THE JOURNAL.

GEO. T. MELVIN & Z. P. STEELE, Editors.

SATURDAY,.....JUNE 8, 1878.

EVEN Stanley Matthews has made a speech about the frauds! But not one word yet from Conkling!

SAYS an exchange, the country may depend on it, Gen. Grant and his desperate set are bent upon putting him forth again.

MR. SHERMAN'S assurance that there was no fraud carries no weight whatever. It is simply the plea of not guilty which he is expected to make.

NO ONE proposes to disturb Hayes's title, as the Radicals did that of Johnson. What Congress can do is only to show the frauds, and leave the remedy to the judicial branch of the government. How this can stir up strife or disturb the tranquility of the country is difficult to appreciate.

THE Republican leaders are diligently engaged representing to the world that their party is so cowardly, weak and conscious of its crimes that it dares not agree to a proposition to investigate its election processes. No honest individual fears a legal investigation. He courts it. No greater proof of the guilt of the Republican concern exists than its present attitude.

IT would have been better for Mr. Hayes, and for all his friends who wish to be recognized as honest men, to have given a cordial second and sanction to the investigation of the Presidential frauds, instead of opposing and thereby appearing to dread it. The Electoral swindle was an unspeakably ugly and filthy piece of business, and public men who are wise will be glad to see the responsibility for it traced home to its inventors and perpetrators. Truth is always safe in the long run, and nothing short of the truth is ever entirely safe for men, parties or nations.

THE Hon. Stanley Matthews, who has for a long time been a most intimate friend of President Hayes, seems just now to be getting in very hot water. His co-operation with the present Secretary of the Treasury, cunning John Sherman, in manipulating the Louisiana fraud of 1876 has awfully bedimmed his political candle. The correspondence which has been and is still being submitted to the Potter investigation committee unmistakably makes known to the world that he placed himself on record over his own signature as the custodian of the corrupt agreement; that he gave Anderson a confidential introduction to General Harlan, then of the Louisiana Commission and now of the Supreme Court; that he begged the Secretary of State to appoint Anderson Consul at Callao; that he conferred with Harlan personally as to the appointment of Anderson; that he asked for Anderson's appointment to a Deputy Collectorship in the New Orleans Custom House, not only "as deserved recognition of his public services," but as a personal favor to himself as a visiting statesman; that he wrote a letter to Secretary Evarts setting forth Anderson's strong claims upon the administration and urging that he be provided for at once; that he corresponded with Hayes on the subject, and finally that he humbly submitted to all the abuse that Anderson chose to heap upon him at every stage of the proceedings. Matthews is a good deal of a man in his own estimation, and was for a brief period supposed to be the fourth estate in this government, but we doubt whether even his own view of his powers and responsibilities could have suggested any other way of making himself useful to the man who had elected President Hayes.

THE venerable Alexander H. Stephens, in his reply to Mr. Potter's letter, forgets that the Republicans were offered abundant opportunity for enlarged investigation and they refused to vote for it. In 1869 they confined an investigation into alleged frauds in the New York presidential election, and refused to extend inquiries into other States. Then these same Republicans said it was the "highest political duty" to investigate just such frauds as the Democrats now allege were perpetrated in the last presidential election, and there has been no intimation of an assault on the presidential title, which was firmly fixed by the action of Congress through the Electoral Commission. Mr. Stephens does not, like Judge Key, say that the potter resolution inaugurates a Mexicanization process, but he predicts that it will do no good. There is little doubt that the equilibrium of the Republican leaders will be fearfully disturbed by the progress of investigation, but the Republican party declared in 1869 that to allow election frauds, by whomsoever perpetrated, to pass unpunished would be the destruction of the Republic. It is on this principle that the Democrats are moving. On the contrary, the Republican leaders have gone back on their virtuous declarations of 1869, and are at this moment trying to excite the whole country by the old stories of "Southern outrages," "disfranchisement of negroes," etc., and to make matters worse prominent organs of that party are constantly declaring that "we must have a stronger government;" they are even threatening to abolish the Republic and establish a monarchy or a dictatorship. We regret to observe that Mr. Stephens is undesignedly lending encouragement to these revolutionists. We are sure that, upon further consideration, he will see the danger of permitting John Sherman and his crowd to rest undisturbed after the perpetration of a crime as as black as the brain of the devil.

A Furious Woman's Revenge.

SHELBYTILLE, Ind., June 3.—The quiet of the Sabbath was considerably agitagated here yesterday. It seems that William Vest, a pump-driver by trade, a man about thirty-five years of age, with a wife and two children, has for a year or more been smitten with the charms of a courtesan of this city, named Mollie Henry. So complete an ascendency was obtained over him by this soiled dove that he forgot his allegiance to wife and home for her sake. The wife had her rival arrested for keeping a house of ill-fame. On this charge she was tried, sentenced and confined in jail. Her sentence expired yesterday morning, and immediately on being released she was joined by the faithless lover, and arm-in-arm the guilty pair walked off on the road to Rushville. Information of this was swiftly borne to the ears of Mrs. Vest, the deserted wife and produced a storm of indignation.

Mrs. Vest, accompanied by her brother-in-law, George Benson, a restaurant-keeper here, immediately set out in pursuit of her runaway husband and his paramour. They were overtaken a few miles from town, and as soon as the parties came together the fun commenced. The enraged wife had provided herself with a cowhide, and with this she commenced vigorously to belabor her rival. While this interesting engagement was progressing Benson kept the husband at bay by leveling a cocked revolver, with which he threatened to shoot Vest if he attempted to assist his distressed companion. Thus the affair stood until Mrs. Vest had punished the Henry woman to her satisfaction, when, to his great dismay, she turned upon the terrified husband. The latter, however, was forced by Benson to stand and take the keen cuts of the raw-hide administered by the hands of his wife. Finally, having exhausted her strength and glutted her vengeance, she desisted and returned to this place. The unhappy William Vest and his bedraggled companion continued their flight to parts unknown.

Shooting an Emperor.

TRYING TO TAKE THE LIFE OF EMPEROR WILHELM.

BERLIN, June 2.—While the Emperor was taking a drive at half-past two o'clock this afternoon some shots, apparently proceeding from a house in the Avenue Under den Linden, were fired at him. The Emperor was wounded in one arm and on the cheek by buckshot and small shot. The would-be assasin is a Dr. Nobeling, occupying appartments at No. 18 Unter den Linden. When his door was forced open he fired upon and wounded the hotel keeper, and tried to commit suicide, but was secured. The Emperor's personal attendant jumped into the carriage and supported the Emperor until the carriage reached the palace. The Emperor was conveyed to bed and several grains of shot were extracted, causing great loss of blood. The Emperor suffered great pain, but never lost consciousness up the latest moment.

A later Reuter telegram says Nobeling has confessed that he cherished the murderous design for eight days, because he considered the Emperor's removal would be a public benefit. He declared that he favored socialism, and had attended socialistic meetings. Some accounts say that Nobeling is supposed to be dying. It is known that a few days ago Nobeling unsuccessfully applied for government employment.

Gen. Butler Working up the Impeachment of Hayes.

WASHINGTON June 4.—There are strange stories about the ultimate or correct object of Gen. B. F. Butler in connection with the investigation. It is now confidently asserted that he intends, if possible, to secure the impeachment of Hayes. The story goes that he has information that the McVeagh commission went to New Orleans last year with a letter of credit from Secretary Sherman upon the subtreasury of that point; that the expenses of the commission were paid by drafts upon that letter of credit; that the organization of the Nicholls Senate was aided by the commission, the expenses incident thereto being a part of the outlay upon that letter of credit; that the commission knew that money was corruptly used in connection with their efforts to reorganize that Senate; that Hayes was cognizant through his agents or friends on that commission of these corrupt acts; that the amount thus drawn from the sub-treasury was afterwards included in an estimate for a deficiency appropriation; that he called on the floor of the House for an itemized account of the expenditures alluded to in the estimate; that the estimate was then withdrawn and the deficiency made good to the treasury by an extraordinary draft on the secret service fund of the State Department.

A Thrilling Cry in the Dark.

HOW THE OFFICERS OF THE STEAMER KENT RESCUED TWO DESPAIRING MEN.

Cambridge Chronicle: About eleven o'clock, on Thursday night of last week, when off Todd's Point in the Choptank, the mate of the steamer Kent heard the cry of "help." The night was extremely dark and blustery, and the rain came down in torrents. The cry was answered and asked to be repeated; which was done. The steamer was at once stopped, and officers Thomas, Kirwin and Woodfield manned a life-boat and started to rescue those in distress, and by keeping up a continual "hallowing" they finally came upon two men clinging to the mast of a sunken vessel. The parties rescued proved to be Capt. F. H. Johnson and W. C. Meekins, of Stait's district, this county, who stated to the officers of the Kent that they were bound to cambridge, and that their vessel, the L. R. McNamara, was struck by the heavey storm that swept over this section causing her to fill and sink. The Captain and his comrade were taken to Baltimore on the Kent and well cared for by the gentlemen who rescued them, to whom much praise is due for their perilous undertaking.

SHERMAN'S WEAK EVASIVENESS AND ANDERSON'S STRIAGHTFORWARD TESTIMONY.—The testimony of Mr. Sherman, when confronted with the plain, straightforward testimony of Anderson, contrasts pitiably with the arrogant tone of his letter to Chairman Potter, and with his indolent declaration, printed some days ago, that the Weber-Anderson letter was a forgery. Mr. Sherman will not succeed in convincing anybody that he "does not remember" whether he wrote such a letter to Anderson and Weber. The fate of a Presidential election, the political future of John Sherman himself and the destiny of a party hung upon the effect of that letter, and to suppose that as shrewd and crafty a politician as he would have forgotten whether he wrote such a monstrous document or not is a species of credulity characteristic of fools. Mr. Sherman has reached the end of his tether, and his downfall is at hand. There is no more escape for him than there was for his great prototype, Tweed after the publication of the fraudulent Court-House bills. If he is wise in his hour of trial he will not add perjury to his other crimes, for the evidence is at hand to convict him.

A STORY WITH A MORAL.—Sergeant Acton of the Metropolitan police force, Washington, D. C., says his father-in-law, Samuel Entwistle, suffered with acute rheumatism for many years until he became entirely helpless. After spending more than hundreds of dollars for all the remedies and medicines he ever heard of, and using up at least a barrel of such without even experiencing temporary relief, he procured one bottle of Keller's Roman Liniment, which cured him so completely as to enable him to throw aside his cane and resume his work in the rolling mill at the government navy yard for the first time in many years, and that too without the least pain.

VEGETINE
IS RECOMMENDED BY ALL
Physicians.

VALLEY STREAM, QUEENS CO., LONG ISLAND, N. Y.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:—

Dear Sir,—I take the pleasure of writing you a small certificate concerning Vegetine prepared by you. I have been a sufferer with the Dyspepsia for over forty years, and have had the Chronic Diarrhœa for over six months, and have tried most every thing: was given up to die, and did not expect to live from day to day, and no physician could touch my case. I saw your Vegetine recommended to cure Dyspepsia. I commenced using it, and I continued doing so, and am now a well woman and restored to perfect health. All who are afflicted with this terrible disease, I would kindly recommend to try it for the benefit of their health, and it is excellent as a blood purifier.

By Dr. T. B. FORBES, M. D., for MRS. WM. H. FORBES.

VEGETINE.—When the blood becomes lifeless and stagnant, either from change of weather or of climate, want of exercise, irregular diet, or from any other cause, the VEGETINE will renew the blood, carry off the putrid humors, cleanse the stomach, regulate the bowels, and impart a tone of vigor to the whole body.

VEGETINE
For CANCERS and
CANCEROUS HUMORS.
The Doctor's Certificate,
Read it.

ASHLEY WASHINGTON CO., ILL., Jan. 14, 1878.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:—

Dear Sir,—This is to certify that I had been suffering from a Rose Cancer on my right breast, which grew very rapidly, and all my friends had given me up to die, when I heard of your medicine, Vegetine recommended for Cancers and Cancerous Humors. I commenced to take it, and soon found myself beginning to feel better; my health and spirits both felt the benign influence which it exerted, and in a few months from the time I commenced the use of the Vegetine, the Cancer came out almost bodily.

CARRIE DEFORREST.

I certify that I am personally acquainted with Mrs. DeForrest, and consider her one of our very best women. DR. S. H. FLOWERS.

ALL DISEASES OF THE BLOOD.—If Vegetine will relieve pain, cleanse, purify, and cure such discases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called the Great Blood Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention.

VEGETINE
I Regard it as a Valuable

JAN. 1, 1878.
