J. H. EMERSON, EDITOR.

DENTON, MARYLAND:

Thursday Morning June 28, 1877.

ELEVEN men, belonging to the order known as the "Molly Maguires," a band of assassins, were hung in Pennsylvania last week. They were attended by Roman Catholic priests as their spiritual advisers, denied their guilt, and as is the custom with most culprits, declared their fitness for Heaven.

A MEMPHIS despatch says that the damage to the cotton crop on the Arkansas river by the flood is estimated at from twenty thousand to thirty thousand bales. A frost in the north-western section of Ontario on Friday night did considerable injury to the crops generally. There was a slight frost in the vicinity of Toledo the same night.

PRESIDENT HAYES has informed Mr. Wikoff, chairman of the Ohio Republican State Committee, that he must choose between that position and the pension agency which he now holds, as he cannot retain both. This is civil service reform, but if it is carried out everywhere it will bottle up a good deal of sonorous enthusiasm for the party.

BALTIMORE politicians, of the Democratic persuasion, are considerably agitated just now over the Legislative nominations which are to be made this week. If they cannot nominate better men than in the past years, the people, without reference to party, ought to take hold of their own interests, and not only nominate, but elect men of experience, ability and honor.

ONE morning last week a boy named Frank William George picked up a pocket-book containing between four and five hundred dollars in the Custom House in Baltimore. He took it to a clerk in the office. The owner called for it sometime afterwards and rewarded the boy for his honesty with the magnificent sum of twenty-six cents. Honesty was at a discount with the owner of that pocketbook.

GOV. CARROLL, seems to regard with special favor the pudding ticket, ballot-box stuffing and ballot-box smashing ruffians, convicted in the criminal court of Baltimore city. He has just interposed the executive clemency in favor of another one of these convicts whose term of sentence did not expire until October, 1878. But his services are more needed in the arena of politics this fall than in the walls of the penitentiary.

THE contest for the nomination of mayor of Baltimore city ended last week with the triumph of the rowdy element and the success of George P. Kane over the friends of Mayor Latrobe. The same means that were brought into play to secure the nomination and to count in Mayor Latrobe succeed in giving the nomination to Kane.—The friends of Warfield are again urging his claims as the reform candidate. Lively times may be anticipated before the close of the contest.

SECRETARY MCCRARY has informed the Governor of Utah in regard to the matter of sending reinforcements to that territory, that the subject has been carefully investigated, and he does not think that the Mormons are contemplating violent resistence to lawful authority. Still, in order to allay existing apprehension, and with a view to the preservation of peace and the protection of the rights of all in the proper enforcement of the laws, such an increase of the military force as is practicable will be made in a short time.

As a party war-cry, the new corner-stone of the Democratic faith, "fraud," is already a failure. The party itself refuses to take it up. The leading journals condemn it in the abstract and in the concrete. Especially do they condemn it if it is to be a rallying cry for any attempt to question the validity of President Hayes' title. As the St. Louis Republican puts it, "the political situation in the country is in the highest degree satisfactory; it is impossible for any Democrat to find fault with it.—Mr. Tilden in Mr. Hayes' place could not improve it, and it is almost demonstrably certain that he would impair it. The disputed election of 1876 has been finally adjudicated, and will never be reopened for review by any tribunal—not even by the people themselves. It may come up before the country as an issue between the great parties in 1880, but not in such a way as to involve Mr. Hayes or his Administration."

THE cry of fraud doesn't strike the Nation as the best sort of platform for a national party to stake its chances on. It says: "The reception given to the Democratic leaders last week at the Manhattan Club was marked by the appearance of Mr. Tilden, who made a speech in which, for the first time since the termination of the Presidential struggle, he announced his position. It does not differ widely from that taken by the other members of the party, whose avowed object and plan is to keep but one idea before the people for the next four years—that the party has been cheated out of the election. The passionate devotion of Mr. Tilden and his followers to reform—reform in the currency, reform in the civil service, reform in the army, reform in the navy—which inspired the St. Louis platform, has all disappeared, and in its stead we have the single cry of fraud. The Democrats may be right in feeling sure of carrying the country in 1880 on this cry, but if they do so they will do it without the aid of the independent vote that supported them in the campaign. The independent vote cast on the Democratic side Mr. Tilden received almost entirely as a reformer, and because it was believed that his administration would be a reform administration. If he wishes to retain this support he must go on being a reformer, and must make speeches very unlike that at the Manhattan Club."

THE Hon. Marshall Jewell says he discovered during his recent visit to Washington that the "bummer and dead-beat element were conspicuous by their absence," the atmosphere about President Hayes not being congenial to them. Mr. Jewell thinks the financial outlook very hopeful, and he expresses that opinion as a business man actually engaged in business. As for the Southern policy, "it may be said that it is not a policy—it is a necessity. Bayonets will do to stand on a little while, but you can't sit on them as a permanent thing."

PRESIDENT HAYES is reported by the Washington correspondent of the Boston Advertiser as saying, in reference to his forthcoming order to office-holders to withdraw either from politics or their offices, that, while the enforcement of this rule might work some harm to the Republican party for the immediate present, he considered it both right and just, and as such it must be strictly observed. The President was informed that this rule would make necessary the resignation of about one-half of the members of the Ohio State Republican Committee, including the chairman, General Wikoff. Under this rule Collector Simmons and other Federal officers in Massachusetts will also be forced to abstain from participation in political contests in the State. Ex Governor J. D. Cox had a long interview with the President, during which the policy of civil service reform was thoroughly discussed. Governor Cox approves of the President's rule regarding Federal office-holders not mixing in politics. If the President's letter is to be fully carried out the following members of the Republican National and other important committees will be compelled to resign their places or the Government offices which they now hold: Governor McCormick, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, who is Secretary of the Republican National Committee; Will Cumback, who is Collector of Internal Revenue in Indiana; Captain Enos, who is Postmaster in Wisconsin; Chauncey Filley, Postmaster at St. Louis; Governor Noyes, commissioned Minister to France; Postmaster Keyes, of Wisconsin, Chairman of the Republican State Committee, besides a great many others in every State in the Union.

A Romantic and Thrilling Recognition.

About ten years ago two brothers left their home in Illinois and went to California. The elder was a man of the most steady habits, and had received a good business education, but the younger was inclined to be dissipated, and, indeed, had figured in so many scrapes at home that his departure was not regretted in his native village. The two brothers lived for a short time in San Francisco, while they looked for situations. The younger brother, however, fell into bad company, and they seperated by mutual consent. The elder brother obtained a situation in a wholesale store as porter, and by his diligence and steadiness so worked himself into the confidence of his employers that he rose from the position of porter to that of partner in the firm. He lately purchased a house in Brush street, married a lady with a considerable fortune of her own, and on last Christmas Eve he saw three beautiful children around him enjoying the delights of a christmas tree. The family retired at midnight, but the gentleman had hardly closed his eyes when he was awakened by a noise down stairs, and, moving stealthily to the parlor with a revolver in his hand, he saw a man endeavoring to open the buffett where he kept his silver. Leveling his revolver at the thief's head, he exclaimed, "Stop, or you're a dead man!" The jimmy dropped from the hands of the burglar, who, falling on his knees, cried, "As God is my judge, Robert, I did not know that you lived here!" The gentleman then discovered, to his horror, that the burglar whom he was about to shoot was the younger brother whom he had not met for nearly ten years. That night the burglar slept peacefully under the roof of his forgiving brother, who assured a friend, with tears in his eyes, that he was about to give him employment in his own store, and that he had never spent a happier Christmas.—San Francisco Call.

A Powerful Temperance Discourse.

It is scarcely possible to conceive of a more powerful temperance discourse than the following, written by George W. Fletcher, at Philadelphia, on Monday morning, June 11th. Fletcher was hanged for the murder of a man named James Hanley, and here is a letter which he wrote to his wife, to be delivered to her after his death:

To My Dear Wife:—These are the last words of a dying husband, which I hope you will cherish and remember. You have imposed upon you a double duty.—Your children and mine are deprived of the counsel and protection of their father, and I want you at once to commence to teach them the life of a Christian. For yourself, forget what I have been and what I have done and devote your time to making them better than what I was.

A farewell word to my mother. If I had taken your counsel I never would have been compelled to drink the bitter cup that has been mine, but probably it is all for the best. I will meet you in a better world.

To my brothers all I say, refrain from the use of intoxicating liquors. Consider what it has brought me to, and never touch, taste or handle, but pledge yourselves to live a Christian life, and meet me in heaven.

To all my friends. Take warning from my fate. Live a good, Christian life, and never indulge in intoxicating drink.

GEORGE W. FLECHER.

DRIED EGGS.—A large establishment has been opened in St. Louis for drying eggs. It is in full operation, and hundred of thousands of dozens are going into its maw. The eggs are carefully "handled" by hand—that is examined by light to ascertain whether good or not—and are then thrown into an immense receptacle, where they are broken, and by a centifugal operation the white and yolk are seperated from the shell very much as liquid honey is seperated from the comb. The liquid is then dried by heat by patent process, and the dried article is left resembling sugar; and it is put in barrells and is ready for transportation anywhere. This dried article has been taken twice across the equator in ships and then made into omelet, and compared with omelet made from fresh eggs in the same manner, and the best judges could not detect the difference between the two. Is this not an age of wonders? Milk made solid, cider made solid, apple butter made into bricks? What next.—Philadelphia Trade Journal.

The New Jersey peach crop this year is estimated at 18,000,000 baskets; add to this the product of Delaware and Maryland and there will be a total of at least 75,000,000 baskets, perhaps the heaviest yield ever known. An attempt to ship the fruit to Europe will again be made.

MRS. MOORE'S TWO MARRIAGES.—After an absolute divorce was granted to Mrs. Elizabeth Moore from Austin D. Moore, the heir to a large fortune, the latter was compelled, by order of a N. Y. Court, to pay her $25 a week alimony. Moore paid this regularly for a short time, and then becoming short of cash, he went to his divorced wife to borrow money. In this way he got back most of what he had paid her.—He proposed a remarriage, and after she had obtained his signature to an ante-nuptial agreement that he would continue to pay her the alimony, she consented. They were remarried and went on a bridal tour. After the novelty of this reunion had worn away, Moore returned to his old habits.—His wife remonstrated, and he told her that she was no more than his mistress, and that the decree which first divorced them made it unlawful to marry in her lifetime. She then began a new suit for divorce, and Moore's counsel interposed a demurrer to the complaint, that there was no marriage which the law could recognize. Justice Neilson decided recently that the demurrer was well taken, and that the Court had no power inherently or under the statute, to grant the relief asked for.

ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY YEARS OLD.—Stimulated by Eastern competition, California presents an old lady whose claims to longevity, substantiated by record, are astounding. She is said to be 140 years old, and her name is Senora Paris Glen.—She is a Mexican woman residing at San Gabriel mission. The Senora was married at 13, and has 11 children. She is now living with her youngest—a baby of 83.—She was a tobacco smoker till fifteen years since, when she left off the habit, as likewise that of wine drinking. A singular fact is that her hair, once of snowy whiteness, is turning black and silky, and another half-century it is believed will restore the venerable Senora to blooming girlhood again.—New York Mail.

DEATH OF THE LARGEST WOMAN.—The largest woman in the world, Mrs. Ruth Beaton, alias Fanny Wallace, died at Vernon county, Wisconsin, June 1st. She was 54 years old, 7 feet, 4 inches in hight, and weighed 585 pounds. Her coffin was made in this village, and was 7 feet, 8 inches in length, 3 feet, 6 inches in depth, 4 feet wide at centre, 24 inches at the head, and 25 inches at the foot. It required 8 men with block and tackle to lower the remains into the grave. For many years she has traveled with circusses and became well known throughout the country. She was a kind, good neighbor, a loving mother, and was beloved by all who knew her.—Caledonia, Minn., Courier.

THE present population of Kansas is over half a million. The total grain crop of this year is expected to amount to 120,000,000 bushels, of which about 80,000,000 will be corn, nearly 20,000,000 wheat, and the remainder oats, barley, rye and other small grains. The value of the agricultural products in 1875 was over $43,000,000; this year it is estimated at $60,000,000.—Farming is carried on on a large scale in Kansas. Mr. Henry, of Dickenson county, owns one tract of 12,000 acres. He has one wheat field four miles in length, the proceeds of the standing crop of which will not be less than $80,000.

AN ITEM FOR SCIENTISTS.—S. N. Hyde of Boothby Hill, in digging a well near his dwelling a week or two ago, found, at the depth of twenty-eight feet from the surface of the ground, two pine stumps of what have been quite large trees, a foot at least in diameter. They were in a fair state of preservation, and had apparently been cut off with some dull edged instrument. Here is a nut for geologists to crack. The location is about three miles from the bay shore and on quite high ground. They evidently belong to a remote historic age.—Havre de Grace Republican.

Murder Will Out.

A few years ago "August Flower" was discovered to be a certain cure for Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint, a few thin Dyspeptics made known to their friends how easily and quickly they had been cured by its use. The great merits of GREEN'S AUGUST FLOWER became heralded through the country by one sufferer to another, until, without advertising, its sale has become immense. Druggists in EVERY TOWN in the United States are selling it. No person suffering with Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, Costiveness, palpitation of the Heart, Indigestion, low spirits, etc., can take three doses without relief. Go to your Druggist, Dr. Fisher, Chas. Stevens Denton, and J. H. Douglass, Preston, and get a bottle for 75 cents and try it. Sample bottles 10 cents.

How it is Done.

The first object in life with the American people is to "get rich"; the second, how to regain good health. The first can be obtained by energy, honesty and saving; the second, (good health.) by using Green's August Flower. Should you be a despondent sufferer from any of the effects of Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Indigestion, &c., such as Sick Headache, palpitation of the Heart, Sour Stomach, Habitual Costiveness, Dizziness of the Head, Nervous Prostration, Low Spirits, &c., you need not suffer another day. Two doses of August Flower will relieve you at once. Sample bottle 10 cents. Regular size 75 cents. Positively sold by all first-class Druggists in the U. S. Sold by Dr. Fisher and Chas. Stevens, Denton, and by J. H. Douglass, Preston.

DELAYS ARE DANGEROUS.—If this axiom is true respecting the ordinary affairs of life, still more obviously so as regards the exigencies of approaching disease. Unquestionably! Yet how many neglect to practically recognize this plain truth when health is in the balance. Of the many premonitory symptoms of disease a hacking cough is the most prophetic of peril. Arrest it at the outset with Dr. WISHART'S PINE TREE CORDIAL, and so avoid Consumption, Bronchitis, Inflammation of the Lungs, Coughs, Colds, and, indeed, all Affections of the Respiratory Organs are entirely cured by this sovereign remedy, which also eradicates Dyspepsia, Gravel, Piles, Nervous Debility, Torpidity of the Liver, Urinary Difficulties, Constipation, Palpitation of the Heart, Scrofulous Affections, and the infirmities peculiar to the gentler sex. This Cordial derives its virtues from the vegetable kingdom, and is infinitely to be preferred, both on account of its superior efficacy and freedom from nauseous and injurious properties to the officinal drugs so often administered with no other effect than to offend the palate and disorder the stomach. The PINE TREE TAR CORDIAL can always be relied on to do what is claimed for it. Sold by all druggists. Principal Depot No. 916 Filbert St., Philadelphia.
