Eastern Shore Happenings

Chestertown, Md., Feb. 17— It is believed that the arrest of Rowe Wood son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Fred wood, who was fined $10 and costs by Queen Anne's county authorities for killing a fox before the hounds, may be the death of the time-honored sport of fox hunting in that county.

Following the arrest of young Wood, 33 of the farmers in the very heart of Queen Anne's county posted notices forbiding hunting in any manner on their farms, and it is believed that this action was the outcome of the arrest of young Wood.

It is stated that the fox which was killed by Wood had destroyed more than $1,500 worth of poultry belonging to the farmers in the neighborhood of the chase, and it is believed that the latter were desirous of having the animal killed because of its depredations.

The Queen Anne's law forbids the killing of foxes while running before the hounds, but there are many farmers who are anxious that something shall be done to rid the country of so many foxes.

Dover, Del., Feb. 16—Failing to secure a continuance of the time for filing new business later than February 18, the Delaware State Senate Friday afternoon acquiesced in the resolution calling for the deadline of new business to 4 o'clock that afternoon and in view of this fact, both houses today had a rush of new besiness, the Senate reaching 82, while the House had 126 bills.

Among the more important measures were the following; By Senator Prettyman, protecting the oyster beds in Delaware waters, prescribing fine and imprisonment for violation; by Senator Attix, providing for purity and quality of ice cream, and, by Senator Highfield, amending the Income Tax law by providing for but one filing fee, where husband or wife is dependent.

The Senate passed Senator Pool's bill making Armistice Day a legal holiday in the state.

Crisfield, Md., Feb. 13—The adaption today of an amendment to the rivers and harbors bill by the Senate Committee on Commerce, practically assures an appropriation for the deepening and widening of Crisfield's harbor.

With this improvement Crisfield will have one of the best harbors on the Atlantic coast and will have much to do with the development of Crisfield as a general depot for many of the steamship companies.

Information received today from Senator Weller is to the effect that the amenment provides for an initial appropriation of $42,000 for a 12-foot channel, with a width of 525 feet, from a point at the entrance of the Crisfield harbor, known as Somers Cove Light, to a point opposite the Consumers' Ice Company.

The harbor improvements will then continue to the inner basin, a depth of 10 feet and a width of 100 feet to Hop Point where the largest seafood shipping houses in the state are situated.

The amendment also provides $1,000 additional for annual maintenance. It is understood that this appropriation will be favorably recommended to the Senate Commerce Committee.

Senator Weller, together with Senator Bruce and Representative Goldsborough, have been working for this appropriation for Crisfield, which is needed.

Dover, Del., Feb. 12—In the presence of Governor Robinson, the celebration marking the one hundredth anniversary of the Delaware Legislature and commemoration of the birth of Abraham Lincoln was held in the chamber of the House of Representatives here this afternoon. A joint meeting of the upper and lower houses of the Assembly marked the occasion.

Addresses were delivered by Josiah O. Wolcott, chancellor of the Supreme Court of Delaware; H. C. Conrad, former associate judge, now state archivist, and Everett C. Johnson, former Secretary of State. Messrs. Wolcott and Johnson eulogized Lincoln, while Judge Conrad dwelt on Delaware's history, early and modern.

Because of the celebration little business was transacted in either house. In the Senate two bills were introduced. One, by Senator Betts, would authorize an annual appropriation of $3,000 for the care of indigent sick of Kent and Sussex counties in any of the hospitals of either county. The other, by Senator Viven, would authorize the abolishment of the Sussex county Highway Commission and the turning over of its equipment and duties to the Sussex Levy Court.

The House also received two new bills, one by Speaker Downward providing for revival and extension of time for recording price acts, and the other by Representative Hastings calling for licensing of dental nurses.

THE VALUE OF LIFE INSURANCE

William J. Graham, of New York, Gives Some Mighty Interesting Facts

DIFF. CLASSES EXPLAINED

William J. Graham, of New Yory City, in his address before the Greensboro Community Club meetiing on Tuesday, February 3d, gave some very interestng facts on the value of life insurance, which we feel are worth passing on.

Mr. Graham said in part:

The value of life insurance is manifold. It is a business that is of distinct value to the individual, to the community and to the country. From the life insurance standpoint, the protection is againt the death of the income producing capacity. Such death may result in any of three ways—physical death, total disability and superannuation. Then again, life insurance has a great value as a social principle. It is a practical sort of commusism where the many come together through means of the relatively small premiums and pool funds that will be available for the payment of life insurance claims in considerable sums as the uncertain hand of death picks out the deceasing few.

The growth of life insurance in the United States has been truly astonishing. The figures inicat that the amount of new business paid for by the life insurance companies during the year 1924 exceeds thirteen billion dollars, which represents about as much insurance as there was in force in all the companies, both industrial and ordinary, twenty years ago. The American public has bought nearly four times as much life insurance as they did ten years ago, although the population of the country has increased during that time only one-sixth. Group insurance, which has been a new factor by which employers obtain insurance for their employees under blanket policies without medical examination, jumped from the infantile figures of 45 million in 1914 to 600 million in 1924 or an increase of about 1200%.

Another new need for life insurance has been created by the State's and the Federal Government's imposition of Inheritance tax burdens. These taxes on inheritance are in the nature of a ebt by law, which will mature to the Government and to the state an the transfer of the property by death. Life insurance is obviously the best way to cover the demand for taxes of this kind, since the event of death which creates the tax debt can by means of life insurance be made also to discharge the debt.

Then too, there may be a mortgage on one's house which becomes a matter of grave importance if the home is to be maintained; some available money to cover temporary income over the time when the children may be schoolinig, or for a college education; and of course, an insurance of endowment that wold provide something for old age.

A development of very considerable interest particularly to the type of woman who is self supporting and without dependents, is that of deferred annuities. The operation of an annuity scheme, is roughly, that the annuitant would pay in some fixed unit such as $100.00 a year or a number of such units (receiving back the money in event of death) and have the money applied as an annuity at any age she decides upon from 50 to 70.

Beyond all previously mentioned, life insurance lends even durinig the premium payinig years a degree of security and satisfaction to the individual and to the dependents of th individual. As such, it is a prolonger of life and a maker for happiness. The actual protection which life insurance money supplies to the dependents is only a part of its value. The other part is that which comes to the individual who feels he has by means of the institution of life insurance, achieved a certain security for his dependents in the event of his loss of life, which will enable them to carry on without great suffering and distress.

DATES FIXED FOR FAIRS IN VARIOUS PENINSULA TOWNS

The annual meeting of the Del-Mar-Va-Pen Fairs and Racing Circuit representatives was held in Salisbury on Thursday of last week with about fifty men from Harrington, Tasley, Pocomoke City and Salisbury present. West Chester sent notice that its representativee would be late in arriving, but the meeting adjourned before they put in an appearance.

One of the principal matters of business was the setting of dates for the 1925 fairs. The dates finally assigned were as follows: Cambridge, July 21-25; Harrington, July 28-August 1; Pocomoke, August 4-7; Tasley, August 11-15; Salisbury, August 18-25. The Salisbury fair will be a week earlier than last season to avoid conflict with the Kellar fair as was the case in 1924. To maintain harmony throughout the circuit Cambridge graciously moved its fair up several weeks and other towns agreed to different dates than those they had last year. This avoided the Salisbury-Kellar complication and also precluded the necessity of other members of the organization being signed dates which they did not deem to the best interest of their associations.
