"WHAT YOU AS A MOTORIST SHOULD KNOW"

Out in California they have discovered something that is of vital interest to you that about half of all the motor mishaps are due, not to defective brakes or defective tires or defective lights—but to defective vision. Wouldn't it make you, as a motorist, and your family feel easier to know that your eyes are right instead of guessing?

Eastern Shore Happenings

Seaford, Del,. Oct. 5—A woman was hurt, probably seriously, and her niece cut and bruised when the auto owned by George Obier, Seaford farmer, was rammed by a Pennsylvania car occupied by negroes.

Miss Etta Obier, sister of the Seaford man, was thrown clear of the machine and Obier's small daughter was injured. Obier, his wife and son escaped.

The Obier car was standing at the side of the road when struck.

After the collision, another car, bearing a Delaware license and also occupied by negroes, crashed into the Pennsylvania car and overturned. All the negroes disappeared and a search of their cars is said to have revealed a quantity of liquor.

Newark, Del., Oct. 5.—Dr. Walter H. Steel, aged 53, one of the most prominent physicians in Newcastle county, died today following an operation. He had been ill but a short time. His illness started with an attack of "devil's grip" about a month ago and complications developed.

Dr. Steel was president of the Newark Board of Education, trustee of the State Hospital for Insane, director of the Newark Trust Company, and a member of many fraternal organizations. He is survived by his widow and six children.

Georgetown, Del., Oct. 5—From crop surveys among the farmers of Lower Delaware it has been found that the pumpkin acerage this year is the largest in the history of Sussex county and the yield is one of the greatest. It is stated that more pumpkins are going to be gathered per acre this fall than for many years.

Friday will mark a red letter day for Methodism in Seaford, as it will be the occasion of the visit of Bishop Brenton Thoburn Bradley, of India. Bishop Bradley while of American parentage was born in India, he has had a rare opportunity for studying at close range the problems of that great people and has perhaps a fuller knowledge of the whole life of India than any other man in the world today.

He comes to speak at the Methodist Episcopal Church at 8 o'clock P. M. The purpose of his coming is to acquaint us with, and to inspire us in the work of our church in that great country.

As the result of a real estate deal consummated this week, the firm of E. S. Adkins & Co., Salisbury, who recently established a branch plant in Centreville, became the owners of a portion of the valuable McKenney tract, paralleling the yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Centreville.

On this site, which was purchased from W. D. Roe & Son, Sudlersville, they eventually will construct modern warehouses and sheds for lumber and coal, and an attractive office building.

Centreville, Md., Oct. 6—Queen Anne's county has reached the goal in education for which it announced it was striving two years ago.

Every teacher of the 89 now engaged in the work, is a first-grade normal school graduate. A. S. Cook, State Superintendent of Education, in congratulating T. Gordon Bennet, county superintendent, told him that this was the first county in the state to reach this point.

The work of replacement of teachers not having first-grade certificates began about two years ago, with the installation of the consolidation schools and the taxpayers were told that the children of the most remote rural sections would have the same advantages as those given in the larger town of the county.

Dover, Del., Oct. 6.—While the crop of sweet potatoes throughout the country will be 22,000,000 bushels short this year as compared with last, the crop in Delaware will be many more bushels than last season.

Last year, through progressive marketing methods, Delaware sweet potato growers were able to sell their tubers at a good profit. With present indications, those whose crops of "sweets" come up to expectations this fall, ought to make a killing.

This announcement comes from W. T. Derickson, chief of the bureau of markeets of the State Board of Agriculture of Delaware.

Georgetown, Del., Oct.6.—Fox hunters in Lower Delaware are having good sport since the opening of the season on Wednesday of last week.

Most of the fox chases are conducted at night because the farmers across whose fields they are driven during the day kill them and spoil the sport.

There are many ardent fox hunters in lower Delaware and some of them have valuable dogs. As many as 20 sportsmen go into the rural district two or three times each week during the season and give chase to Reynard.

The greatest section in Sussex county to conduct a fox hunt is in the Sixth and Seventh districts, especially in the vicinity of Gumboro and Newfound. They are said to be so abundant in that section that persons driving along the highways will see as many as three or four run across the road within a distance of a few miles.

Residents in those localities are molested by them to such an extent that during the session of the Legislature two years ago an attempt was made to pass a law which would grant them the right to kill all specimens of fox at any time during the year. Foxes in those sections are very destructive to poultry.

Georgetown, Del., Oct. 6—The season for ducks will open on October 16, and sportsmen are anticipating fine shooting along the Delaware river and bay shores, as well as the Broadkiln and Prime Hook rivers, where large numbers of blackhead, redhead and teal are said to be feeding.

The ducks started to migrate to the feeding grounds in the eastern section of Sussex county about two weeks ago and according to reports they have not been so plentiful for years as they are now.

On Tuesday and Wednesday, October 14th and 15th, the State Medical Society of Delaware will hold its 135th Annual Meeting in Milford. The sessions will be held in Grange Hall auditorium and also at the Caulk Company Research Building on Lake View avenue.

These annual meetings are not only interesting and pleasant events for the physicians, but the discussions and papers read by men who have become eminent in the profession, are valuable to all members.

The town of Milford is planning a special reception for the members of the society and it is expected that a pleasant memory of their meeting in Milford in 1924 will linger with those who are present, as a result of the efforts made to entertain them and the inspection of the dental research work at the Caulk laboratories.

Eighteen neighbors of Walter B. Jefferson, a farmer residing near Milton, went to his farm and harvested his entire crop of fodder, while he devoted his time attending to his sick wife and her household duties. Because of his wife's illness, Mr. Jefferson has been greatly handicapped this summer in attending to his crops, and his friends all along have been assisting him with his work.

A fire believed to be of incendiary origin destroyed the 300-ton steamship George F. Pierce, which had been tied up in the Mispillion River, near the plant of the Valliant Fertilizer Company, for nearly a year. The steamship was owned by Lowder N. Hearn, Thomas E. Kirby and Ezra Wilcox. Its value was placed at $35,000. It was insured for $10,000.
