

Will you please accept my sincere thanks personally and for the many whom I represent of the party who went to Cambridge yesterday, and also convey such thanks to the Honorable the Marshal of Police for Baltimore for the detail and splendid conduct of Messrs. Armstrong, Vahle, Coughlin and Miller. These four men were on hand promptly at the Rennert yesterday morning in advance of the party who were to go to Cambridge, they went to the wharf and stationed themselves on either side of the gangway. They were alert during the entire day, going to Cambridge and returning. While in Cambridge they were here, there and everywhere in the performance of their duty. Their conduct and dignity were commented upon by practically every one and I verily believe that if your able management was looking for further attestation of the confidence of the people, so far as those who went to Cambridge yesterday is concerned, the conduct of the above mentioned four men got for you that attestation.

Believe me, with great respect,

Sincerely yours,

W. F. STONE."
