proportion, are no more! Humane and pious contrivance! To alleviate the fancied sufferings of the accursed posterity of Ham, you sacrifice by a cruel death two-thirds of the children of the blessed Shem—and demand the applause of Christians—the blessing of Heaven! If this "experiment" is to go on, in God's name try your hand upon the Thugs. That other species of "immigration" to which you are resorting I will consider presently.

But what do you calculate will be the result of emancipation, by whatever means accomplished? You will probably point me, by way of answer, to the West Indies—doubtless to Antigua, the great boast of abolition. Admitting that it has succeeded there—which I will do for the sake of the argument—do you know the reason of it? The true and only causes of whatever success has attended it in Antigua are, that the population was before crowded, and all or nearly all the arable land in cultivation. The emancipated negroes could not, many of them, get away if they desired; and knew not where to go, in case they did. They had practically no alternative but to remain on the spot; and remaining, they must work on the terms of the proprietors, or perish—the strong arm of the mother country forbidding all hope of seizing the land for themselves. The proprietors well knowing that they could thus command labor for the merest necessities of life, which was much cheaper than maintaining the non-effective as well as effective slaves in a style which decency and interest, if not humanity, required, willingly accepted half their value, and at once realized far more than the interest on the other half, in the diminution of their losses, and the reduced comforts of the freemen. One of your most illustrious judges, who was also a profound and philosophical historian, has said "that Villeinage was not abolished, but went into decay in England." This was the process. This has been the process whenever (the name of) Villeinage or slavery has been successfully abandoned. Slavery in fact "went into decay" in Antigua. I have admitted that under similar circumstances it might profitably cease here—that is, profitably to the individual proprietors. Give me half the value of my slaves, and compel them to remain and labor on my plantation at 10 to 11 cents a day, as they do in Antigua, supporting themselves and families, and you shall have them to-morrow, and if you like dub them "free." Not to stickle, I would surrender them without price. No—I recall my words: My humanity revolts at the idea. I am attached to my slaves, and would not have art or part in reducing them to such a condition. I deny, however, that Antigua, as a community, is or ever will be as prosperous under present circumstances, as she was before abolition, though fully ripe for it. The fact is well known. The reason is that the African, if not a distinct, is an inferior race, and never will effect, as it never has effected, as much in any other condition as in that of slavery.

I know of no slaveholder who has visited the West Indies since slavery was abolished, and published his views of it. All our facts and opinions come through the friends of the experiment, or at least those not opposed to it. Taking these, even without allowance, to be true as stated, I do not see where the Abolitionists find cause for exultation. The tables of exports, which are the best evidences of the condition of a people, exhibit a woful falling off—excused, it is true, by unprecedented droughts and hurricanes, to which their free labor seems unaccountably more subject than slave labor used to be. I will not go into detail. It is well known that a large proportion of British legislation and expenditure, and that proportion still constantly increasing, is most anxiously devoted to repairing the monstrous error of emancipation. You are actually galvanizing your expiring colonies. The truth, deduced from all the facts, was thus pithily stated by the London Quarterly Review, as long ago as 1840: "None of the benefits anticipated by mistaken good intentions have been realized, while every evil wished for by knaves and foreseen by the wise has been painfully verified. The wild rashness of fanaticism has made the emancipation of slaves equivalent to the loss of one half of the West Indies, and yet put back the chance of negro civilization."—(Art Ld. Dudley's Letters.) Such are the real fruits of your never-to-be-too-much-glorified Abolition, and the valuable dividend of your twenty millions of pounds sterling invested therein.

A Boston chap who lately returned from a tour in New Hampshire, says he was chased out of the State by pumpkin vines, which grew as fast as his horse could run.

An old lady, of much experience, says that she has no faith in the story now going the rounds in the papers, that babies can be made to grow by electricity.

Two travellers, having been robbed in a wood and tied to trees some distance from each other, one of them in despair exclaimed, 'Oh, I'm undone!' 'Are you,' said the other, 'then I wish you'd undo me.'

A Fact.—Young ladies who are accustomed to read newspapers are always observed to possess winning ways, most amiable dispositions, invariably make good wives, and always select good husbands.

GRAHAM'S MAGAZINE.

☞NEW VOLUME AND CHEAP POSTAGE.☜

JULY 1845.

Get up your clubs before the franking privilege expires, and forward names before June 10th, 1845. Postage 4 1-2 cents.

Graham's American Monthly Magazine, will commence a new volume, June 10th 1845, with the July number. Its long and universally successful career, from its commencement until the present time, when it has a circulation exceeding by thousands any other magazine in the country, is perhaps as good an evidence of its great and increasing merit as the publisher has it in his power to offer.—To his old subscribers no assurances are necessary of his determination to maintain its present ascendancy over all the rival periodicals of the country. The ability to do this is known by the engagement, permanently, of such men as Bryant, Cooper, Paulding, Dana, Longfellow, Hoffman, Whipple, Lowell, Neal, etc. of high reputation in the literary world, as regular contributors, in addition to a previous list, embracing the names of the very best writers in America.

The Founders of our National Literature.

The contributors of Graham are not mere fledglings, or anonymous, but they are the writers whose names are identified with our National Literature all over the world, and in Europe their names are ranked beside those of the most eminent writers abroad. There is no magazine but Graham's that presents anything like such an array of literary talent as the following eminent writers: John Fenimore Cooper, W. C. Bryant, Hon. James K. Paulding, R. H. Dana, H. W. Longfellow, Edgar A. Poe, James Russel Lowell, Nathaniel Hawthorne, J. C. Neal, Alfred B. Street, Henry W. Herbert, Charles Fenno Hoffman, E. P. Whipple, Hon. R. Conrad, H. T. Tuckerman, Francis J. Grund, W. G. Simms, W. H. C. Hosmer, J. B. Taylor, etc., etc.

Mrs. Amelia B. Welby, Miss Sedgwick, Mrs. Kirkland, Mrs. Sigourney, Mrs. Stephens, Fanny Forester, Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Annan, Mrs. Osgood, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Embury, Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Pierson, Mrs. M'Donald, Miss Sidney, Mrs. Worthington, Miss Rand, Miss Hervey, and others. Many names of like celebrity are necessarily omitted for want of space.

Editorial and Critical Department.

The editorial department will continue to embrace notes on current literature, and reviews of all new American or foreign works of general interest or value. The criticisms of Graham's Magazine are acknowledged in all parts of the country to be superior in acumen, honesty and independence to those of any cotemporaries. Great scope will be given to this department of the work, and topics on all subjects likely to attract attention will be fearlessly discussed.

Hints at Fashionable Life in Letters from abroad,

Written by F. J. Grund, Esq., Consul to Antwerp, who will also furnish us with the earliest literary intelligence, and short notices of new works, prior to their appearance here in the shape of reprints.—This will give Graham a position to adjust the value of foreign works, before the purchaser here has been duped by puffs paid for by interested publishers.

Hints on Sports and Pastimes.

We shall devote a chapter to sports and pastimes, from the pen of Frank Forester, each month, for the amusement of the gentlemen. The able sketches of Forester, in the New York Spirit of the Times, have rendered his name familiar with American sportsmen.

Graham's Elegant American Engravings

The most elegant engravings that have ever appeared in America have been given to the public in Graham's Magazine. We are now prepared to give the right direction to the talents of our artists, and are resolved that a national tone shall be strictly preserved in "Graham." Hereafter we shall place in the engravers' hands none but American pictures. Our own country abounds with the finest scenery in the world. It is full of historical associations, of thrilling interest, and on every hand subjects start up, fit for the painter's pencil and the engraver's burin. Every patriotic sentiment urges the selection of national subjects for the pen and pencil, and we feel assured that the American public will sustain the enterprise. The subjects now in the hands of our artists embrace Battle-Grounds—Views in the South and West—Indian Portraits and Prairie Scenes—Mezzotints of Scripture and other subjects—Portraits of our Contributors—Flowers from Nature, and all the varieties of elegant illustration that art or taste can devise.

The Paris Fashions in Elegant Style.

We have made arrangements with a celebrated Paris house, by which we shall be enabled to excel all others in the elegance, finish and correctness of our fashions. We expect to have all the first out in time for the July number, and shall leave it then to the taste of the American people to say, whether any thing so superb has ever been issued here.

Original Music for Piano and Harp.

We have made arrangements with several musical ladies and gentlemen, for a supply of very choice and elegant music for the harp and piano, which we intend shall form a strong feature in the next volume. Mr. Osbourn has also promised us the selection of his best songs.

INDUCEMENTS TO SUBSCRIBE.

To facilitate the getting up of clubs for the new volume, we offer to Postmasters and others an original Portrait of Washington for every Subscriber with Three Dollars enclosed—for every club of two with Five Dollars enclosed—and for every club of five with Ten Dollars enclosed. BEWARE OF IMPOSITION.

IMPOSITION having been practised upon the public, by a spurious article bearing the name of "Judkins' Ointment," the proprietor, C. HERSTONS, recommends the following communication:

Some years back, Nathan Shepherd informed the public in the newspapers, that he was the original discoverer of Judkins' Ointment, and had taken out a new patent thereon in his own name; having in the first instance assigned as a reason for so doing, "that many persons would try to make it, and would not be able, and the ointment be propagated in this adulterated state, in some degree resembling the genuine ointment."—As complaints have been made repeatedly of this being the case, to the subscriber, who is still legally concerned, it is due to the public that they should be cautioned on this head. C. HERSTONS.

Here follows a few of the many instances disclosing the fact of a spurious article:—

Baltimore, October 23, 1844.

Mr. C. Herstons—Last winter I received a small wound in one of my feet—it became necessary to apply something to heal it—I sent to a Druggist for a pot of Judkin's ointment, but unfortunately the article obtained was spurious. In using it my foot kept getting worse and worse, until I became incapable of attending to business—was confined to bed, and had to send for a Physician. I was seriously alarmed, such was the state I was in from the use of this ointment, and had I not got relief I might have been ruined. Fortunately, however, a friend called to see me and brought with him a pot of ointment which I find is prepared by you, now called Shepherd's Patent Specific ointment. On applying the first plaster an alteration in a few hours took place—the wound soon became in a state of amendment, and it effected a perfect cure. From delicacy, I forebear to mention the name of the Druggist from whom I bought the spurious ointment, but think the public ought to be made acquainted with the fact. The one I deem very valuable, the other ought to be discountenanced. E. C. THOMAS,
Market street, west of Pine.

St. Mary's county, Md., June 21st, 1844.—Mr. C. Herstons—Sir, as proprietor of a very valuable article once called Judkins' Ointment, your name appears on the label of each pot of the ointment, guaranteeing its genuinness. Having often used the same in my family with the success so generally accredited to it; as a spurious article has been got in Baltimore and sold in our county, having the name and being somewhat like it in appearance, yet quite destitute of its healing qualities. I myself as well as others having been deceived thereby, an instance of its bad effects deserves some passing notice. I commenced using it on a sore; to my surprise it kept getting worse and worse, until I had to cease using it altogether. This article in its genuine state is so valuable that it ought not to be lost to the public.

Justice demands the above communication.
HARRISON POSEY.

Gentlemen—I was afflicted with a sore leg—the fame of Judkins' Ointment induced me to get a jug of it. I used it according to the directions; but it kept getting worse. Mr. Herstons travelling to the west stopped at my house; looking at the ointment he immediately pronounced it not of his make On opening it I was sensible of the difference, although it looked like it. I then applied the ointment he gave me to my leg; it became in a state of amendment on using the first plaster, and so continued until it got quite well. This ointment is certainly valuable; it would be a pity that it should be lost by a counterfeit article.

W. K. NEWMAN.
Cumberland, Allegany county, Md., May 31.

The following are a few recommendations of the genuine article:

Westminster, Carroll county, Md., February 19, 1844.—Mr. Herstons—My son William, now in my store, received a bad cut in his forehead, laying it open near two inches, so that it fell down over his eyes. We were distressed at its appearance—we closed it with a few stitches, and I then applied the Patent Specific Ointment you make, and in a few days it was perfectly healed. A brother of mine received a severe wound by a sickle drawn through his hand in harvest—he said he should not be able to work any more during harvest—I advised the ointment—he at first objected, not believing in its efficacy; however, by permission he suffered me to apply it; to his astonishment, in three days it was quite healed, and, he was enabled to resume his exercises in the harvest field. Having received the ointment from yourself, and knowing its value in various instances for which it is recommended, I believe it to be worthy the attention of the public.
JESSE MANNING.

I have had frequent complaints, as well as written information on the subject which Mr. Harrison Posey here brings to view in St. Mary's county.—This gentleman's word cannot be doubted. My own name has been so long before the public, both in the former patent right as well as the present, that merchants will do themselves and their customers some credit by getting the real article in Baltimore from my agents. Remember the name is changed, and is now 'Shepherd's Patent Specific Ointment,' prepared as usual by
C. HERSTONS.

☞The genuine article is now labeled "Shepherd's Patent Specific Ointment," the name of C. Herstons appearing likewise, guaranteeing its performance.

It is also one of the best remedies for Burns and Scalds. It eases the pain and draws the fire out in a short time.

It is likewise good for Tetters of all kinds. In this complaint, the patient in applying the ointment must keep the part out of water.

He puts none out of a less price than fifty cents.

☞None genuine without the signature of the proprietor, C. Herstons.
