FIREMAN RESPOND TO CALL IN COUNTRY SUN.

About 10:30 Sunday morning an alarm of fire was sent to town when it was discovered that the large straw stack on the farm of Miss Louise Dukes, south of town, was on fire.

Messrs. Harry and Wyatt Pickering, while on their way to church Sunday morning discovered the fire and gave the alarm by phone. Chief Anderson immediately summoned several members of the fire company and they responded at once, getting there in time to keep the fire from spreading to the barns which were beside the straw stack. It was impossible to save the straw, but the firemen kept the barns wet with water from pumps and saved the more valuable property.

This fire showed the need of two things—First an alarm, which is now on its way here, and a light fire engine, which could be taken to rural districts to pump water, when needed and where water is available.

Bible Students Meeting

There will be held at the home of Mr. Fred Fountain, near Adams Cross Roads Sunday, December 3d, a Bible students meeting of the local class. Mr. Louis Bickling, of Greensboro, will give the address on "The Divine Plan of the Ages" using in his discourse a large chart in Bible chronology. Everybody will be interested in this so please come early.

The Epworth League of the Denton Methodist Episcopal Church at it regular meeting next Sunday will tell a Poster Serial story in celebration of "Epworth Hearld" Day. The component parts of the posters will be distributed. Come and get yours.

CANDLELIGHT has, since time immemorial, held intimate association with the delightful customs and wonderful romances of History. Its quaint charm marked the festive occasion and the quiet home life of the good old days. There are no finer traditions, no sentiments more beautiful, no tastes more refined than those which find expression in the burning of candles.

Nothing can compare with candlelight when a mellow light is desired for illumination in the home.

ATLANTIC CANDLES, carefully made of superior materials, give a delightfully steady, smokeless, and odorless light. Their presence in your living rooms assures a smartness and tone that no other light can give.
