REDUCED RATES ARE GRANTED TO DAIRY MEET AT SYRACUSE

Dairy farmers in this country and all others interested have been granted substantial reductions in railroad fares to the National Dairy exposition on the state fair grounds at Syracuse, N. Y., October 5-13. All railroads of the United States are cooperating in a reduction to a fare and a half for the round trip.

The round trip to the exposition and back will be a fare and a half for all of the United States and Canada east of and including Armstrong and Port Arthur in the Dominion. Visitors who wish to attend the opening of the world's dairy congress at Washington October 2 and 3 and come to Syracuse on the special trains have been granted a reduction of 20 per cent from the full round trip fare.

Persons coming to the exposition from sections nearby are not required to secure the certificates required by the railroads; those from further off are required to secure certificates at the station at which they buy their tickets. They are endorsed for use on the return trip at the exposition.

All of New York state with exception of New York city is included in the territory where the reduced rate is granted without necessity of securing certificates. The same ruling holds for points in New Jersey on the Lackawanna road west of Dover, but not including the city of Phillipsburg.

The flat rate is given to persons in Pennsylvania from Bradford on the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg railroad; from all points on the Delaware & Hudson; from all points of the Lackawanna; from all points in Eastern Pennsylvania including Bradford on the Erie; from Wilkes Barre and west on the Lehigh; from Williamsport and north on the New york Central; form all points on the New York Ontario & Western; from all points between and including Sunbury and Wilkes Barre, also north of Sunbury but not west of Williamsport, also Bradford, on the Pennsylvania railroad.

"PAY AS YOU PAVE" NEW ROAD IDEA

Roads as Good at Half Price, Said to Result

That roads should be paid for by the people who use them and not posterity; and that it is cheaper to pay for roads now than in the future, are the guiding ideas in the scheme now being tried in San Diego County, Cal.

This country has agreed, through its board of supervisors, to construct ten miles of highway, 20 feet wide, paved with concrete, under the "pay-as-you-pave" plan. Thirty miles are to be built. Past experiments in paved highway construction in this country have shown that such roads can be built on a cash basis for $25,000 a mile, as compared with $51,275 a mile ultimate cost under the forty-year, 5 per cent, bond-issue plan usually adopted for road building financing in the Western States, California included.

The plan was invented after three years' study of road building by Geo. Heston, the treasurer f the county. Since its adoption, at the first of the year, one road, the Poway Grade Highway, has been completed under it, and the plan found to work out exactly as predicted.

The plan is based on the conclusion that it is better business to increase the tax rate for the purpose of obtaining funds for highway building than to increase the rate for interest on a paving bond issue, since the ultimate cost of the improvement under the increased tax rate will be approximately one-half of that under the bond issue. This tax rate alsotakes care of the maintenance of the highways when they are paved; the bond issue does not do this. The Heston plan releases future generations from the burden of paying for bonds the receipts from which were used for building roads which by the time the bonds are paid have been worn out and rebuilt, not once, but in all probabilty two or three times.

New Roads Open

Three miles of new concrete road from the Denton-Greensboro road toward Burrsville, is now open to the public.

The Rural School Mail Box

There is always an interesting time for the agriculture class at Hillcrest school in Waukesha County, Wisconsin, when the mail arrives. No wonder, for this class search the advertising columns of the papers and magazines that come to the school. When they see anything that they think will be of interest to them they write for it immediately. They are greatly interested in dairy cows because national dairy cow champions live within walking distance of the school. They write all over the world to cattle breaders' association for advertising material and to owners of dairy cow champions for pictures of their prize animals. From this material they get information and illustrations for their notebooks. But the knowledge they seek is not confined to dairy cows. Their agricultural notebooks show how many many topics have been enlivened by incidents and illustrations found in farm bulletins, seet catalogues, and pamphlets and bulletins issued by manufacturers of farm machinery.

Every rural school should have a mail box. The teacher's mail should be delivered there. The school should take a daily paper, a current magazine suitable for elementary school children and a farm journal. It should be on the mailing list for certain bulletins and pamphlets issued by State and National agencies of education, agriculture and public health.

Episcopal Services Sunday

Rev. Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Chamberlaine returned home from their vacation on Wednesday evening, having spent a most delightful month, partly in Ocean City, and partly in Baltimore and Baltimore county with Mr. Robert Lloyd Chamberlaine and family.

Mr. Chamberlaine announces that services will be held next Sunday at his various charges as follows:

Denton, 11 a. m.; Hillsboro, at 9:30 a. m., and Greensboro at 8 p. m.

A most cordial invitation is extended to everyone.

It is like solving a Chinese pubble today to get into the new pumps. Many of them have a confusing intricacy of straps, these being in a material different from that of the rest of the shoe.
