NELATON'S REMEDY —FOR— RHEUMATISM

is a certain cure. It has made hundreds of friends everywhere, as the following will show.

Mr. Wm. T. Davis, Cambridge, Md., writes:—

For two years or more I have had Rheumatism very badly and have tried all kinds of medicine without getting any relief. NELATON'S REMEDY was recommended to me and after taking only one bottle I was entirely cured, and have been troubled for over three months, thanks to Nelaton's Remedy for Rheumatism.

Mr. Wm. E. Lowery, Fisherman and Oysterman, of Cambridge, writes:—

Two years ago last February. I had terrible attacks of Rheumatism whenever the weather turned bad. I could not lay down or raise my arm to feed myself. I tried Nelaton's Remedy and a few bottles cured me completely. I have not had any Rheumatic pains or symptons since and I tell any manhe is foolish to suffer with Rheumatism when Nelaton's Remedy can be had.

Mr. Moses Tisch, of Easton, Md., writes:—

Nelaton's Remedy for Rheumatism is a wonderful medicine It cured me when I had Rheumatism so bad I had to walk around with sticks. I heartily recommend NELATON'S REMEDY to any who suffer with Rheumatism as it is a reliable and sure cure.

Dr. J. B. R. Purnell, of Snow Hill, Md., endorses Nelation's as follows:

I have used the NELATON REMEDY in neuralgia and general Rheumatism with satisfactory results. The ingredients evidence a combination useful for arthritis and and various forms of gout and rheumatism, particularly when accompanied with hepatic torpor.

Training

Is indispensable to athletic success. In training, much stress is laid upon diet; careful attention to the quantity and quality of the food eaten, with regularity of meals. That is the secret of strength for every man. No man can be stronger than his stomach. The careless and irregular eating, of business men, causes disease of the stomach and its allied organs of digestion and nutrition. There can be no sound health until these diseases are cured.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and enables the body to be built up into vigorous health by the assimilation of the nutrition extracted from food.

"I was taken with the grippe, which resulted in heart and stomach trouble," writes Mr. T. R. Caudill, of Montland, Alleghany Co., N. C. "I was unable to do anything a good part of the time. I wrote to Dr. Pierce about my condition, having full confidence in his medicine. He advised me to take his 'Golden Medical Discovery,' which I did. Before I had finished the second bottle I began to feel better. I have used nearly six bottles. I feel thankful to God for the benefit I have received from Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I can highly recommend it to all persons as a good and safe medicine."

PUZZLES FOR JUDGES.

SIMPLE WORDS THAT HAVE TANGLED UP ENGLISH COURTS.

Some Terms of Almost Everyday Use That Proved to Be Too Profound For the Intelligence of the Learned Bench and Bar.

In a case that came before a famous lord justice some time ago the counsel for the prosecution in the evidence had to mention a "blouse."

The judge asked what a blouse was, and it was explained that this was part of a lady's dress. But the case came to a dead stop for the time, for the judge did not know which part, and after some hesitation the barrister admitted that he wasn't sure. Several learned brothers gave their opinion, some opining a blouse was the upper half of a lady's costume, while others insisted it must be the lower half. The entire court, filled with learned celebrities whose heads held all the laws of Britain, from pitch and toss to manslaughter, argued it out, but nobody was sure. The judge thought it was the lower half, but a junior barrister who had lately been married said he thought that that half was called a skirt, but did not feel certain. At length a lady was called, who set the court right.

Another odd dilemma happened not long ago when in the Hobson "horse faking" case the word "fetlock" arose. A fetlock, as everybody knows, is the ankle of a horse. The court asked what it was, however, and the prosecuting counsel was nonplused. The witnesses were out of court save one, and he knew nothing. The judge thought a fetlock was a sort of hind knee, otherwise "hock," but one learned brother was quite certain it was the lock of hair that hangs over a horse's forehead. The defendant's solicitor opined it was that part of the harness which slips over the tail, the crupper, and another legal celebrity agreed with the judge. Finally the court had to call a stable groom to clear up the mystery.

In a case that was settled some years since the recorder was brought up short by a phrase used by the counsel for defense, who spoke of a transaction concerning a pound of "blacklead." This is a common and useful article, but the counsel on being asked to explain its nature said it was a black substance used for boot polishing. The recorder thought it was a mineral used in lead pencils, but another barrister asserted it to be a "tough kind of lead used for roofing houses." The case was brought to a standstill, and one lawyer, unsurpassed in legal knowledge, declared that blacklead was a slang term for pig iron as produced in the north country. A fourth expounder of the law vaguely suggested it was the opposite of white lead, and finally a domestic servant put the court right, and the assembly at last learned that it was used for blacking stoves.

Another dilemma was produced a little while ago on the western circuit by the introduction of the words "dry nurse" in an address to the court. This bewildered the judge, who asked if a dry nurse was a nurse who dried babies after they had been washed. That solution did not occur to the learned counsel, who, after some hesitation, said he thought it meant a nurse who was not addicted to drinking and therefore most suitable to look after infants. Nobody seemed to know what the term really meant, though several more guesses were made, the last of them that a dry nurse was one who could not amuse children.

The court was again nonplused by a statement made that somebody concerned in the case supposed to suffer from melancholia was really "as jolly as a sandboy." The judge wanted to know what a sandboy was in order to form some idea as to the exact degree of jollity involved. The counsel could not tell him, though one suggested it was a boy who sanded the roads and the other thought it might be a lad building sand castles on the seashore. The whole court stopped to discuss what a sandboy was and why he was jolly, but they could not solve the problem.

It is hardly believable that anybody should not know what a "snaffle" is, but a London magistrate recently desired to be informed, and nobody could tell him what a snaffle might be. A solicitor thought it was the same thing as the "curb," and the clerk had an idea it was a kind of cold in the head which horses caught, causing them to snuffle a good deal.—London Answers.

A Famous Temple.

The most magnificent work of architecture in the world is the Taj Mahal, in Agra, Hindustan. It was erected by Shah Jehan to the memory of his favorite queen. It is octagonal in form, of pure white marble, inlaid with jasper, carnelian, turquoise, agate, amethysts and sapphires. The work took 22,000 men 20 years to complete, and though there were free gifts and the labor was free the cost is estimated at $16,000,000.

LOVE AND VEGETABLES.

Oh, darling the love of thee dwells in my brest,
And fondly I think of thee all the day long
But when to my garden for string-beans in quest
I forget thee. The onion's perfume is too strong.

Oh blue are thy eyes like the skies overhead,
The locks of thy hair are as glimmering gold;
But alas when I dig in the celery bed
I forget thee—my trousers are grimy with mould.

The kiss of thy lips thrills my heart thro' and thro',
And bliss superhuman is found in thy hug;
But I hie to the garden, for dinner is due,
I forget thee The cause is a juicy June-bug.

I think of thee, dearest, when morning awakes,
And long for thy presence my day to illume:
But when I discover tomatoes are fakes,
I forget thee. My future is plundged in deep gloom.

I think of thee, dearest, when daylight declines,
And wish I could fold thee once more to my heart;
But alas, when I gaze on my strawberry vines,
I forget thee. The squirrels have done well their part,

Oh, dear one, my love for thee never will fade,
And stronger it grows as the years journey by;
But alas, when through puddles of water I wade,
I forget thee. My cabbage plants surely will die.

Yes, darling, I'll love thee for ever and aye,
And always thy image will with me remain;
But vegetable troubles will cause me to sigh,
I forget thee. My garden is dying for rain.

Mr. George C. Moore, of Caroline county, is forming a party of gentlemen who about the middle of July will take a 10 days' trip to the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo. They will charter a car, with a buffet department, and with some competent person in charge of the cooking make the journey, ignoring the hotels en route and at Buffalo. Mr. Moore says the car will be sidetracked at the Exposition grounds for several days and for a few hours at many interesting points. The excursionists will visit Niagara Falls.

To reduce one's weight, cut off one meal a day, breakfast preferably. Take a cup of clear coffee, sipping it slowly. Live largely on lean meat. Take plenty of exercise. Avoid sugar and starchy foods.—July Ladies' Home Journal.
