The railroad employes on the Delaware Main Line are now receiving instructions in "New Book of Rules," from which they will be required to pass examinations in the near future. Under these rules a new code of signals will go into effect about the first of May, and the various changes are so radical that it is making some employes hustle to prepare for the examinations.

Determined to break up the practice of stealing rides on the trains of the Delaware Railroad, the company commissioned numerous officers to look out for trespassers. An abandoned well, 200 years old and 30 feet deep, was struck by the workmen in the basement of the new State Administration Building, at a point exactly underneath one of the sites of a massive Corinthian column. School Trouble at Tilghman's Island.

Great excitement prevails on Tilghman's Island over the whipping of a son of Charles P. Cummings by Charles L. Weaver, teacher of Tilghman School. Mr. Weaver has been arrested and held under $200 bail by Justice of the Peace Benjamin Sherwood, of Wittman. for his appearance at the May term of the Circuit Court for Talbot county. Mr. Weaver says he wrote to the trustees of the school, informing them that the boy was unruly and asked whether he should whip him or send him home, and they replied to whip him. At the same time he says he also sent word to Mr. Cummings to the same effect and he sent word back to whip him, which eh did, but only with a small switch and left no bruises on his back or legs as is contended.

This is not Mr. Weaver's first case, as he was up once before for whipping a son of Wade Cummings. He was given a hearing before the School Board and County School Examiner and exonerated.

As the School Board intends to maintain discipline in the schools of the county, they propose to stand by the teacher in this case.—Easton Star.

Rector Has Troubles.

There seems to be quite a serious split between the rector and members of the Protestant Episcopal Church, of Centreville, owing to certain innovations introduced by the rector, Rev. Walter B. Stehl, contrary to the belief of some of the congregation. The points of difference are set forth in the following petition, which has been presented to the vestry:

"We, the undersigned members of St. Paul's Parish, respectively request that you will forbid the wearing of red cassocks at any service in our church and so far as may be consistant with your duty, prevent further unnecessary innovations in our church services. We also request the discontinuance of such teaching of forms as kneeling wnen approaching the altar or passing the same. These teachings are being taught the young, and, in our judgement, are unwarranted by the church,and will, if permitted, work not only an injury to the young, but cause serious trouble in our congregation. It is not our desire to wound or offend any, but in the honest discharge of our duty to our beloved church, we feel called upon to make these requests."

The petition was largely signed by representative members of the church.

Pastor Returned.

The Lewes Pilot has the following to say regarding the return of their pastor who is a son of Mr. W. H. Mowbray of Denton.

"Rev. William R. Mowbray, pastor of the Lewes M. E. Church, was returned to this charge by Bishop Hamilton at the conference held at Salisbury, Md. The congregation was worked up to a high pitch, as a delegation from St. Paul's Church, Wilmington, went to see the Bishop and tried to land him for their church, provided their pastor, Dr. Hill was made District Superintendent, and a delegation of the Official members, of this church, went to Salisbury on Sunday in an automobile to see the Bishop in behalf of our church. The pastor has been at Lewer for the past three years and received a ununimous vote to return for the next year. During his pastorate here a new church site has been purchased and over $8,000 subacribed for a new church which will be constructed this year. The architect has the plans in hand and it is said that in the course of the next few weeks this structure will be begun, and the congregation and the friends realized that if the pastor was removed at this time it would likely be much harder to go on with the building as he had arranged the plans and knew the people and friends much better than a new man could possible know for some time to come. The whole town is much gratified to learn of his return to this charge as he is highly respected by all who know him.

The company is having plans drawn for a first-class 100-room modern hotel to be built on the bluff overlooking Chesapeake Bay and Chester River, and near the present hotel and railroad station. The new hotel will be completed about the first of June of this year.

Fell from Frightened Horse.

In an exciting battle between a young girl and a maddened horse on one of the principal streets of Smyrna a few days ago, a crowd of excited people was attracted but the horse was not subdued until the girl was painfully cut and injured about the ankle and removed in a swoon. Miss Esther Reed, of Smyrna, a High School girl, while riding a young and spirited horse belonging to Harry B. Grieves, evidently lost control of the reins and while clinging to the horse's mane she bounded off the animal, her hold and her fall throwing the mount so that it turned a complete somersault. Both horse and rider were stunned, but both were scrambling to regain their feet. Miss Reed's foot caught in the stirrup and when the animal arose she was dragged along the brick pavement for ten feet or more before the horse was overcome, and the rider was extricated and removed, unconscious, to her home.

Local Option Ruling.

The Cecil County Court in session at Elkton, last Tuesday, rendered an important opinion regarding the effectiveness of the present local option law in force in this county. The opinion was rendered at the conclusion of the trial of the State vs. Emory Tilden, colored, of Port Deposit, who was tried and convicted of violating the local option law. The evidence showed that the defendant on three occasions went to Havre de Grace and bought whisky for two other men of his town; that he simply got the whisky as a favor for the men. The court held that such an act was a violation of the present law, Judge Pearce stating for the court that it was in their opinion that any person upon going to the city and bringing back to a friend spirituous liquors of any kind, which it is unlawful to sell in this county under the present local option law, would be guilty of violating the law. Tilden was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, in default of which he will have to serve one year in the House of Correction.

How To Pet A Horse.

"Not many persons know how to pet a horse—from the horse's standpoint, at any rate," said a trainer. "Every nice looking horse comes in for a good deal of petting. Hitch a fine horse close to the curb, and you'll find that half the men, women, and children who go by will stop for a minute say 'nice horsey,' and give him an affectionate pat or two. The trouble is they don't pat him in the right place. If you want to make a horse think he is going straight to heaven hitched to a New York cab or delivery wagon rub his eyelids. Next to that form of endearment, a horse likes to be rubbed right up between the ears. In petting horses, most people slight those nerve centers. They stroke the horse's nose. While a well-behaved horse will accept the nasal caress complacently, he would much prefer that nice soothing touch applied to the eyelids. Once in a while a person comes along who really does know how to pet a horse. Nine times out of ten that man was brought up in the country among horses,and learned when a boy their peculiar ways."—New York Globe.

QUESTIONS FOR MR. WASSON

Or Any Other Saloon Advocate to Answer.

Rev. William A. Wasson, Episcopal minister, Riverhead, Long Island, New York State, seems to be a very strong advocate for the license liquor saloon. He says there is not a passage of scripture in the Bible in support of the prohibition theory, or no license theory. Mr. Wasson is like a great many other saloon advocates, he seems to think that because the Bible don't come out in plain English and say you must vote for prohibition or no license, and you shall not drink ale, beer, brandy, claret, champagne, hard cider, rum, whisky, fermented wine, Jersey lightning and all other intoxicating drinks that ever was or ever will be made that there is no scripture in support of the prohibition or no license theory.

That reminds me of an anecdote that I read about the first railroad in this country. There were a lot of fault finders that were opposed to railroads because the Bible did not say anything about railroads. They claimed that if the Almighty wanted people to fly through the air at the rate of 30 or 40 miles an hour He would say so in the Bible. That is the way of the saloon advocates, they try to make people believe that because the Bible don't come out in plain English and say you must vote for prohibition or no license, and you shall not drink this and you shall not drink that and tell everything you shall not drink, that there is no scripture against the sale or use of strong drink.

In the first place what is the meaning of prohibition? It means to prohibit, and prohibit means to prevent or forbid. I also want you to bear in mind that prohibition and forbid have the same meaning. God prohibited or forbid Adam and Eve to eat of the fruit of a certain tree. The law of God in the Ten Commandments consist mostly of prohibition.

When the Bible says do not kill, it prohibits or forbids anybody to kill.

When the Bible says do not steal, it prohibits or forbids any one to steal.

When the Bible says do not drink strong drink, prohibits or forbids anybody to drink strong drink.

The prohibition law as applied to the liquor traffic prohibits or forbids the sale of strong drink as a beverage and if at any time it is a failure it is no fault of the prohibitionist or no license people, it is the fault of the liquor men every time. It is no credit to the liquor men to say that prohibition or no license is a failure; they are self-confessed law breakers when they say that prohibition or no license is a failure, because they are the fellows that break the law. The liquor men make and sell the liquor and furnish the liquor to the speakeasies and it is liquor men that run the speakeasies, jug taverns and other unlicensed places. Their logic is, "If you won't let us have license to sell liquor we will conduct the business in spite of the law."

If I were the liquor men I would be ashamed to say that prohibition or no license was a failure when I had done everything I could do to make it a failure. Some people seem to think there is no scripture against the use of brandy, beer, claret, champagne, hard cider, gin, rum and whisky because that kind of liquor is not mentioned in the Bible. You cannot expect the Bible to say anything about the name of any liquor that had not been used. But the sacred writers that wrote the Bible were wise enough to put in five words that knocks out every kind of intoxicating drinks that ever have been made or ever will be made. There are more than fifty passages of scripture in the Bible against intoxicating drinks. But the five words cover all that is needed to prove it is wrong to sell or use strong drink as a beverage. The Bible says "Do not drink strong drink."

The moral law always prohibits what is wrong and commends what is right. The license liquor saloon is either right or wrong, one or the other. If it is right it ought to have the same standing before the law as the selling of necessities of life such as breadstuffs, clothing, etc., and if the license liquor saloon is such a bad thing that it don't have the same standing before the law as selling dry goods, groceries, hardware, etc., then it ought to be prohibited.

I want you to bear in mind that the moral law always prohibits what is wrong and commends what is right

If Mr. Wasson believes that the business of selling strong drink as a beverage is right, same as selling dry goods, groceries, hardware,etc., then let him answer the following questions:

1. Why do liquor dealers have to get twelve responsible men to sign their application for license? Other dealers don't have it to do.

2. Why do liquor sellers often have an attorney in the city intercede for them? Other dealer don't have it to do.

3. Why do liquor sellers have to pay from $100 up to $1,000 and sometimes they have to pay $1,200 to $2,000 for a license to keep on hand a stock of liquor to the amount of $1,000 at any one time of the year? Other dealers don't have it to do.

They would have to pay about $6 up to $12 for a license to keep on hand a stock of goods to the amount of $1,000 at any one time of the year.

4. Why do liquor sellers sometimes have to give bond? Other dealers don't have it to do.

5. Why do liquor sellers often have to close their saloons in time of fires, riots, strikes and other disturbances? Other dealers don't have it to do.

6. Why are liquor sellers sometimes prohibited from having more than one saloon to 1,000 inhabitants? Other dealers don't have it to do.

7. Why are liquor sellers sometimes prohibited from having a saloon inside of 300 or 400 feet from churches, schools and palatial residences? Other dealers don't have it to do.

8. If selling liquor is such a bad thing that saloons have to be closed in times of fires, riots, strikes and disturbances, why it is not right to keep them closed all the time?

9. If it was right to close the saloons in the town of Milford, Del., in the fall of 1906 and prohibit the sale of liquor for five months, why is it not right to prohibit it all the time?

10. If it was right to close the saloons in San Francisco, Cal., April 18 1906, and prohibit the sale of liquor for 77 days, why is it not right to prohibit it all the time?

11. If Governor Folk, of Missouri, could close the saloons in St. Louis for nine months and prohibit the sale of liquor for nine months, why is it not right to prohibit it all the time?

12. If it is right to close the saloons and prohibit the sale of liquor for one day, one week, one month, five months or nine months, why is it not right to prohibit the sale of it all the time?

It is an indisputable fact that the liquor saloon is the one great cause of drunkenness, and drunkenness is the one great cause of murder.

13. If it is right to prohibit murder, why is it not right to prohibit the cause of murder.

Mr. Wasson says that prohibition is a failure, but that is a big mistake. Prohibition as applied to the liquor traffic is no more a failure than it is when you apply it to anything else. There is a law to prohibit murder yet in this country there is about 12,000 murders and homicides every year.

There is a law to prohibit stealing, yet there are thousands of rogues stealing in this country every day in the year.

Mr. Wasson says there are a great many speakeasies and blind-tigers in prohibition or no license States, but that is not a correct statement. Speakeasies exist only where easy officers rule, and blind-tigers exist only where blind officers rule; where the officers are blind to their obligations. Sperkeasies, blind-tigers or jug taverns are not the product of prohibition or no license. They often exist in greater numbers in license States and are the result of lawlessness of the liquor traffic.

Philadelphia is a high license city with 1910 licensed saloons, yet there is about 1,100 speakeasies in Philaphia.

Mr. Wasson makes a great ado about Christ making wine out of water. Mr. Wasson or any other sensible man knows that the wine Christ made out of water was not a fermented wine, because it did not have time to ferment. I have sent Mr. Wasson the history of biblical wines. I have also sent him 13 questions in regard to using wine and strong drink. Mr. Wasson cannot prove by the Bible that Christ ever used any fermented wine or strong drink.

Mr. Wasson says that he has solved the liquor problem. He says that he believes in the license liquor saloon, but the licensee should be a good, moral person. I would like for Mr. Wasson to tell me how a good moral person could engage in a bad, immoral business. How can a man be a good, moral man and be a bad immoral man at the same time? I want Mr. Wasson to answer that queston.

Jesus said: "Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." I want Mr. Wasson to tell me how a liquor seller can love "thy neighbor as thyself" when he is engaged in a business that sends his neighbor down to a drunkard's grave. Please answer that question.

Mr. Wasson says the saloon exists because there is a demand for it. That may be one reason why it exists, but that is no reason why it should exist. There is a demand for jails and penitentiaries, but that is no reason why saloons should exist to fill the jails and penitentiaries with criminals.

Mr. Wasson says that the saloon fills a social need. That is no argument for the saloon. That is one of the worst things against the saloon. The social part leads many persons into drinking that would not drink and it causes many persons to drink more than they ought to drink by treating one another and tempting men and boys to drink when they would not have drank. What does the Bible say in regard to treating men or boys to liquor? It says "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink." God pass that kind of a sentence on anybody for giving his neighbor drink, what kind of a sentence will he pass on any man that is engaged in a business that sells his neighbor or anybody else all the liquor they will pay for? I want Mr. Wasson or any other saloon advocate to answer that question.

Mr. Wasson says there is no passage of scripture in support of the total abstaining theory. He is badly mistaken; he is like a great many other saloon advocates, he cannot find anything against the use or sale of liquor because they don't want to find it. The Bible says abstain from the appearance of evil. I would like for Mr. Wasson or any other saloon advocate to tell me how a liquor seller or a saloon advocate can abstain from the appearance of evil when they are engaged in a business and advocate a business that leads millions of people into evil.. I want Mr. Wasson or any other saloon advocate to answer that question.

Mr. Wasson says that prohibition is a failure. I want Mr. Wasson or any other saloon advocate to tell me whenever it is a failure, who is it that is responsible for that failure? Is it the liquor men that either make liquor, sell liquor, or advocate sale of liquor? Or is it the men that neither make liquor, sell liquor, drink liquor, or advocate the sale of liquor? Please answer that question.

The liquor men are self-confessed law breakers when they say that prohibition is a failure, because they are the fellows that break the law.. The men that neither make liquor, drink liquor, sell liquor, or advocate the sale of liquor, cannot break the prohibition law.

It will take about eight more letters the size of this one to finish the argument with Mr. Wasson on the liquor question.. When he answers the eighteen questions in this letter and the 32 questions I sent him one week ago I will have some harder questions for him to answer.

TILGHMAN HARVEY.

February 21, 1910.

P. S.—Inside the three weeks I have sent Mr. Wasson three letters asking him to debate the liquor question with me but I never got a definite answer from him until yesterday. He refuses to debate liquor question with me,saying that he is too busy. I hope he will be busy all the time, so he won't have any time to make any speeches or write any more articles for the liquor men.

The plan would undoubtedly be a great convenience for a certain class of young men and would work well in many places.

Do Not Be A Faultfinder.

Most of us can say that we know some persons who are continually fault-finding. They remind us of Sheridan's "School for Scandal." No person is so good, no one is striving so hard to be good, that some evil thing cannot be said about him. Flaws are picked in the best things and the best people. The attitude of fault-finding, when it becomes chronic, is a cancer in the character. The bloom is rubbed off of the fairest flower. In itself it seems like a little fox, but multiplied by the increasing habit it becomes an army that destroys. It is well for us to take account of this habit if we have it even in the smallest degree, and root it out—Charles M. Sheldon.
