Cost Man $61.10 to Kill a Swan

Chestertown, Md., Feb. 28 — A young man of Rock Hall was before Justice Robert Moffett of Chestertown yesterday on a charge of killing a swan. The justice imposed a fine which, with costs, totaled $61.10, which was paid by the offender. The Maryland game laws prohibit the killing of swans until next year, but the birds have been so abundant on the bay and rivers during the entire gunning season that they have proved a great temptation to gunners.
