THE JOURNAL.

GEO. T. MELVIN & Z. P. STEELE, Editors

DENTON, SATURDAY MORNING, June 30, 1877.

THE Governor has appointed John M. Aher justice of the peace for the fifth district of Queen Anne's county, in place of V. B. Clemens, resigned.

AT THE Iowa Republican Convention, which met at Des Moines on the 26th inst., the Hon. John H. Gerr was nominated for Governor and the Hon. Frank J. Campbell Lieutenant Governor.

COLONEL GEORGE P. KANE has been nominated as the Democratic candidate for Mayor of Baltimore. Col. Kane has filled many offices of trust and responsibility at different times and discharged his duties with credit to himself and advantage to the public.

WE have already noticed the names of many eminent gentlemen of the Eastern Shore, who are prominently spoken of in connection with the United States Senatorship. Among the most distinguished whom our exchanges have mentioned for this high post of honor, are the Hon. Samuel Hambleton, the Hon. Jno. M. Robinson and the Hon. Jos. A. Wickes. These are all lawyers of profound learning, great abilities and unbending integrity; and should the people of this State be so fortunate as to secure the services of one of these gentlemen in the U. S. Senate, they will have cause to feel proud that they have added such intellectual splendor to that illustrious body. Col. Hambleton has numerous friends who are desirous that he should allow his name to be presented to the next legislature for this high place. From his long and honorable public career and his unquestionable ability, there is no doubt that he would well deserve that preferment.

Judge Robinson also has a great many warm friends and supporters for this position. He is favorably known in this county, and very many indeed of our citizens would rejoice at his success. He has the well deserved reputation of a sound, learned and independent judge, as well as a man of unexceptionable purity of character.

Judge Wickes is likewise well and favorably known throughout the State; and the election to the U. S. Senate of one so well and thoroughly versed in the jurisprudence of our country, possessing so many characteristics that distinguish the Statesman and make illustrious the lawyer, would be a credit to the State and an honor to the Senate.

Fish Culture.

MESSRS EDITORS:—The following article, taken from a Baltimore paper, presents a subject that is, I think, of much interest to the farmers of Maryland. Facts in abundance can be produced to show that an acre of water on a farm can, if properly attended to, be made to produce as much food for man as any twenty acres of our ordinary Caroline land. The fish commission of New Jersey, in their last report, refer to a pond of about that size on Baron Rothchild's estate, in Germany, the value of which is about $3,000 a year. It is devoted mainly to the raising of Carp, a fish which lives on vegetable food; and delights in ponds in which there is much, as in ours.

If some of our millers knew how to avail themselves of such advantages as wisely as the manager of this Rothchild's estate they might find their pond as profitable as their mill itself. Is not this worth looking into? The State of Maryland has, like most of the other States, appointed "Fish Commissioners," and unlike some of them she has chosen I understand to give these gentlemen good salaries. There are two of them—one for each shore. If you would be good enough to publish the law under which they were appointed, so that we may know the work they have undertaken to do, their fellow citizens may know how far they are at liberty to call on them for information and official aid. Please publish also their names and postoffice address, and, if accessable, extracts from their reports:

Professor Baird, the United States commissioner of fish and fisheries, will leave Washington the 1st of July for the purpose collecting information and statistics in regard to the food fishes on the New England coast, between Salem and Portland, Me., and will have his headquarters this summer at Salem. This season particular attention will be given to the collection of information in regard to the cod, mackerel, blue fish, taulog, menhaden sea herring, haddock, pollock, cusk and hake.

During the past spring the United States fish commission, in connection with the Maryland fish commissioners, hatched out about nine million young shad on the Susquehana river at Havre de Grace, over one million of which have already been distributed in Western and Southern waters, and about one hundred thousand are now en route for California for distribution in the waters of that State. The young shad thus far have been sent to Louisiana, Mississippi, Georgia, South Carolina, Kansas and Missouri, and more will be distributed within the next two weeks. Active preparations are also being made for the distribution of a large number salmon eggs and young salmon throughout the country next fall. Over five millions of eggs and young salmon were distributed to the various States last fall, and a large number will be sent out this season.

The principal salmon hatching establishment is on the Macloud river, in California, the species of salmon found in these waters being suitable for Eastern rivers, like the Susquehanna, Dewaware, Potomac and Cape Fear. A large number of salmon eggs will be sent to North Carolina this fall to stock the Cape Fear river, the fish commissioners in that State having shown great interest in fish culture, and suitable hatching houses have been erected by them at several places to facilitate the propogation of food fishes. Prof. Baird has recently given some attention to the importation of carp from Germany, those found in that country being regarded as the finest varieties of the fish. They are suitable for Southern waters, and will be distributed in streams of that section. Four hundred and fifty large carp were recently brought over on the steamer Necker, and they are now in the ponds of the Maryland fish commission, near Baltimore, for breeding purposes. Carp frequently attain a weight of four pounds in two years, and a large number of them can be kept in small body of water. Other importations of the fish will be made soon.

PEACH GROWERS

AND ALL WHO WANT

AN EVAPORATOR FOR DRYING FRUIT.

Be sure to see the Delaware Fruit Dryer and buy the low priced Dryer that makes the high price fruit.

This Dryer was invented for the purpose of saving a part of my own crop of peaches in 1875. Thousands of baskets of fruit had rotted in my orchard. The Smocks and Late White Peaces were ready to dry when I began, yet the peaches dried after that, with a common stove without grate bars, sold for two hundred dollars. I improved the Dryer greatly in 1876 and this year, and claim that it will dry Fruit and Vegetables so that they will be very nearly as light and rich in color when dry as when put fresh in the Evaporator.

That which darkens the more fruit than all else is the vaper that is thrown off in drying and remains in the dryer until it passes through all the fruit in the way the outlet. My invention, by the use of tubes, takes the greater part of that moisture out of the main chamber without its passing through the fruit, and supplies dry heat to every five trays continually, thus retaicing the natural color by quick drying. When the fruit is nearly dry it is slid into a milder heat in the finishing chamber.

The following certificates show what is thought by those who have seen, used and sold the fruit for two years:

NEAR DOVER, May 6, 1877.

MR. S. W. HOPE:—In answer to your inquiry, "What do you think of my Evaporated Fruit?" I answer that I have for two years seen and used your evaporated peaches and pronounce them decidedly the finest of any I have seen, coming out in color almost if not quite as it went into the evaporator.

R. M. JONES.

NEAR DOVER, May 8, 1877.

MR. S. W. HOPE:—I have visited several of the fruit drying establishments and can safely say that your evaporated fruit far surpasses any I have seen, both in color and flavor and fully comes up to all you claim for it.

J. HAMAN.

DOVER HUNDRED, May 9, 1877.

MR. S. W. HOPE:—The peaches dried by your evaporator are the best and brightest I ever saw.—The apples and peaches you dried for me are certainly handsome.

CHAS. C. BABBITT.

DOVER, May 8, 1877.

MR. S. W. HOPE:—In reference to your Dryer I must say that the fruit from it is as handsome as any one can wish, and I don't think the quality can be disputed by anything I have seen in the shape of a dryer.

JAMES H. TODD.

DOVER, May 9, 1877.

MR. S. W. HOPE:—The peaches and apples dried by your Fruit Dryer are the prettiest I ever saw.

J. A. SLAUGHTER.

DOVER, May 9, 1877.

MR. S. W. HOPE:—The peaches and apples dried by your Fruit Dryer are the nicest looking and the finest tasted I ever saw.

J. J. NIVISON.

The following will show what is thought of the fruit in market:

NEW YORK, May 9, 1877.

S. W. HOPE.— Dear Sir: We received and sold for you on Jan. 11, 1877, a shipment of Evaported (peeled) peaches, at 30 cents per pound; also on Feb. 28th, another shipment, sold at 33 cents per pound. The market had declined at least five cents per pound on dried fruit since the date of the first sale; yet the last lot being the finest, we realized still higher figures for them. As regards the quality of your peaches, there has been nothing in this market that we have seen, that were equal to them. Particularly of the last you sent and denominated first quality. They not only are beautiful at sight, but command ready sale at good prices, and give universal satisfaction. Yours respectfully,

S. H. & E. H. EROST.
