NOTES ON SPORTS

Billy Nicholson, impossible to be ignored by Baltimore sports writers in their recapitulation of the gridiron season just past, will land a berth on all the mythical ALL-MARYLAND teams. Randall Cassell, The Evening Sun, picks Billy as fullback on his team; Craig Taylor, Morning Sun, calls Coach Kibler and demands a picture of Billy for his All-State eleven, and there's no doubt but that the big Kent county youth will land a backfield position with the Baltimore News-Post team selected by Wilson Wingate.

Not only has Billy Nicholson shone brightly in the football picture of the State of Maryland. He has also brought national recognition to Washington College by reason of the total points he scored for the season. With eight touchdowns, five extra points and a placement kick for three points, Nicholson, with a total of 56 points, ranks eleventh among the nation's scorers.

Washington College's name appears prominently in the records of the past football season compiled by the Associated Press, and the local gridsters are listed with the 19 unbeaten teams in the country Only nine teams in the nation came through the season unscathed, untied or unbeaten. The remaining ten teams, of whom Washington is one, ended the season unbeaten, but with one or more ties.

The undefeated list follows:

Undefeated And Untied

	W.	For Pts.	Agst.
Birmingham Southern	9	143	34
Alabama	5	287	32
Augustana (Illinois)	9	165	37

Undefeated But Tied

	W.	T.	For Pts.	Agst

Washington C.(Md.)	5	1	150	33
Union College (Ky.)	5	2	79	21

For little Washington College to land in this exalted group is a feat about which too much can't be said in praise. Undefeated seasons come but once in a lifetime, literally and figuratively. It is the supreme achievement in athletics at the Eastern Shore institution, with the exception of the undefeated basketball season of 1926, when the Flying Pentagon came into being and swept all comers.

Under the heading, "Notes On Sports," we suppose it is permissible to report the rewards of athletic achievement; and, if it isn't well what of it?. .Having conquered their field, the Washington College football team, undefeated, is going in for gastronomics in a big way and are already proving themselves as adept with the knife and fork as with the inflated pigskin. The College Boarding Club was the first to entertain the gridsters, tending them a "feed" Thursday night in the cafeteria on "The Hill."

On Monday night, if plans don't miscarry, Captain Dwyer and his boys, and the coaches, will be feted by the Chestertown Rotary Club. On Thursday night Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eshman will play host and hostess to the boys at the Voshell House. Mrs. Eshman, a former Newark, Del., resident, has been goaded for years by her friends in the Blue Hen town because Washington never won a game from Delaware; but this year she was meted her just revenge by the Shoremen's 29 to 7 victory. And, so happy is she over the turn-about that a turkey dinner has resulted. Only the lettermen, the coaches and representatives of the three newspapers in town will be present.

Activity began on the new basketball court in the Chestertown Armory this week, with the Flying Pentagon getting a kick out of using a home court without the corners screened by over-hanging balconies. This one feature is enough in itself to warrant use of the Armory, for the local cagers have never taken advantage of the corner shots when away from home, because they were not accustomed to them.

It is practically impossible at this stage of the season, when the squad hasn't even lost the football and gotten the basketball touch, to make prophesies on the personell of the 1934-35 edition of the Flying Pentagon. What we can report, however, is the manner in which the boys are developing in these early scrimmages.

Among the newcomers to the cage sport at Washington attracting attention are:

Leon Horowitz, Baltimore youth who played in the prep school leagues of that city, who brings a new style of basketball to the Eastern Shore. Horowitz is what we would dub a "scramble shot," making most of his baskets from follow-ups and continually getting his hands on the ball around the foul circle and shooting from every angle. He handles the ball neatly, knows many tricks of the game. His chief weaknesses, as we view them, are defense and the inability to get a forward to work with him, due to his peculiar style of play.

Salters, Delaware youth and footballer, handles the ball as if he has had court experience. He's a big chap, a good outside shot and a fighter around the basket.

Wilmott, sent to Washington by one of the old grads. Howeth, is a fast floor man, though at present he shows need of ball handling. He cuts nicely for the basket, works hard, and should prove to be of worth to Coach Kibler before the season is over.

Of the other players who are back from last year McClain, a rangy sophomore, looks good in the center position and is giving Skipp a run for his money. McMahon, Dale Reese, Billy Nicholson and Jimmy Johns are Kent county youths who will undoubtedly find places among the first ten players on Coach Kibler's squad.

Huffman, the big footballer who has returned here after a three-year absence, handles himself on the court about as well as any of the players. He is fast for his size, a good shot and a guard of no mean ability. Evans, too, a shifty left-hander, shows promise. His weakness, however, is defense. Charlie Berry, Bilancioni and Ward are back again on the court, and this trio will more than likely land regular positions.
