THE BOUQUET.

"MUCH YET REMAINS UNSUNG."

FOR THE CHRONICLE.

A PARODY on "My heart and Lute,"
Addressed to Miss ——, by a friend.

The offerings of a heart like thine,
That burns with love's pure flame,
Are dearer to this soul of mine,
Than wealth or titled fame.

Tho' wealth thro' life may smooth the way
And calm its troubled stream,
It cannot blight affection's chain,
Or hallow love's young dream.

The blush of morn is not more bright,
Or constant to the stay,
Than love's own rosy beams of light,
Which chase life's clouds away.

Let love and song unite their powers,
To swell the magic strain,
They'll serve to charm the 'fleeting hours'
And lull the sigh of pain.

THE MISCELLANIST.

From Noah's N. Y. National Advocate

Mr. Editor—We had a wag, a midshipman on board our ship, (the Constitution) by the name of Pollard,—this was in 1804 or 5. Pollard being once in the steeragewith the rest of the midshipmen, laid a wager that he would make theCommodore give him permission to go ashore, and also to lend him his cocked hat, sword and money. The bet was readily taken up, and considered as won by the opposite party. Young Pollard, watching the opportunity, went into the cabin. "Commodore" said he, "I have not been on shore for 6 months—you will not consider it improper if I request your permission to go on shore to day?" 'Certainly not,' said the commodore, 'you can go.' Pollard bowed, 'Commodore, I have no sword, and don't like to visit in the city [Leghorn or Marseilles] without a sword, will you lend me one of your dress swords?' 'Oh yes, my boy, bring me one of my dress swords from the forward cabin."

Pollard hesitated and bowed. 'You gave an order that none of the midshipmen should go ashore in a round hat. I have no chapeau,and now I have a sword, can I have one of your hats?' The Commodore looked at him awhile, and said, 'well, well, you may have one,' the boy was despatched for the hat and sword, which the midshipman took under his arm and marched triumphantly towards the door, which on reaching, he turned round, and looked hard at the Commodore—'well, what next?' 'Why, Commodore, I am ashamed to trespass on your kindness; the purser has gone ashore—I have six months pay due me, and have not a dollar in my pocket—will you lend me a trifle?' The Commodore began to be restless, but going to his desk, he took out 5 dollars, and said—'there,there—go, go.' Young Pollard came laughing into the steerage, and spreading his spoil on the table, claimed the bet, which, on receiving, and decorated with the Commodore's cocked hat and sword, he soon was rowed on shore. I dare say Commodore Rodgers will recollect it. We have all had many a laugh on the subject. YOUNG NEPTUNE.

TAILORS DEFENDED.

A tailor instead of being the 9th part of a man, possesses the qualities of nine men combined, as follows:

1st. As an economist, he cuts his garment according to his cloth.

2d. As a gardener, he is careful of his cabbage.

3d As a cook, he provides himself with a hot goose.

4th As a sheriff's officer, he does much at sponging.

5th As an executioner; he furnishes many gallowses.

6th As a general, he brandishes not a sword, but a bare bodkin.

7th As a sailor he shears off whenever he thinks necessary.

8th As a lawyer, he attends to many suits.

9th As a christian and divine, it is his chief aim to form good habits for himself and others.

I think enough has been said to do away the opprobrium so often cast upon the knights of the thimble and needle,and to induce the fraternity to unite and contribute a suit of clothes to their friend and humble servant,

RICHARD RAGGED.

In the retreat of the French from Moscow, Count Segur relates the rather singular circumstance of a howitzer shell entering the body of a horse, which burst there, and blew him to pieces, without wounding his rider, who fell upon his legs and went on!!

AGRICULTURAL.

From the American Farmer.

☞The MARYLAND CATTLE SHOW will be held at the Maryland Tavern,four miles from the city of Baltimore, on Thursday and Friday, the first and second days of June.

Premiums will then and there be distributed, amounting in value to upwards of 800 dollars, raised by the subscriptions of regular members of the Society who pay 5 dollars per annum, and by the contributions of visitors at the gate, who pay 2 dollars each. The premiums will be bestowed, for the best Farms and Crops 284 dollars—for Horses & Mares, 75 dollars—Asses and Mules, 50 dollars—Neat Cattle, 105 dollars—Swine, 30 dollars—Sheep and Wool, 120 dollars—Family Manufactures, 102 dollars—Implements of Husbandry, 10 dollars—Fermented Liquors, 20 dollars—Butter and Cheese, 26 dollars—Ploughing, 24 dollars.

By turning to No. 24, vol. 7, page 191 of the American Farmer, it will be seen that the Maryland Agricultural Society has offered a premium of a piece of plate valued at 50 dollars, "for the farm of not less than one hundred acres, which shall appear to have been cultivated with the greatest economy and nett profit, consistently with its permanent improvement; reference being had to its natural advantages as to soil, situation," &c.

For the second best, particulars as above, a premium of a piece of plate valued at 30 dollars.

In order that every farmer and planter in Maryland,may have an equal opportunity of entering into competition,the trustees have appointed three gentlemen in each county of the state, to examine and report on the applications for the above premiums, in their respective counties.

Alleghany county—J.M'Henry,David Lynn, William Lamar. Washington—Frisby Tilghman, W. Gabby, J. Bowles. Frederick—G. Duval, B. Johnson, J. Lee. Anne Arundel—T. B. Dorsey, Henry Wayman, Col. Thomas Hood. Montgomery—Arch. Lee, George C. Washington, Roger Brook. Prince George's—Jos. Kent, Benj. Ogle, R. W. Bowie.—Calvert.—Daniel Kent, John Beckett, Richard Graham. Charles—Daniel Jenifer, John B. Wills, John Ferguson. St. Mary's—H. G. S. Key, Clem. Dorsey, Dr. James Thomas. Baltimore—Thomas Gist, John S. Webster, John Kelso. Harford,—Dr. Joseph Brownly, John Stump, Wm. M. Lansdale. Cecil—J. W. Thomas, S. Hollingsworth, jr. B. F. Machall. Kent.—Gen. Reed, Ezekiel F. Chambers. G. W. Thomas. Queen Ann's—Col. Emory, W. R. Stewart, W. D. Coursey. Talbot—R. H. Goldsborough, S. Stevens, Tench Tilghman.—Caroline—Col. Potter, Richard Hughlett, Wm. Orrell. Somerset—Dr. Jas. Wilson, Littleton Dennis, Arnold E. Jones. Dorset—Dr. Muse, Washington Eccleston, Charles Goldsborough. Worcester—Dr. Spence,T. N. Williams,Col. G. Haywood.

Those who may desire to offer for these premiums will please apply to the committee in their respective counties,to view their farms and make report, as set forth in the paper above mentioned.

☞Farmers will do well to take notice that many of the Premiums offered by the Maryland Agricultural Society have every year been returned for want of competition; so it will doubtless be again, if gentlemen are prevented by an ill founded apprehension that good animals are not good enough for exhibition; or by an inertness which is yet more to be condemned.

☞The Agricultural Society will make arrangements to exhibit free of cost to their owners,all fine animals whether shewn for premium or not, and will feel indebted to those who may send them for exhibition.

LIGHT READING.

At the Court at Concord, Mass.—Sally Reed, for an assault, committed on her husband, John Reed, of Bedford, by "pounding" him with a large mallet on his "knowledge-box." She was sentenced to 4 months confinement in the common jail. At her request, she was permitted to go to Cambridge jail "for the benefit of the sea air." Application was made for a divorce, by her husband, who had received so many striking marks of her attachment, which was granted without alimony.—Boston Pat.

In a bill for pulling down the old Newgate of Dublin, & rebuilding it in the same spot, it was enacted, that to prevent unnecessary expense, the prisoners should remain in the old gaol till the new one was finished.

A terrible disease.—How do you do Jack? what ails you man; inquired a friend to another. 'Oh! my dear fellow, (replied he) I have got a terrible bilious disorder.' 'Indeed! [said the first] I did not know before that you were subject to bile.' 'Bile! (said he) oh no, but I am so to a heap of bills which I can't pay, and if this be not a bill-ious disorder—pray what is it?

Shaking Hands.—At a late duel in K. the parties discharged their pistols without effect; whereupon one of the seconds interfered, and proposed that the combatants should shake hands—to this the other second objected, as unnecessary, "for," said he, their hands have been shaking this half hour.
