

small, but principle, it seems to me, is one of greater consideration. The Chinamen connected with this Company are all law abiding citizens, and so far as I know no complaint had been made against the place, nor any of it's people. The front door of the premises was unlocked, and the officers came in by simply turning the knob on the door. The door leading to the next compartment was closed. This was a sliding door, and the officers without demanding admission or making it known in any way that they desired to enter, promptly broke in this door. When they reached the inside they looked around, saw nothing of a suspicious nature, said good evening, and left.

It seems to me this is rather a high handed method of entering the premises of law abiding citizens, and without in any way limiting by this letter the amount of damages suffered by my clients, I must respectfully request the Board to pay the damages sustained by the breaking of the door, amounting to $5.75, a proper voucher for which will be furnished.

Very truly yours,
FREDERICK T. DORTON."
