Centreville is to have a gas plant. A coal gas plant is being considered, instead of the acetylene gas used here.

Mid-Summer styles in handsome millinery now on exhibition at the store of Miss Jennie Stafford on Main street.

F. J. Wright, the Refracting Optician, has moved into the Journal Building with Mr. C. H. Bullock, where he will be pleased to meet his many patrons.

A promising young horse belonging to Mr. A. J. Smith, of Tuckahoe Neck, which is being trained on the track of Mr. F. P. Covey, near Federalsburg, showed a half mile the other day in 1.12.

Messrs. H. A. Roe and B. W. Parker left on Saturday on a trip to Georgia in the interests of the Denton Lumber and Box Company. They are prospecting for timber to be cut and used in the business of the company.

The steamer Vesper has resumed her trips between this place and Baltimore, after having been thoroughly repaired in anticipation of the grain freighting season. She will hereafter make two trips each week instead of one.

The marriage of Rev. James L. Nichols, of Wilmington, and Miss Emma Masten, of Harrington, is announced to take place in the Harrington M. P. Church on June 2. Mr. Nichols is pastor of the Second M. P. Church, of Wilmington.

Mr. T. L. Trice's store, in the Masonic Building, presents a fine appearance in the evening with the new gas lights just put in. The entire building, including the large hall and two lodge rooms on the second and third floors, is to be lighted with gas.

The Anklam Manufacturing Company has secured the services of a practical plumber, Mr. H. P. Wunder, who has already done considerable work in town, who will take charge of the plumbing department of the company. Mr. Wunder has purchased an interest in the company.

The workmen who are laying the concrete pavements in town began work on the pavement in front of the Law Building on Monday morning. Mr. T. Pliny Fisher will have the pavement extended past the front of his office, adjoining the Law Building. Mr. Crew, of Salisbury, is in charge of the work.

Gas lighting fixtures are being put in at the Holiness Church. The gas fitters began work on the piping on Tuesday. Some time ago the Gas Company offered to contribute $25 to any, or all of the churches in town if they would light them and the parsonages with gas. Thus far no arrangements have been made with any of them except the one mentioned above.

A letter of inquiry has been received at this office from Chestertown, requesting information regarding the gas plant now in use in our town. We are glad to know that Denton is attracting attention from our sister towns by reason of the spirit of progress and improvement now displayed by our citizens. We have endeavored to put our Chestertown friends in possession of the desired information and hope to hear in a short time that they, too, are enjoying the conveniences which come with better lights.

Additional Locals.

Miss Stafford invites the attention of her patrons to a new consignment of goods just opened.

Mr. J. Frank Harper, State's Attorney for Queen Anne's county, was in town on Friday of last week.

The iron awning in front of the Peoples Bank and Trice's Store is being erected by workmen from the city.

Ex-Senator Robt. M. Messick and wife, of Bethlehem, were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Wallace on Saturday last.

Read the new advertisement of Mrs. Julia Day on the first page. The celebrated Park's ice cream is now in season.

Mr. Emanuel Lane and Mrs. Ella Thomas were married at the residence of Rev. W. J. D. Lucas on Wednesday evening last.

The festival held in the assembly room of the Law Building, given by the ladies of the M. P. Church on Monday and Tuesday evenings, was quite a success. Everyone who attended expressed themselves as having enjoyed the evenings very much. The receipts from both evenings were about $45.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Marion Emerson, of Ansonia, Conn., spent this week with Mrs. R. A. Emerson and other relatives in town. Mr. Emerson finds many changes in the town, and while he says the Denton of his boyhood is fast disappearing, he is pleased to see the signs of progress and development apparent on every hand.

The drought of five weeks was broken in a part of the county on Friday last. The rain, however, was not general and many parts of the county had only a slight sprinkle. At Denton the ground was wet to a depth of two or three inches, while at Ridgely there was hardly enough to lay the dust. Sunday morning there was another good shower which seems to have been more general and the farmers have been improving the opportunity to get out their plants. The impression seems to be that the Gandy strawberries will be benefitted by the rain, but the main part of the berry crop is a failure beyond any hope of improvement now. The rain was about ten days too late. Other crops of all kinds will be greatly benefitted.

The supply of water in the drive wells at the water plant began to fail during the dry weather and the commissioners have had two additional wells put down to a depth of about 25 feet. This has increased the supply very perceptibly, in fact there is no trouble in filling the tank in the usual time, several more wells will be put down yet, in order to avoid any risk. Engineer Harris informs us that he can now pump 100 gallons per minute. The amount of water used increased during the dry weather from 7,000 gallons per day to 35,000. The 22 pave-washes in use are largely responsible for the increase. Now that the rains have laid the dust and refreshed the grass on the lawns there will not be so much used until another dry spell occurs.

Orphans' Court Proceedings.

At the meeting of the Orphans' Court on Tuesday all the Judges, Sigler, Day and Dennis, were present. The following business was transacted:

Mrs. J. W. Clarson spent commencement week with her son, Prof. J. W. Clarson, of the Academy. They returned to their home in Baltimore Saturday.

Commencement exercises at the Academy on 19 inst., were unusually interesting, the highest honor being bestowed upon Miss Inez Noble, the valedictorian, while the second honor was conferred upon Miss Elsie Trice, the salutatorian. Beautiful essays were read by Miss Bertie Taylor on "Our Aim in Life," and Miss Lottie Charles on "Stepping Stones." The music by the Preston M. E. Choir was considered especially fine. Mrs. Dr. Kelley presided at the organ. Rev. G. C. Williams addressed the graduates on "Success in Life." The discourse was able and instructive. Dr. J. L. Noble presented the diplomas in a few well chosen words.

Children in Peril.

Some of the most anxious hours of a mother's life are those when the little ones have the croup. Foley's Honey and Tar is a safe and effective remedy that never fails. "My boy would have died of membraneous croup if it had not been for Foley's Honey and Tar," writes C. W. Lynch, of Winchester, Ind. Sold by C. H. Redden, Denton; Preston Pharmacy, Preston.

June-Time and Rose-Time.

It is rose-time, it is June time.
Hear the lark a-down the dell
Singing sweet in tuneful measures
Summer songs he loves so well.
All the woods are full of verdure,
All the lands are rich in bloom;
It is rose-time, it is June time!
South winds bring the sweet perfume.

Roses blush along the wayside.
Roses red by garden walls.
Roses white so pure and stately
Blossom where the sunlight falls.
June-time hours grow long and tender
Full of wonder rare and sweet,
Filling all the world with splendor
As the day and evening meet.

The reverend clergy with the lay delegates and visitors to the convention are requested to notify the secretary how many tickets they will need and by what road they will travel, and ticket orders will be sent them as soon as issued. The secretary will be glad to forward any blanks needed and give any information he may have concerning the convention.

Death of James G. Redden.

Mr. James G. Redden, the oldest citizen of the town, and one of the oldest in the county, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. W. Field, of this place, on Tuesday morning at 7 o'clock, of the infirmities incident to old age. He has been failing for some time, but owing to his strong will power he has only been confined to the house for the past few months. During most of his life he engaged in farming and until the death of his wife a couple of years ago, continued to reside at the old homestead near Denton Bridge, where he superintended the farming of several acres of land. He was remarkably active for his age and in early life was known as one of the foremost business men of the county.

Mr. Redden was born in Delaware and in 1839 married Miss Sarah Bounds, a member of a prominent family of that State, and is survived by four children: Orlando J., Frank A., and Chas. H. Redden, and Mrs. Jude W. Field, all of this place. In the early Sixties he conducted the hotel here and about the same time was elected Sheriff of the county. On the 4th of August next, he would have been 88 years old, having been born in 1815. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock, from the home of his daughter, on Main street.

An Early Morning Fire.

A fire occurred in the store of N. L. Tribett, at the depot, yesterday morning about 4 o'clock. Mr. Tribett awoke at that time and thought he detected the smell of smoke and went out to investigate, and found that it was in his own store. He notified engineer Harris at the waterworks and with the assistance of neighbors went to work with buckets, and by the time the hose carriage arrived the fire was about out. It had caught under the counter from some unknown cause, and had burned through the floor and among the goods stored under the counter. The stock was badly damaged by smoke and water, but the building was not seriously injured. The stock of goods was insured for $1000, the loss is estimated at $600.

"An Off Year."

The farmers are predicting what is known as "an off year" in their vocation. The late frosts injured the fruit to such an extent that very little money is expected from that source; the dry weather has seriously injured the strawberry crop; wheat has also been injured from the fact that the straw will be very short, and without straw there is very little prospect of a large yield of grain; tomato plants have not grown well and a shortage in plants is predicted. Taking all these circumstances in consideration there seems to be little left from which to make up much of a revenue from the farm. The farmers have mostly adopted a system of diversified farming, but thus far some phases of the weather seems to have been against them all.

Seemer Must Stand Trial.

John W. Seemer, of Easton, proprietor of Seemer's Livery Stable, is now on trial in the Talbot court, charged with the murder of Scott Perkins, a colored hostler with whom he had a quarrel concerning wages. The jury of inquest decided that Mr. Seemer was reasonably justified in using his pistol on Perkins and he was released from custody until the convening of court when the grand jury found a true bill against him for the homicide and he was arrested. On habeas corpus proceedings the court has admitted him to bail. The trial was taken up on Monday and is causing considerable excitement in the town. The State is represented by States Attorney Clayland Mullikin, and William H. Adkins, Joseph B. Seth, J. Harry Compton, and George W. Wilson represent the defendant. A jury was secured on Monday morning and the court took a recess until 2 p. m. Mr. Seemer was acquitted by the jury on Tuesday, after a consultation of 20 minutes.

MY PETS.—XVIII.

From "Scattered Seeds" by the late William T. Kelley.

When I was a little boy, six or seven years of age, nearly seventy years ago, a circumstance occurred that deeply touched the humane spirit within me. Two young boys not much older than myself, who were slaves and belonged to a neighbor of my father, frequently came over to our house on First day afternoon to play with me. It so happened that I often taught them their letters, when not at play, out of a little primer, and also to spell and later on to read and write a little. In doing this, I was soon led to occupy a vacant house of my father's and I had quite a little school of colored children, and even some grown folks from the neighborhood round about. But to my surprise I found myself in trouble, for all this soon came to their masters' notice and to other slaveholders.

One day the owner of the two boys came over to see my father about it, saying I had violated the law in "teaching a slave to read." My father was an old-time Abolitionist, and was also a prominent minister among Friends; I doubt not that when the slaveholder left my father's house he knew a little more than he did when he came concerning my father's opinion of the cruel institution of slaveholding. But it appeared that I was too young to be sent to the penitentiary, and the boys were too dangerouse to have around other slaves after they had learned to read and write. They might soon direct others, or themselves, towards the magnetic North Star, or star of freedom, (the Free States). They were soon sold to "Georgia traders" to go South, away from their homes, their dear mother, and their friends. Their mother had in her early life been my mother's nurse, and the boys my play mates; although their skin was colored, it was nearly as white as mine, and I had most innocently been the cause of their trouble. They were, in the slaveholder's cruel law, but "chattel slaves."

My little school was broken up (by the slaveholders) but from that time my heart and my acts have ever been true towards all unfortunate children, and during the remainder of my life may I be able to see the right and to do it as ability affords towards all of God's creatures, whether to man, bird or beast.

"Blessed is he who can divine
Where real right doth lie,
And dares to take the side that seems
Wrong to man's blindfold eye.

To falter would be sin."

$1400 on Two Days' Haul.

Shad fishermen, on the Delaware, have practically abandoned that business and gone to catching sturgeon, although the shad fishing season lasts until June 10. A few days ago two shad fishermen were surprised to run across a school of sturgeon. They spent two days in mid-stream. They caught 28 sturgeon in two days and realized from them $1400. One monster fish brought them $90.

It was thought that sturgeon had practically disappeared from the Delaware, and at the last session of the Legislature, Fish Commissioner Anderson was thought to be advocating a lost cause when he appeared before the Legislature urging an appropriation for their propagation

THE EASTERN SHORE.

Professor Massey, the editor of the Practical Farmer, recently received the following query from Mr. Geo. J. Parmley, of Ogden, Utah:

"I would like very much to get your opinion of the Eastern Shore of Maryland for a man of limited means to get a farm, and, whether it would be a desirable place to locate, and if he should raise stock and do general farming, or would it be profitable to raise truck and all fruits?"

Following is the reply of Mr. Massey, who is a native Eastern Shoreman, through the colums of his most excellent journal:

"The editor of the Practical Farmer has time and again given his opinion in regard to the country embraced in the Eastern Shore of Maryland and Delaware and the Eastern Shore of Virginia. We have always been of the opinion that there is no country better suited for profitable farming, market gardening and stock raising than this peninsula. The climate being mild for the latitude, the soil easily worked and improved and the transportation facilities unequalled by any section of the country, with large cities easily reached by rail or by water. There are certain sections of the peninsula that are better adapted to general farming, grain growing and stock raising, while other sections, with lighter, sandy soil, are particularly fitted for market gardening for the Northern cities. This is particularly true of the southern counties of Maryland and Delaware and the Eastern Shore counties of Virginia. Whether a man of limited means will do well there or not will depend upon the man himself, and this is a question which we cannot possibly answer."

A Great Story in the June National.

Several of the leading papers of the South have made preliminary announcement of the principal story in the June National—Little Brown Ann, a novelette by Eva Hampton Prather—and this story, published complete in the June National, promises to attract more attention south of Mason and Dixon than any other magazine feature of recent date.

Kent County's Finances.

Chief Judge James A. Pearce has issued a special call for the convening of the grand jury for Kent county on June 1. The object of the session is to consider the employment of an expert to examine into the financial condition of the county. Under the recent investigation made by Messrs. Townsend and Wilson by order of the County Commissioners the county's indebtedness was shown to be about $15,000, but the grand jury, in its report, claims that this report is partisan and lacks the confidence of the taxpayers.

SELLING OFF AT COST!

This Is No Joke.

Owing to lack of room in my store to properly display

CLOTHING

I have determined to get out of the CLOTHING BUSINESS.

I announce that from today I will sell any MAN'S, YOUTH'S or CHILD'S SUIT in my store at the

WHOLESALE COST PRICE

I have a fine line of these goods on my tables now, such as are sold in clothing stores everywhere and I am not waiting till the season is over before offering you these bargains, but am offering them right now almost at the beginning of the season.

Men's Suits in prices from $6 to $15 can now be bought from $4 to $10. Youth's Suits, 16 to 19 years old (which will also fit small men), in prices ranging from $4 to $12, can now be bought from $2.50 to $8. Children's Knee Pants Suits in Blouse, Norfolk and Reefer styles, a big line. Suits that ranged in prices from $1.50 to $5 I will now sell at $1 to $3.50.

Now any one wanting a suit for all times of the year can be accommodated. I had quite a lot left over from the winter and they are easy of access and I can get them out on call. There is nothing in the above lines of clothing worn, as the entire stock was bought last fall and this spring, so it is all practically new. Come and look for yourselves at your earliest opportunity. Some I will sell even lower than cost, not because they are unbesireable, but because I must clear them out, as I want the room for other lines of goods before the fall.

The above Special Sale does not include SINGLE PANTS, as I intend to continue a large line of them, and it will pay you to examine them if you want a fine pair.
