CURES BLOOD, SKIN DISEASES CANCER, GREATEST BLOOD PURIFIER FREE.

If your blood is impure, thin, diseased, hot or full of humors, if you have blood poison, cancer, carbuncles, eating sores, scrofula, eczema, itching, risings and bumps, scabby, pimply skin, bone pains, catarrh, rheumatism, or any blood or skin disease, take Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) Soon all sores heal, aches and pains stop and the blood is made pure and rich. Druggists or by express $1 per large bottle. Sample free by writing Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga. B.B.B. is especially advised for chronic, deep seated cases, as it cures after all else fails.—1a7*.

HOW TO AVOID APPENDICITIS

Most victims of appendicitis are those who are habitually constipated. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup cures chronic constipation by stimulating the liver and bowels, and restores the natural action of the bowels. Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup does not nauseate or gripe and is mild and pleasant to take. Refuse substitutes.

Healthy kidneys filter the impurities from the blood, and unless they do this good health is impossible. Foley's Kidney Cure makes sound kidneys and will positively cure all forms of kidney and bladder disease. It strengthens the whole system.

RELICS OF MARYLAND

Executive Exhibit Collected by Mrs. Hester D. Richardson.

ORIGINALS NOW FIRST SHOWN

Precious Documents and Other Things Preserved From Colonial Days Make a Showing of Vivid Interest to All Maryland People.

When the officials of the Jamestown exposition announced that history would have first place at the Tercentennial celebration Governor Warfield recognized this as an opportunity to have Maryland's early history emphasized and full justice done her first settlers by exhibiting there the memorial collection which he was making for the statehouse at Annapolis.

Realizing that a collection of this kind could be made most quickly and satisfactorily by one thoroughly familiar with the original records of the state and one who had demonstrated a desire to bring to light all that would reflect honor on Maryland, Governor Warfield issued a commission to Mrs. Hester Dorsey Richardson as special executive historian to collect and put in shape Maryland's historic data and documents.

Mrs. Richardson has faithfully discharged this duty, and as a result the Maryland building at the exposition contains the most interesting and instructive demonstrations of Maryland history ever collected.

The exhibit includes the following object lessons in Maryland history and many others:

The names of 110 of those who came in the Ark and the Dove with Governor Leonard Calvert, nearly a hundred of which names have not been published in any history.

Facsimile of original letter sent back on the Ark's return trip to England giving an account of the voyage over; also one of the receipts for the two Indian arrows paid at Windsor castle each Tuesday in Easter week by the proprietary as fealty to the king, illustrating Maryland's exemption from taxation by king or parliament as her chartered right.

The part of the "act concerning religion," insuring freedom of conscience, passed by the assembly of Maryland in the year 1649, records the fact that Maryland was at that time the only place in the known world where persons of all faiths were at liberty to worship God according to their own consciences. The autographs of those who passed the act are attached to it and are shown for the first time.

Many names of the earliest settlers for whom lands were surveyed in the twelve oldest counties, giving the name of their first surveys. This roll of honor includes over a thousand names of the progenitors of Maryland's oldest families, in many of which these original lands have descended to the present generation.

Under the head "Lords of the Manor In Maryland" are given the names of forty-six to whom were granted manors, with all the privileges of lords of the manor in England, giving the names of the manors and the acreage. These have never before been collected.

The "act against the importation of convicted persons into this province," passed 1676, is displayed to prove that Maryland had no convicts among her first settlers, as this act imposes a heavy fine on "some captains of merchant vessels" who smuggled in "several" felons and sold them for their own profit.

The act for "the founding and erecting of a school or college within this province for the education of youth in learning and virtue," April, 1671, and the act establishing King William's school, 1696, are displayed to show that Maryland passed the first act for a free school in this country and perhaps in the world.

Washington's eulogy of his aid, Lieutenant Colonel Tench Tilghman of Maryland, who bore the official news of Cornwallis' surrender from Yorktown to the congress at Philadelphia, Oct. 19, 1781.

A curious document entitled "Jeremiah Riley's scheme for destroying ships of war," sent to the council of safety about 1776, the first plan for coast defense ever considered by the council in Revolutionary times.

Photograph of the patriot, Dr. Charles Alexander Warfield, with a correct account of the "burning of the Peggy Stewart" Oct. 19, 1774.

"ARMLESS AND LEGLESS."

Queer Toast at Queerer Dinner of a New York Broker.

It would be difficult to give a more eccentric party than one held in New York last New Year's day. It was the idea of a wealthy broker of that city and was held at his private residence, which was specially decorated for the occasion.

The guests were twelve men who had lost a leg and twelve women who had only one arm each. They were entertained to quite a magnificent repast, in the preparation of which particular regard was paid to the fact of the ladies having but one hand with which to help themselves at table.

As they "paired" into the dining room the guests presented a curious yet pathetic spectacle, and after dinner each was invited to tell the company how he or she happened to lose his or her missing limb, the one who had lost it in the most curious manner being promised by the host a reward of $25.

This was won by a male guest, whose leg had to be amputated through having been mauled by a tiger in a menagerie where the man was employed. The toast of "The armless and legless throughout the world" was drunk with enthusiasm before the company dispersed.—New York Times.
