen, has been a bone of contention between sanitarians and the commissioners of small towns for years. The great preponderance of proof that from time to time has been produced showing the great disadvantages and discomforts, to say the least, as well as the very great dangers to health from such sources, has prompted the health authorities to send an inspector over the State. Among the towns of from 2000 to 4000, who still allow these, unfortunately we find Chestertown. Many of the smaller towns, as well as larger ones, have ordinances in accord with suggestions of Dr. Fulton.

The two above-mentioned sources of complaint are not by any means the only ones. The town is not as clean as it should be. The executive officer of the Local Board of Health will at any time co-operate with the town authorities looking to this much-to-be-desired need.

W. FRANK HINES, SEC'Y.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 10, 1899.

TO THE LOCAL HEALTH OFFICER:—We enclose herewith an abstract of the report of our inspector, Mr. Chas. N. Mitten, upon the slaughter-houses in Maryland towns. We call special attention to the reports upon the town in your jurisdiction.

You will observe that the towns where slaughtering is not permitted are the younger towns. This shows the growth of popular regard for cleanliness and decency. The older towns have received the slaughter-house nuisances as a legacy from former and less enlightened generations, and the influences which foster these hereditary nuisances, seems in some instances stronger than the sentiment against them. Slaughter-houses in towns are not only offensive to municipal decency; they may be injurious to public health.

The worst slaughter-house is perhaps that where the offal is disposed of as chance may direct, and where the fats are rendered on the premises in open kettles. The preparation of meats for human food in such a place must be to every person having even a rudimentary sense of propriety, simply disgusting.

Hardly less offensive are the slaughter-houses where the offal is fed to hogs. The pork produced by such food is not good to eat, and cannot be made sound pork by a course of grain-feeding preparatory to slaughtering. Slaughter-house hogs are particularly liable to trichinosis, and trichinous pork, aside from the danger of infecting those who eat it with trichinae, is not a proper food.

No slaughtering should be done in any incorporated town. It is an exceedingly difficult matter at best to preserve a pure soil in closely settled communities, and the slaughter house in town pollutes both soil and air. It also furthers the vagrant hog nuisance, and the plague of rats and flies, all of which in turn have their effect upon human comfort and health.

Since slaughtering is a necessary trade, it should be specially provided for in such a way as to reduce its offensiveness to a minimum. If possible, all the slaughtering for each community should be done in one place and under sanitary regulations.

We trust that you will make such use of our enclosure as may best attract the thoughtful interest of your citizens.

Very truly yours,
JOHN S. FULTON, SEC'Y.
