Eastern Shore Boys' Calf Club

Chestertown, Md., March 7—The leading social functions of the winter among the agriculturists of the county was the annual banquet and reunion of the Kent County Boys' Calf Club held in the assembly hall of the high school. Covers were laid for seventy-five guests, including the seventeen members of the clubs. The Christian Endeavor Society of the St. James' Methodist Protestant Church, served an excellent menu.

County Agent, Horace B. Derrick, who was the moving spirit in the organization and development of the club, was the toastmaster.

Addresses on subjects of interest to members of the club and farmers generally were made by the following: Norman Pennington, Franklin Moffet, Walter T. Morris, Martin L. Sutton and Stanley B. Sutton.

The Boys' Calf Club of Kent county occupies an unique place in the history of pure bred cattle breeding in the State. Through the efforts of County Agent Derrick the members of the club have become proficient in breeding and raising some of the finest cattle on the Eastern Shore, and with the cooperation of several of the banks of the county the members have secured the necessary funds with which to purchase pure bred calves, which they have developed into county, as well as state and national prize winners.

Well-Known Minister of Easton Dies

Easton, Md., March 8—The Rev. Eugene R. Murphy, pastor of St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church here and St. Joseph's in Cordova, died today at Emergency Hospital from a complication of diseases.

Father Murphy, who was born in Brooklyn N. Y. in 1877, had been active here for 17 years and was one of the best known and liked men in the community, having friends in all walks of life and of all creeds. He was educated at St. Francis College, Brooklyn, and St. Mary's Seminary, Baltimore.

Survivors are his mother, Mrs. Ellen J. Murphy, and two brothers, Charles J. and Michael H. Murphy, all of Brooklyn. The funeral will be held here Wednesday morning, with interment in his native city.

Prominent Kent Farmer Dies

Chestertown, Md., March 8—Henry Clay Lusby, 71 years old, one of the most prominent farmers in Kent county, died at his home near here yesterday following an illness of a month with kidney trouble.

Mr. Lusby had been engaged in farming since youth and for the past forty-two years had tenanted one of the farms belonging to the late Judge Joseph A. Wickes, which he in partnership with Charles L. Dodd, owned during the past three years, having purchased the place from the Wickes estate. Mr. Lusby was an authority on farming and was regarded as one of the leading agriculturists of the county. He was the son of the late John and Elizabeth Lusby and was unmarried, living with his two brothers and a sister.

Cooperation Declared Only Way to Save Crabs

Crisfield, Md., March 6—Ways and the Chesapeake Bay from destruction the Chesapeke Bay from destruction was the keynote struck in an address before the Crisfield Oyster, Fish and Crab Association here today by Conservation Commissioner Swepson Earl.

Mr. Earl said prompt action is imperative if the crab supply is to be increased rather than continue to diminish each year.

Cooperation first among all shippers and catchers of crabs in both Maryland and Virginia, was urged to be followed by concerted efforts on the part of officials of both states, if the business which brings thousands of dollars into the two states is to prosper.

Commissioner Earl said that some method must be divised for the proper handling of crabs to prevent destruction.

The association appointed a committee of five sea-food dealers, who were instructed to formulate plans whereby an agreement of cooperation among all sea food dealers in Somerset county can be perfected.

The committee named by A. Wellington Tawes, president of the association, is composed of Isaac H. Tawes, Charles A. Loockerman, Wallace M. Quinn, W. L. Tull and J. C. W. Tawes.

Central Packing House Planned

Easton, Md., March 7—The large commercial fruit growers of this county at a meeting decided to build a central packing plant where all the peaches, apples and green tomatoes will be graded, packed and shipped.

At a meeting some weeks ago, the question was discussed and a committee consisting of Robert R. Walker, Otto Sanger and E. P. Walls was authorized to visit the central packing houses of Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and West Virginia and to get all the information necessary about the operation of them.

Yesterday this committee made a report of its travels and recommended that a central packing house be built at Easton on the railroad.

The committee also recommended that the plant be built sufficiently large to take care of three grading machines, but for the present only to install one.

The report was accepted and a committee was named to draw up plans for an organization and for financing the new project and securing a suitable site.

The cost of the plant cannot be determined until the site is selected but it is believed that at least $10,000 will be spent before it is completed.

One machine will be installed at first but this one machine will be capable of grading peaches, apples and green tomatoes.

The Early Tomato Growers' Association of Talbot county recently organized, has made overtures to the fruit growers regarding the proposed packing plant. It is stated by those who are in a position to know that the early tomato growers will use the new packing plant this season.

Centreville High Girls Wed

Centerville, Md., March 9.—Cupid has been active in Centreville high school the past few months. Last week Miss Ethel Irene Leiby and Miss Marjorie Walls were married, and early in January, Miss Viriginia Kinnamon became the bride of Selby Skinner.

Miss Walls and Laurence A. Callahan, Jr., of Cordova, were married in Easton last week, and Miss Leiby was married Thursday to Charles Edmund Larrimore, of near Centreville.

HISTORY OF WHEAT IN PROSPERTY

Every major business depression in the United States since the Civil War has been ended only when the buying power of the farmer had recovered. Although in 1923 there was a partial recovery, largely because of building activity, a tiny depression developed in the middle of 1924. The country did not show an apparent permanent recovery from the severe slump of 1920 until the price of wheat began to go up in 1924.

During the Civil War wheat sold as high as $3 a bushel. It slumped in the depression of 1873 to 1879. In 1879 bad weather ruined England's crop. American farmers exported a huge quantity of wheat at good prices and the hard times of 1873 to 1879 were ended. A good American crop in 1880 sold profitably. Five years of prosperity followed.

In the depression of 1893 to 1896 wheat sold at 53 cents a bushel in 1896. That year the East Indian crop failed. Wheat went to 94 cents by November. In 1897 the United States had another good crop and good prices because of the shortages in France and the Danube valley. Wheat and the buying power of the farmer ended the depression of 1893-1896. This time prosperity lasted ten years.

The 1924 rise of wheat came at the psychological moment to settle prosperity in the saddle, and the question now arises: "If prosperity is here, what are you going to do about it?" That's a vital question for every man and woman. Are you going to invest your savings in the honest, substantial, wealth producing activities of the country and help make prosperity permanent or are you going to indulge in losing gambles, in get-rich-quick ventures, promoted by strangers?

MARYLAND SEED LAW AND THE FARMER

Maryland farmers will be interested in familiarizing themselves with the existing Maryland Seed Law, the following brief of which, has been prepared by F. S. Holmes, chief of the Seed Laboratory, Agricultural Experiment Station, University of Maryland at the request of Mr. M. Melvin Stewart, secretary-treasurer of the Maryland Farm Bureau Federation, acting on a request of the Board of Directors of that body.

"The law is divided into 12 sections numbered from 99 to 110 inclusive," says Mr. Holmes.

"Section 100 of the law is the one of the greatest interest because the bulk of all field seeds sold in Maryland are required to be tagged in accordance with its provisions. As the law is essentially a "tagging and labeling law" this section is actually the law for all practical purposes. All field seeds (not mixtures) of ten pounds or more must be tagged to show:

The common name of the seed.

The percentage by weight of pure seed of the kind named.

The percentage by weight, of all weed seeds.

The name of noxious weeds seeds or bulblets if present, singly or collectively in excess of one seed in varing amounts of field seeds (depending on the size of field seeds).

The law defines the following as noxious weeds: Garlic, Bermuda grass, Quack grass, Dodder, Canada Thistle, Hawkweed and Chicory.

The percentage by count of germination test was made. The name and address of the tagger of the seed.

Summarizing the law, it means that producers or growers of seeds when selling seeds produced on their farm, need not tag or brand same in complying with the law provided the purchaser comes to the farm and hauls the purchased seed away. If the same producer advertises seed or sells seed and then ships it by a public carrier, he must meet the requirements by proper tagging, showing the variety and quality.

SENATOR WELLER HAS FIELD SEEDS FOR DISTRIBUTION

Senator Weller has arranged to obtain from the United States Department of Agriculture a few packages of the following seeds: Kansas-grown alfalfa, Korean lespedeza, soybeans, and Sudan grass. Each of these packages contains a sufficient quantity of seeds for a satisfactory field test.

The Senator desires to distribute these seeds for test purposes among the farmers of Maryland. Should any reader wish to make a test of one variety of these seeds and will write to Senator Weller at 227 Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C., the Senator will be glad to have the Department of Agriculture mail the seeds to the applicant.

As the Senator has only a limited number of these seeds, and they are all intended for early spring planting, it is suggested that you let him hear from you by March 20th., 1925.

"COMING THROUGH" AT THE CENTURY

Thomas Meighan, everybody's favorite film star, will be seen on the screen at the Century Theatre during the week beginning Monday March 16, in his new Paramount picture "Coming Through." This is the film version of the vivid novel "Bed Rock," by Jack Bethea. People think Tom elopes with a rich young lady for her money, in this story, and the girl's father hires thugs to "get him" but Tom comes through with flying colors after many hard trials. Lila Lee is featured in the leading feminine role and others in the cast are: Wallace Berry, Laurence Wheat, John Miltern and Frank Campeau. Edward Sutherland, formerly Charlie Chaplin's assistant, did the directing. A special musical act will be given in addition to the regular program of pictures.
