MARYLAND WEEKLY INDUSTRIAL REVIEW

Professor Dale, Political Economist for the State University of Idaho, is of the opinion that for the first time since he went to Idaho, six years ago, there is an air of genuine optimism in that part of the state as to present conditions and future prospects. It is safe to say that the feeling in Idaho is pretty much the feeling all over the nation.

The radio listener should become acquainted with his local stations and enjoy them during the summer, and be satisfied with the long distance records he has made or will make in the winter. In other words, he should get the best there is in radio during all seasons, and above all, he should be reasonable.

"Tht levy of an income tax at proper rates is a fair and economically sound means of raising immense revenues required for operation of the government," says Secretary of the Treasury Mellon. "But the tax must not be levied at rates so high as to hamper business, slacken initiative, distort investment and encourage the avoidance of the tax."

NORMAL SCHOOL GIVES DIPLOMAS TO CLASS OF 505

Governor Ritchie Addresses the Graduates At Finals on Campus

Governor Ritchie, Tuesday, presented diplomas to 505 students at the State Normal School, Towson. The commencement exercises were held on the campus.

This year's class is the largest ever graduated from the school as well as the largest ever graduated from any two-year normal school in the United States, it is said.

Twenty-seven men were in the class. Twenty-two diplomas were deferred, awaiting completion of required work by the unqualified applicants.

Gives Teaching High Place

Addressing the students, Governor Ritchie called teaching "the finest of all professional activities," and urged teachers to enter the field prepared for "good old-fashioned American hard work."

"This day is eventful not only for the braduates of the normal school but for the whole State," the Governor said, "because it stands for recent progress made in public school education in Maryland. It is the direct result of organized effort on the part of the present administration to place trained teachers in every public school.

"The graduates of this school are trained teachers. They have chosen this profession as opposed to medicine, law and many other vital pursuits. Their choice is commendable. Of all the professional activities man or woman can engage in, none is finer than teaching, nor does any one reflect a greater potential power for public service.

Points To Responsibility

"For this reason every teacher bears great responsibility. He educates and trains the generation that must "carry on." The teacher, side by side with the family, moulds the future.

"Education is the highest duty the State has to perform. For the execution of this duty it depends on capable teachers. To meet this responsibility, hard work is necessary. Two things have made our country what it is—our peculiar form of government and hard work. Every person who enters the teaching profession must be prepared for good old-fashioned American hard work if he wants to succeed in the highest sense of the word."
