DENTON, SATURDAY MORNING, January 4, 1873.

The New Year.

The year of 1872 died on Tuesday last, and with this issue we enter upon our duties and obligation of the new year. Whatever may be the different and varied duties of us all, it is an opportune time for serious and earnest reflection, that the mistakes and shortcomings of the past, in whatever respect they may have occurred, may for this, the present year, and for the future, be avoided. All of us, by our past experience, should be wiser, if not happier, and better able for the future to avoid the mistakes and errors of the past. The past is gone and cannot be recalled, nor its record changed, and it is useless to consider it except with the view of profiting by the experience it has afforded us. If we have wronged anyone, in any way, there is no better time to correct it; and if we have been wronged this is the time to forgive it, that we may start out on life's rough and uneven road, now, at the beginning of the new year, at least without enemies, if it be possible. There are many that will be called away to the shade of the silent dead in this, the present year, as there were in the past. Whilst life is to those, even that live the longest, a short period of time, we all should earnestly try to live in peace and harmony. It is further a fit and proper time, if we have formed them, to drop evil habits and associations.—This is [illegible] y necessary if we desire [illegible] be happy, for it is an estabished fact, that to be happy, we must be virtuous; and to be miserable, it is only necessary to be vicious and wicked. Let us each and all, in whatever sphere we may be placed, try to discharge the duties devolving upon us, in every respect, earnestly and faithfully, to the best of our ability. This will but increase our happiness and usefulness, without which life cannot be very desirable.—To our readers, and all others, we wish a happy and prosperous year, and a realization of their fondest hopes and anticipations.

[illegible] Academy Theatre, New [illegible] the New Year's [illegible] the conclusion [illegible]

[illegible] hundred citizens [illegible] been to Washington [illegible] of the political troubles [illegible] before the President. They have also published an address to the United States, detailing, in plain, but forcible language, some of the manifold wrongs to which they have been subjected and under which they are still suffering. After the narration of the circumstances leading to the foisting of the negro, Pinchback, into the gubernatorial chair. They say:

"The means by which such results have been reached are enough to startle the public mind, but the results themselves are not less appalling.—Aside from the general officers of the state, we find the Legislature of the state delivered over to the hands of men who are not elected, and who are utterly unfitted for positions of such responsibility. As originally composed, at its organization, it comprised sixty-eight persons of color, most of them totally uneducated, with a very small minority of whites. Since that time they have expelled members whose seats were uncontested. They have unseated members returned elected by their own board and seated their donated opponents on the simple ground that the former had not appeared to claim their seats. The result is that originally bad as the Legislature was, it makes itself worse, day by day, and the prospect is that soon the conservative element of the State will have no representation whatever. To those who flatter themselves with the hope that Mr. Kellogg would not willingly abet any scheme of outrageous misgovernment, it is now apparent that, even supposing this to be true, the power of restraint has passed entirely beyond his control, and that, should he attempt to thwart the schemes of this Legislature, his own impeachment would be a probable event of the future.

In conclusion, we would state that we have attempted to perform the duties of our mission in the purest non-partisan spirit, that we have not sought to furnish capital to any political party, or to excite popular clamor in the interests of any faction. We have laid our case before the President and his Attorney General, and we willingly testify that we have been courteously received and patiently listened to, while they have refused the specific measures of relief for which we applied.

They have given reasons for such refusal in no manner implying their indisposition to see justice done. They have referred us to Congress, and we feel assured that we shall have the immediate sanction of the President so far as we invite an impartial investigation of the facts of our case, and that we shall have his co-operation in any measure of relief which Congress may adopt after such investigation.

The people of Louisiana, ignoring party, and counscious of an honorable effort to place in office men of tried probity, seek justice, not generasity. They ask for a calm, impartial examination of the recent extraordinary events within their borders, in order that truth may be known, and that there may be a speady correction of the dangerous evils now threatening the very life of the State.

WHICH STATE WILL BE THE NEXT VICTIM?

It is one of the most instructive and admonitory signs of the times that all the leading agents employed by the National Administration in striking down the government of Louisiana are officeholders under the government of the United States. Here is the list:

Durrell, whose orders and injunctions were the first and the essential step in the conspiracy, is United States District Judge.

Packard, who executed these orders and injunctions, is United States Marshal.

Emory, whose bayonets, cutlasses, and cannon, enabled the marshal to give full effect to these orders and injunctions, is a Brevet Brigadier-General of the United States army.

Kellogg, whom the conspirators had determined to make Governor of Louisiana in spite of the election returns, is United States Senator and was formerly Collector of Customs in New Orleans.

Antoine, whom the conspirators resolved to make Lieutenant Governor of the State, though the returns showed that he was not elected, is United States Collector at Shreveport.

Lowell, the Speaker of the bogus House of Representatives which pretended to impeach Warmoth and suspended him from office, is Postmaster at New Orleans.

Pinchback, who on the suspension of Warmoth, stepped into his place as acting Governor of the State, is, or claim to be, a member of the incoming United States House of representatives.

Is it not a little startling that the seven principal agents through whom the central government at Washington have prostrated the legitimate and lawful government of the State of Louisiana hold office under the central power at the Federal capital, and that five of these agents derive their commissions directly from the President.

Does it not occur to the mind of the most superficial observer of passing events that the Government at Washington may at any time hereafter, under such plausible pretexts as were made to serve the purposes of the conspirators in the Louisiana case, overthrow the Government of any State in the Union? If the same pretexts did not exist in any new emergency whi[illegible] would not a ring of unscrupu[illegible] Kellogg, Packard, [illegible] manufac[illegible] pretexts could [illegible] if [illegible] cues [illegible] ced!

Within a year the consumption of opium in this country has increased about 1,000,000 ounces per month.

The peach crop of this Peninsula in 1872 is estimated 4,000,000 baskets, netting the farmers about one million, five hundred thousand dollars.

Intensely cold weather prevailed throughout the Northern States last week. At some points the mercury in the thermometer was down to 20 degrees below zero.

Congress having adjourned for Christmas, was not in session last week. The business of the session thus far has been of little public interest.

Strong efforts are to be made this session of Congress to pass a bill authorizing the United States Government to purchase all the telegraphic lines in the country.

P. T. Barnum has gone promptly to work to purchase and organize a new show, to be ready by the coming Spring, to take the place of the great show, just destroyed by fire. He has been burnt out four times.

The late snow storm was one of the most severe that has taken place for years. In some parts of the country the snow was three feet deep on a level; in some places it was banked so as to delay railroad trains for days.

Ex Gov. Hoffman and family of New York have gone to Europe on a trip of pleasure. Before leaving he declined a public dinner tendered him by a number of the citzens of Albany.

The second trial of E. S. Stokes, for the murder of James Fisk jr., is now going on in New York. As no one wi[illegible] Stokes is convicted and hung for murder in that badly governed city, he is confidently expected to be cleared, although he is doubly giulty.

It is understood that the venerable Madam Bonaparte, (whose legal name is Mrs. Elizabeth Patterson,) who has been in feeble health for some time past at her residence, in Baltimore city, is at present [illegible] serious illness which, ta[illegible] advanced age, [illegible] stons among [illegible] with res[illegible]

St. John's College Scholarships.

All of the fifty Senatorial Scholarships in St. John's College, created by the act of 1872, by which the recipents of said scholarships were given their board and tuition fee, have been filled, excepting the two from Frederick Co. There are vacancies in the annexed counties in the freescholarships of the College, which give tuition with board, and does not requi the holder to give bond to teach two years after graduation; Allegany, fo[illegible]; Anne Arundel, one; Baltimore ci[illegible] nine; Baltimore county, one; Cal[illegible], two; Carolin[illegible], one; Carroll, four; Cecil, three; [illegible]les, four; Dorchester, three; [illegible]derick, two; Howard, three; Kent four; Montgomery, [illegible]; Prin[illegible] George's one; Queen Anne's, four; Somerset, two; St. Mary's, four; Talbot, one; Washington, Wicomico and Worcester, four each.

THE Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun says: "It seems as if political affairs in Arkansas are getting as much mixed up as in Louisiana, and that the solution will be as far from right and justice. The Liberals and Democrats of Arkansas claim that they can prove by undisputable evidence that nearly 30,000 legal voters were deprived of the right to vote at the regular polls, at the last election, and over 15,000 votes cast by repeaters or stuffed by the election officers, were counted for the Grant and Wilson electors. Senator Rice and numbers of the most respectable and influential men of the State assert their ability to prove these allegations. The legal voters who were not allowed to cast their ballots at the Arkansas election were almost altogether white men."

TERRIBLE storms have recently occurred in England and France. A dispatch from Liverpool states that four hundred and thirty-nine persons have perished by shipwreck in ten days on the coast of England, while inland, great destruction of property has taken place from floods and water. In France, most of the rivers have overleaped their banks, inundated the country, and carried away property of all kinds. The loss of life has also been considerable.

TAKE NOTICE!

To all Persons Indebted to me for Fees.

FIVE years have now expired since I assumed the duties of this office, and in that time nine-tenths of all the business of the office has been credit, and though I have annually advertised for persons indebted to come forward and settle with me, scarcely any have regarded my notice. This is therefore to notify all such that my term of office expires in a very short time, and my business necessities compels me to have money, and I am determined to relieve myself by making all pay me who are indebted to me by the shortest process of law. The fees that were in R. K. Richardson's hands, are returned to me uncollected by him, I have placed in Mr. Smith's hands, Constable for this district, with instructions to call once, and no more, before making the money by law. I will allow ten per centum to all persons who come up and settle with me by the 1st of January next, and eight per cent to all who pay up by the 1st of February.—After that time I shall place my Fees in the hands of Sheriff Evitts with instructions to make the money by the shortest process of law. I prefer personal settlements always, but to work for the public without compensation is more than I am able to do, and I am determined that further forbearance is injustice to myself and the good people who gave me the office. Attend, therefore, to your business and there will be no trouble.

THE CENTRE STREET HORROR.—Some strange things have happened in New York, but none, perhaps, more outlandish than that which has occurred in connection with the late fire in Centre street, in that city, amid the ruins of which a number of poor working girls are believed to have been buried. The recovery of the bodies of the unfortunates, one would suppose, would have been the very first consideration of all the parties interested after the extinguishment of the fire. But in this case it seems that the owner of the property refused to undertake the expense of the work because he thought the lessees ought to do it. The lessees declined, because they held that the ruins virtually belonged to the insurance companies, and that they would run the risk of forfeiting their policies by disturbing them; and the city "authorities" would not interfere because they "had no authority" to subject the city to any expense. The dread of the loss of a few dollars, it appears, involved in a technecality, kept all hands off for an entire week from those heaps of rubbish under which, there was every reason to believe, lay mangled and crushed a number of poor girls, who lost their lives in their efforts to escape. They lay there, amidst smoke and smouldering cinders, till the rain and snow quenched the last vestige of the fire, and during all the days and nights of the prevalence of a great storm, until at last two public-spirited citizens came along and settled the difficulty by taking $500 from their own pockets and handing it over to the coroner to pay the expenses. Other citizens have since come forward with like generosity and the work of removing the debris has at last been begun. So far the efforts of the labors employed have resulted in the exhumation of the body of one of the girls.—Balto. Sun.
