The expence is estimated at £160,000, much less sum than would be requisite for the erection of a bridge. It is expected that it will be finished in three years.—London paper.

National Seamen.—The old steam ship Robert Fulton now lies at the Navy Yard, New York. Her engine has been taken out altogether, and she has been fitted up as a receiving ship. She is to be furnished with a complete set of masts, spars, and rigging, and is to serve as a Rigging School. Sailors, when first employed, will be placed on board this vessel when competent masters will determine whether they are qualified as seamen. If so, whenever a vessel of the Navy is despatched, her complement of seamen will be of the first character. upon being placed on board the Fulton they are found unacquainted with the duties which they will be called on to fill, they receive such instruction as is necessary. It is calculated that every month the Fulton will present the appearance of a full rigged ship, and again that of a dismasted one. The scholars will be kept continually at work in making, arranging and taking down the different parts of the rigging. The establishment of this school is very laudable. By these means our navy can always be supplied with first rate seamen, and of course raw and inexperienced hands will receive such knowledge as will fit them for their profession.

"Life in Limbo."—The following are some of the toasts given at the Poor Debtors' celebration of the 4th of July in Worchester jail. They are some of the best of which the anniversary has elicited: at least some of the most opposite and significant:—

New England—Land where "Liberty abroad walks unconfined," and the debts of the unfortunate—how easily paid!

Liberty—Secured by bolts and bars we fear not the loss of it.

Our present Mansion—Where thieves do not break in and steal.

Riches and Poverty.—May the one be divested of its arrogance, and the other of its enemies.

Freedom—A sly fellow—no thing but locks, keys bolts and fetters can ensure his safe keeping.

Independence—Dearly purchased by our fathers, and richly inherited by us their children.

The day we celebrate—

"No arrangements made for spirituous liquors."

This day within these rugged walls,
May peace and hope abound,
To-morrow, may we roam abroad
And tread on freedom's ground.

The Eagle of Liberty—Place her here, and fear nothing for her safe keeping.

FOREIGN NEWS.

WAR!!

The late political movememts in the Banda Oriental, according to the interesting intielligence communicated by late arrivals, bid fair to involve in their vortex not only the republic of Buenos Ayres, but all the South American republics. The constituted authorities of Buenos Ayres it will be recollected, have been for some time past strongly suspected of favoring this revolution, and it appears from late accounts that the Brazillian Admiral had made a formal demand upon the government of Buenos Ayres to give up all claims to the Banda Oriental, and to acknowledge, that it lawfully belonged to the Emperor of Brazil. It may be proper here to remark, that between Spain and Portugal, during the time when the royal authority existed in South America, Monte Video was what might be termed debateable ground; it was claimed by the monarchs both of Spain and Portugal, and this old feud has not subsided since Brazil has thrown off its allegiance to Portugal, and Buenos Ayres its attachment to the Spanish monarchy. Monte Video forms a component part of Buenos Ayres, situated on the north side of the river La Plata, and is built on a peninsula, defended on the sea side by the strong batteries; an extensive commerce has been carried on between it and Buenos Ayres.—The Emperor without doubt authorised his admiral to make the demand above stated, and the answer carries with it the appearance of Roman dignity; that the admiral must withdraw his forces as an indispensable preliminary to all negotiation. The Emperor, it would appear, contemplated a refusal on the part of Buenos Ayres, and was making every effort to place Monte Video in a respectable state of defence. But WAR, if not formally declared by the Emperor against the Republics, HAS ALREADY COMMENCED—for we have official accounts that the troops of Brazil had entered the province of Chiquitos in Upper Peru. From this glance at the state of affairs, war between the Republics and Brazil would seem to be inevitable—and it is not improbable that here may be the point in which the allies of Ferdinand may exert themselves for the prostration of the South American Republics—by affording succour to his Brazillian majesty in the approaching contest, under the pretence of assisting him in the recovery of his own dominions. Should this come to pass, our own government cannot remain unconcerned spectators.

the scene—and in the meantime, as things seem approaching to their crisis, and our trade in that quarter is very important, we would suggest whether one or more vessels of war should not be instantly despatched to those seas for its protection. The Commerce of the United States on the coast is extensive and constantly increasing, and we hope that while the British and French trade is so amply protected by the presence of their respective vessels of war, our own will not be suffered to remain without a similar safeguard.—Balt. Amer.

Spain.—The London Globe and Traveller states, that "orders has been issued by the French government for the immediate formation of a camp at Bayonne, to consist of 9,000 men, to which a suitable train of artillery was to be attached, so as to form a complete division of reserve." These circumstances, combined with the sudden march from Pampeluna of a regiment of the line to 'reinforce the garrison at Madrid,' would seem to indicate that all was not so tranquil in Spain, as the royal gazettes would have us to believe.

"Since I last wrote you, an event of great moment to this country has taken place, with which you are no doubt acquainted ere this—the acknowledgement of its independence by France.—The news was a source of much joy, which was demonstrated by splendid illuminations and an elegant dinner; after this they were to have finished with a grand ball, but whilst the company were assembling, it was discovered that a conspiracy was on foot amongst some of Christophe's old generals. The pleasures of the night were much lessened, but the discovery was made in time to prevent any mischief. It appears that the plot had been in agitation for some months before, and this moment of rejoicing was conceived by the projectors as a favourable one to strike the blow. It is said they first intended to commence their nefarious work at the dinner, but something interfered and was then postponed for the ball; when finding their intentions were discovered, the scheme was abandoned. There are various reports in circulation as to the intentions of the conspirators, but all concur in the important point that foreigners were to be respected. It created considerable alarm, but I must say, although I was cautioned to have my doors shut early, that I felt not the least uneasiness. The President was in Gonaives on his way to this place, when he received information of the plot.—He immediately sent for four of the most prominent characters, and ordered them to Port au Prince to await his return. On the road one of them, Gen. Tousant, shot himself."

Died,

On Friday, 3d of September, Miss Hannah Maynadier, at the house of her brother, Henry Maynadier, esq. in Annapolis. The death of her sister Margaret, was noticed in our last paper. Each of their deaths were preceded by a very short illness—and the space of two or three days constituted their separation. They were many years residents of Cambridge—beloved by their connexions, esteemed and respected by all their acquaintance, affectronately attached to each other, and were seldom separated through life.

In this town, the 5th instant, John, youngest son of Robert Wallace.

Near Bucktown, the 7th inst. Thomas, son of Jonathan Brierwood.

At Church Creek, on Sunday night, the 4th instant, Mrs. Elizabeth Reddish, consort of Mr. Joseph Reddish—and on Monday night, the 5th instant, Mr. Joseph Reddish was called from this transitory scene to vast uncertainty. Mr. and Mrs. Reddish were both in the 63d year of their age, only 16 days difference in their ages, and 22 hours only, was ths term of their separation after having been married and living together, a period of 38 years. Thus we see, in the short space of 22 hours, this aged and respectable couple descend to the cold embraces of the grave—there in silent repose, to wait until called in the morning of the resurrection, to rise and meet that fate which their labors on earth may have entitled them to receive at the hands of an unerring Judge.

Consumptions, Coughs, &c.

BUTLER'S Vegetable Indian Specific,

For the cure of Colds, Coughs, Consumptions, Spitting of blood, Asthmas, and all diseases of the breast and lungs.

There is perhaps no medical observation better established, none more generally confirmed by the experience of the best physicians of all ages and countries, and none of more importance to the human family, than the fact that many of the most difficult and incurable consumptions originate in neglected colds. In a climate so variable as ours, where the changes of the weather are frequently sudden and unexpected, it requires more care and attention to guard against this dangerous enemy of life, than most people imagine, or able and willing to bestow.

The bills of mortality exhibit the melancholy fact that the proportion of deaths by this disease, may be considered as about five to one. Inasmuch then as this fatal disease bids defiance to the skill of the most learned physicians, it is a gratification to the proprietor that he is enabled to offer to those afflicted with it, a goodly prospect of relief, (if taken in time) in that highly valuable remedy, the Vegetable Indian Specific.

The Indians are happy in their knowledge of medical plants; governed wholly by experience, they are certain as to their effect, and it is said by an author of great character, that a true consumption is a disease never known among them.

For the information of those afflicted with complaints of the breast and lungs, the proprietor inserts (from among the numerous testimonials in his possession) the following certificate.

Baltimore, 7th Dec. 1824.

I, J. Price, of the city of Baltimore, do hereby certify and declare, that I was for a long time afflicted with a severe cold, accompanied with an almost incessant cough, and pain in my breast and lungs; also spitting of blood, and purulent matter from the lungs, with night sweats and fevers, and was much emaciated with loss of appetite and rest &c.

I applied to several eminent physicians, and passed through a course of medicine, but could obtain no relief, and found myself fast verging on to a confirmed consumption. Having at length heard of the many astonishing cures effected by the Vegetable Indian Specific, I was induced to make trial of it, and found almost immediate relief, and my rest restored. I continued its use, improving fast, my appetite better, and all the symptoms of the disease daily diminishing, and in a few weeks was completely cured; and having remained so for several months, I am now in better health and flesh than I have been for many years. I therefore with confidence, recommend the use of the Vegetable Indian Specific, to all who suffer under a similar complaint, and as a safe, pleasant and effectual remedy for consumptions, and all diseases of the breast and lungs.

I. PRICE

The celebrated Dr. Cullen has taught us that "our first attention should be employed in watching the approach of the disease and preventing its proceeding to an incurable state; and in persons of a consumptive habit, especially those born of consumptive parents, the slightest symptoms of an approaching consumption at the consumptive period of life, ought carefully to be attended to."

This Specific is obtained by extraction from herbs, roots, flowers, plants &c when in perfection. In consequence of a happy combination of the most valuable herbs; &c. it becomes a balsam of superior value. It heals the injured parts, opens the pores, and composes the disturbed nerves after the manner of an anodyne; consequently the obstruction of the chest and the lungs which constitute this disease, particularly need its use. It promotes expectoration, which is constantly called for, and while it cleanses and heals, it also gives strength to the tender lungs. In this manner it removes the hectic fever, improves digestion, gives strength to the nerves, repairs the appetite and improves the spirits. This specific is mild, pleasant to the taste, and may always be given with safety. It is found particularly useful in hypocondrical, nervous, and hysterical diseases. Each bill of directions contains a detailed account of this disease in all its different stages, and will be accompanied with the signature of the proprietor in red ink. It is kept for sale at this office. aug 27—tf
