ALLEGED SLAYER CAUGHT AFTER MONTHS' CHASE

Seaford, Del., Sept. 16—After eluding the authorities of Delaware and Maryland since August 11, Junius Evans, alias Duke Evans, alleged negro slayer of Christian Christensen, Lower Delaware poultry raiser, was captured here today. Evans admitted his identity and pleaded for mercy as he was in evident fear of being lynched. He was placed in an automobile shortly after his capture by a number of officers and whisked away to the workhouse at Greenbank. He was unarmed. It is said Evans had been occupying a shanty in Greenabaum Brothers grove for the past 10 days and working in the firm's tomato cannery. In the shack the officers found the revolver which Chief of Police Martin lost in the scuffle the night he attempted to capture Evans on the Seaford-Reliance highway. The handcuffs which Martin had placed on the negro's right wrist were gone. Evans said he had picked the lock with wiree.
