THIS HOARD WOULD HAVE DOUBLED IN VALUE—

Deposited in this bank at 4 per cent interest, the hoarded money which has been lying idle for years would have doubled in value instead of merely accumulating dust and cobwebs.

Happily not many persons today actually hoard money with the belief that it is safe from theft or accident.

Money need not be buried in old walls or cellars to be hoarded. It is hoarded money if it is idle money, useless money.

The safest way to make your money work for you and the community is to deposit it in the bank, where it is safe, draws interest, and helps build up the local community, thus enhancing the value of your property.

Messages to Seekers of Success

Your Dollar's Opportunity

Your dollar's opportunity is now, today! Set it to work for you. Give it the task of multiplying itself. In doing so it will perform its part in the world affairs.

Every man's money should be making use of this opportunity. Farmers, for instance, can not only feed the world; through businesslike handling of their farms and businesslike handling of their incomes they can help to develop the world.

Thrift Is Patriotism

Saving is a form of serving. It is one of the biggest forms of national service—service to your country. Our first president said, "Economy makes happy homes and sound nations."

The way to start right is to start right now! Saving is as much a habit as spending or putting things off. Once formed, it is easy to continue. But unlike other habits, it is a good habit.

NATURE STUDIES

By Elizabeth A. Perkins

How wonderful is the world in which we live. How wonderful is the sea, the mountain, the forest, all creation.

"Go abroad
Upon the paths of Nature, and, when all
Its voices whisper, and its silent tainps
Are breathing the deep beauty of the world,
Kneel at its simple altar, and the God
Who hath the living waters shall be there." —N. P. Willis

Yes, in the mountain and the sea and the wood, in all Creation we seee the hand of the Creator, and we remember the words of Holy Writ, "In the beginning, God."

How much it means to study nature, if, in our childhood, our attention was called to all its wonders, a love for nature, and a desire to know more and more of our world will go with us all through life. If we missed this great joy in our childhood, we may even now take up this great study with our children. The study of nature has untold possibilities. It may mean to study the very beginning of things, to study geology, rock formation, light, the stars, forms of water and all the great mysteries of the organic world.

But for this summer, as we study with our children, it probably will mean more simple study, the study of trees, and birds and flowers-perhaps for some of us the woods, perhaps for some of us the mountains, perhaps for some of us the ocean. For each group it means to study nature where we are during the summer months. We may be able to go only a few miles from home, but wherever we are it means, if possible, a little journeying and an effort to know more of our beautiful world.

Vacation time is really the "together" time for parents and children. To be sure the summer time is a busy time for mothers-there is the regular work, and added to that the canning and preserving.

But mother realizes that tho canning and preserving are fascinationg, it means much to the family purse to have all these good "eats" ready for winter, it means much more to both mothers and children to have the beautiful memory of a summer together, with walks and drives and perhaps a little journey on the street car each week to the very edge of town and then on through the woods. A walk through the woods. is always a great adventure.

"To see a World in a grain of sand,
and a heaven in a wild flower,
Hold infinity in your hand,
And Eternity in an hour."

We hope that every family has a garden. Many of you have read Fairies in Garden Time, and tho your garden may be a very tiny one, it means work and time and love for both parents and children and the fairies have surely come.

But if possible, children should be given more nature study than can be found in the home garden and what a joy this study may be. Fathers and mothers learn many things about their children when they are with them in the great outdoors.

The story is told of a busy father who lived far inland who took his little boy to the seaside for a week. "I was utterly amazed" the father said, "to find how little I knew of Ted and what was going on in his head. We got acquainted with a vengeance and it gave me a lot of fun. The little chap has some long, long thoughts I tell you."

Splendid and helpful as are the Scout movements, (and they are splended and helphful) fathers and mothers who turn all the outdoor energies of their children over to others are missing much of present joy and missing much of future companionship. These "together" outdoor days make for complete family confidance, for family appreciation and for family discovering-each other.

A small magnifying glass, field glasses and nature books are practical gifts for each other, in anticipation and preparation for nature study.

Just how much do we now know about the flowers and birds and trees? We know the garden flowers, but what of the flowers which grow by the brooks and in the woods and shady places? Do we know where to find the violets and spring beauties and blue-eyed Marys and golden orchid slippers and bluebells?

Do you know the redbud tree and the oak and the mountain ash and the tulip poplar and the linden and the maple and the dogwood? Have you noticed the difference in the leaves;; what different patterns and thedelicate tracing?

How many birds do you know? Do you know where to find their nests? Do you know which are the ground builders and which build high?

Olive Thorne Miller has written two fine books on birds. These books tell where birds live, what they eat, how they get their beautiful dress and many other things. In each volume there are eight colored pictures and many others; and after studying these books you will know just how the Cedar Bird, the Goldfinch; the Oriole, the Brown Creeper, the Yellow-Brested Chat and many others look.

Eastern Shore News

Seaford, Del., Aug. 27.—The disorder among the foreign negro element, imported here every canning season, which started Saturday night, continued yesterday and today, several writs being issued by Magistrate James K. Phillips for offenders, but no arrests have occurred.

Constable A. L. Adams visited the groves today, but was unable to locate the guilty parties. As far as can be ascertained the disturbance is confined chiefly to the foreign negro element, the only white person attacked being Lee Mitchell, son-in-law of the former sheriff, William O. Johnson, who was held up Saturday night by a strange negro, but who escaped by speeding up his automobile.

Several disturbances occurred at the groves by morning among the negroes, but no serious damage resulted.

John E. Martin, Chief of Police, said tonight that he did not anticipate any uprising of the negroes amounghh the white people, their disturbances being confined chiefly among themselves, though considerable nervousness is prevalent through out the city because of attacks occurring in previons years when this element came in.

Pocomoke City, Md. Aug. 27—A warrant was served this afternoon iarly known as Martin Jones chargiarly known as Martain Jones charging him with complicity in the burning of the Rev. J. R. Bicking's home.

Wilkinson was out on $500 bail as the result of a hearing on the charge of setting fire to the Reverend Bicking's boat. He was arrested on the second charge and carried to Snow Hill this afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Lennie T. Parks.

He was given a hearing on Wednesday afternoon.
