WEATHER AND CROP REPORT

Generous showers fell during the early part of the week in the Allegheny Mountain region. Light, general showers during the night of 22-23 afforded some relief from the drought over the remainder of the section. Cooler weather set in on the 23d.

With the exception of grains and corn, crops are in but poor to fair condition generally, except fair to good in the Allegheny Mountain region. Pastures are poor, except fair in the extreme west.

Corn is still in good condition and is being cultivated.

Wheat is filling now and rye continues to fill in Garrett county; elsewhere in western Maryland these grains are ripening. Harvesting of wheat ended in the southern and central portions of the Eastern Shore; it began to the northward thereof and also west of Chesapeake Bay to eastern Washington county, and made good progress. Harvesting of rye became general over the southern Eastern Shore, and began locally to the northward thereof and also west of Chesapeake Bay to eastern Washington county. Barley has been harvested.

Oats are filling out now, except ripening over the southern Eastern Shore. The straw is short.

Early potatoes are maturing in the central and southern counties, where digging has begun locally. They will be a poor crop.

Peas are maturing in Garrett county. Picking continues elsewhere in western Maryland, but has ended in north-central and southern Maryland and on the northern Eastern Shore.

Clover has been mostly cut. Cutting of alfalfa continues. The hay crop will be short.

Tomatoes are blooming in western Maryland and fruiting in other divisions. Shipping of early tomatoes has begun from central Somerset county.

Setting out of tomato, tobacco and sweet potato plants remains unfinished in many localities. Tobacco plants in beds are firing.

Picking of strawberies continues in Garrett and Alleghany counties.

Cherries are ripe; they are plentiful and good.
