
THIS HOARD WOULD HAVE DOUBLED IN VAL UE—

Deposited in this bank at 4 per cent interest, the hoarded money which has been lying idle for years would have doubled in value instead of merely accumulating dust and cobwebs.

Happily not many persons today actually hoard money with the belief that it is safe from theft or accident.

Money need not be buried in old walls or cellars to be hoarded. It is hoarded money if it is idle money, useless money.

The safest way to make your money work for you and the community is to deposit it in the bank, where it is safe, draws interest, and helps build up the local community, thus enhancing the value of your property.

Our officails are business executives and can help to make your money work more profitably for you. Consult them without obligation.

Cyrus W. H. Briddell, colored, pastor of three African Methodist Episcopal churches on Kent Island, convicted last Friday week by a jury in the United States Court of mailing obscene letters to white women, was sentenced this week to 18 months in the Government Penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., by Judge Morris A. Soper. The judge said that the loss of Briddell's occupation was in itself a severe punishment, and the people of Kent County were to be commended for not taking the law into their own hands in the case.

Frank Stormer, of near Slaughter Beach, was very much surprised Friday morning when he found another very fine otter in his traps. This is the third one he has caught this winter. He sold it to Harry Latchum, fur dealer, and received a dandy price for it. He seems to be an expert at the business.

Dover, Del., March 19.—Through the hosptality of the citizzens of this town, homes have been arranged for all of the members of the Wilmington Methodist Episcopal Conference during the week that the conference will be in session here, beginnig April 4. The generosity and willingness of other religious denominations in addition to the Methodist Episcopal communicants in opening their homes for the entertainment of the conference members have enabled the committee on arrangements satisfactorily to assign more than two hundred delegates, and every attendant will be listed for his appointed place.

The business which has been conducted continuously at one stand on the south side of Market Street, in Georgetown, for nearly sixty-five years, under the firm name of W. A. Faucet & Co., was last week discontinued and went out of existence. The firm first started in the sale of stoves and the manufacture and sale of tinware. Later they engaged in canning fruits and vegetables, and in recent years they conducted a shoe store under the management of J. W. Faucet. Following the completion of some necessary improvements, the building will be occupied by some Greeks. They will conduct a confectionery store and ice cream parlor.

A movement was started last week by several members of the Centreville Bar in cooperation with a large number of business men and several prominent Queen Annes farmers, to organize a State Bank in the town. Several meetings of an informal nature have already been held, and early in the week a gathering will be called to take immediate action and lay plans for raising of the necessary capital.

Eldridge R. Johnson, president of the Victor Talking Machine Company, a native of Dover, will give $30,000 to the People's Christian Church, of that city, providing the same amount of money be raised by the church for the building of a new Sunday school and Recreation Center. The required sum is nearly all pledged.

Centreville, Md., March 18.—Ferry service between Queenstown and Bay Shore will be inaugurated by the Baltimore and Eastern Shore Ferry Company on or about April 1. Orders were issued this week by the State Roads Commission to Contractor E. Ney Dodson, of Talbot County, to begin cnstruction of the slip at Queenstown next week. It is believed this will insure permanent ferry facilities for Queen Anne countians and bring to a close a long-drawn-out controversy over the legal ownership of the charter permitting the operation of a line of ferries between this county and the Western Shore.

Laurel, Del., March 18—About 70 per cent of the sweet potatoes stored in this section in houses have been moved, according to a statement today made by Arthur V. Register, the freight and passenger agent at this point. Despite the very low prices which have prevailed, there has been almost a steady flow of tubers from this section to the city markets, which are in the Central and Northern states.

The acreage this year will probably be not so great as last year, as farmers and truckers have lost heavily on their last year's crop and will probably plant less.

After having had his trip to Delaware postponed for two years, President Harding has now assured United Staes Senaor L. Heisler Ball, that he will try and fulfill his promise made when elected, to come to Milford and be initiated into the mysteries of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon, a side degree of Free Masonry, some time this spring.

Senator Ball called upon the President Saturday a week ago, and asked him about the trip. Mr. Harding told the Senator to come and see him late in April and he would try to arrange his engagements so that he might come to Delaware for the event in May.

Masons of Delaware have had plans mapped out for a suitable reception to the president for two years and all that is awaited is the date of his coming to put final touches on the arrangements.

The plans have been completed and work begun on a new hotel to replace the Filmore, Love Point, destroyed by fire during the winter. The new buildingbuilding will be erected on the site of the old one and will be about the same dimensions. The proprietors of the former Filmore hotel expects to have it completed ready for guests about June 1.

Hidden Treasure

"One of the finest collections of stuffed birds in the United States is in the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences." observed a gentleman from that city, "and I chanced to be there one day when a certain millionaire was examining the collection in the company of a curator.

" 'Yes,' said the curator, "this collection of stuffed birds is worth thousands and thousands of dollars.' "

" 'Is that so?' said the millionaire. 'Why, what are they stuffed with?' " —Harper's Magazine.

Not Working

He was doomed to failure all his life. He either told the truth too religiously or said the wrong thing.

It began when he got his first job as office boy.

He hadn't been employed long when his employer looked up from an important letter and said irritably:

"Don't whistle at your work, boy."

"I ain't working, sir,"he replied. "I'm only whistling."—Burlington Hawk-Eye.

The Compliment

Minor poets are apt to be vain and jealous and nasty. Two at a dinner were overheard as follows:

"I saw your verses in the 'Grand Magazine,' "said the first.

"Did you?" said the other with assumed indifference.

"Yes, and I heard a neat compliment paid to them by a girl."

"What did she say?"

The first poet laughed and there was a note of triumph in his voice.

"Why," he said, "she wanted to know if I had written them."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Nature Knows

A bald-headed man who made up in chatter what he lacked in hair said to another man, "Can you tell me why my head is so bald when other people about me have plenty of hair?"

"I don't know," was the smiling reply, "unless the reason given me by a farmer the other day would apply, that an empty barn is not worth shingling."—Boston Transcript.

An Agent's Defense.

"Now here," said the agent, "is a fine farm of 160 acres of land in a fine district, and—"

"Why do you say 'acres of land?' " interrupted the fussy customer."What kind of acres are there except land?"

"Well," said the agent, "I once got into a lot of trouble for selling a man 160 acres of water, and now I'm taking no chances."—Kansas City Star.

Strong Brand Wanted

"Ma wants two pounds of butter exactly like what you sent us last week. If it ain't exactly like that she won't take it." The grocer turned to his customers and remarked blandly:

"Some people don't like particular customers, but I do. It's my delight to get them just what they want. I will attend to you in a moment, my boy."

"All right," said the boy, "but be sure and get the same kind. A lot of dad's relations are visiting our house and ma doesn't want 'em to come again."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

One Live Topic

They were thrown into each other's society in a country house without common interests ore the least attraction for each other.

Finally after casting about for a fertile subject of conversation, only to fail in every attempt, he said, desperately: "Will you marry me?"

She considered long and deeply.

"I think I'll say yes," she replied at last. "It will give us so much more to talk about while we're here."—Los Angeles Times.

Fast Growers

"P'taters is good this morning,," said the old farmer, making his usual weekly call.

"Yes, and that reminds me," retorted the customer rather grimly. "How is it that those you sold me last week were so much smaller at the bottom of the basket than at the top"

"Well," answered the old man, "p'taters are growing so fast now that by the time I've dug a basketful up the last ones are about twice the size of the first."—Farm Life.

His Rule

"Have ou gotten so that you can distinguis classical music?" asked Mrs. Newrich.

"I think so," replied her husband. "When a piece threatens every minute to be a tune and always disappoints you, it's classical."—Boston Evening Transcript.

Remembered

Blinks after inviting his friend Jinks to dinner, was telling him of the remarkable memory of his little son Bobby.

"And do you think he will remember me?" asked Jinks.

"Remember you? Why certainly he will."

An hour later they entered the house, and after Jinks had greeted Mrs. Blinks, he called Bobby over to him.

"And do you remember me, my little man?"

"Course I do. You're the man that pa brought home last year, and ma was so wild about it that she didn't speak to pa for a week."—Mobile Register.

The Cost of Telephone Service

Telephone service has become of such universal use as to justify it as one of the various items which go to make up the householder's budget.

That its cost has not mounted to the extent of the other items is shown by the following comparison of per cent increases in costs throughout the United States since the year 1914, taken from the reports of the National Industrial Conference Board.

	Per Cent Over 1914
	1920	1922
House Rents	58	65
Clothing	166	53
Fuel	66	81
Sundries	85	72
Food	119	40
Maryland Telephone Rates	23	23

This table shows that in 1920, the period of highest prices, the increase in the cost of telephone service over 1914 was less than a fourth of the average increase in the cost of the other items; and now, with prices largely stabilized, the increase is less than one-third of the increase in the other items.

The usefulness of the telephone service to the patron in a city, town or community depends largely upon the number of persons with whom he may communicate; in other words, the value of telephone service increases as the number of telephones increases.

In some places in Maryland since 1914, the number of telephones has increased as high as 100%; in the entire state the increase has been 53%. In other words, the increase in the value of the telephone service to the user in Maryland has greatly exceeded the increase in our rates.

The Wise Critic

" Read that book you wrote about ancient history, "said Lowbrow, "and I can't say much for it; there are too many mistakes in it."

"How so?" asked the surprised author.

"Well, one thing made me laugh. You said a guy named Epicurus was born in 348 B. C., and then a little further on you said he died in 70 B. C. That kills him off before he was born."—London Opinion.
