EYE COMFORT

Fitting your eyes to nature is nothing more nor less than scientifically finding which of your optical muscles are undeveloped and so equipping you that all unnatural strain is relieved. Then you have eye comfort.

Eye comfort is much to be desired at all times. None of us can do our best work unless we SEE correctly.

REVIEW OF HISTORY OF CONCORD, DEL.

To the uninterested, the village of Concord, Del., is insignificant. Situated upon a once important tributary of the Nanticoke River, three miles from Seaford, it was once the scene of busy industries, such as hatter shops, cutting and shipping of oak bark for tanning leather, ship building, grain marketing, puncheon and barrel making and timbering.

Most of this followed an attempt by a strong organization composed of Abraham Mitchell, a hatter of Philadelphia; Thomas and William Lightfoot, merchants, also of Philadelphia, and Samuel Franklin, a merchant of New York, to develop the iron industry from the bog ore in that section. The records show grants of 4000 acres of land partly in Maryland.

About this time, or more definitely speaking, in the year 1796, the city of Concord was laid out with well defined streets, having an addition called Pilot town. Here several dependable colored citizens bore the title of "captain" acquired, no doubt, by their ability to direct the course of vessels trading with the larger towns.

A sturdy class of men were the pioneers of Concord. The family of the distinguished Jesse Green, closely connected with that of Lord Baltimore, had their home there. This still stands with its lovely shrubbery and quaint family burying ground. Opposite is the home of the late Dr. Robert G. Elligood, whose sons maintain it just as it was in the days of their boyhood.

To the reunion on August 12th, came the sons and grandsons of such once well-known, but long forgotten men as Senator Thomas A. Jones, William Hall, Moses Tubbs, James W. Morgan, George H. Phillips, David Calhoun, Thomas Calhoun Nutter Cannon, James Outten and others.

The industrial decadence of the village drove the next generation to seek other fields and from the little place there is today, an unusually large number of men at the top of their profession or business. There are many others who have done fairly well in the race. All of these are proud to add a word of praise to their staunch and sturdy ancestors and to make a gala day of one day each year in Concord, Delaware.

Road Work Held Up

Road work which has been under progress all through this section of the peninsula, especially in Caroline county, is being held up by lack of cement. The factories report having plenty on hand and orders filled and shipped, but the railroads are failing to deliver the cement on time.

Pouring of concrete on the street in Preston was begun Tuesday afternoon and it was expected to finish laying the concrete this week, but the last of the concrete on hand was mixed this morning, and those in charge have no information when the balance of the cement will arrive.

It is stated by the manufacturers of both coal and cement that the railroaders will not move either of these two articles because they are in favor of the strikers in the different industries out on strike, as well as their own railroad men that are out.

Work on the Burrsville road of grading is continuing nicely and it is thought that the work will soon be finished.

Before the School-Bell Rings

See to it that your children's eyes are thoroughly and scientifically examined.

You, as parents, owe this precaution to them and should not fail to do your part to "nip in the bud" visual trouble that might, otherwise, lead to disastrous results.

I'm here to help you with both "know how" and long experience.

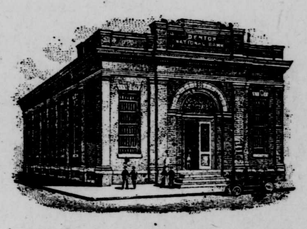
Exhibit Engine Here

An exhibit fire engine, of the Hale type arrived in town this noon on exhibition and will be back next week to give a demonstration. The firemen are considering the purchase of a machine similar to this one.



IT'S THE FASHION NOWADAYS

to "advise" the farmer. The less a man knows about farming problems the more capable he thinks himself of solving them.

There are times, however, when a farmer seeks reliable information.

At such times—at all times, in fact—the facilities of this bank are at the disposal of our farmer-friends.
