Political Prospects in the County.

We believe the minds of the majority of the people are already made up as to how they will vote at the nearing election in Caroline county, and that the Democratic county ticket will be returned elected by a creditable majority.

Aside from all party considerations in the present county campaign, the superior fitness of the gentlemen named by the Democrats for the several positions, secures the vote of that large and growing class of independent citizens, who, whether Democrats or Republicans on national questions, exercise a selfwilled disregard for party ties in minor politics when unfit nominations are made. We believe the independent people will generally vote the county Democratic ticket next Tuesday week.

The Republican ticket will not draw the support of the independents who have heretofore given the county to that party, either in their own name or as fathering a People's ticket. The Republicans have made out a strict party ticket, and have boasted of their ability of electing it. Their ticket is as good a one as could be constructed out of strenuous party material, but on account of the party spirit manifest in its make-up, it loses strength. Extraordinary effort will be required to elect the ticket, notwithstanding the character of the gentlemen composing it. The almighty dollar will not avail them.

The nominees of the Democrats without exception are men qualified to occupy the several positions assigned to them by the party organization. The names of Robert B. Culbreth and James H. Douglass come first as candidates for the House of Delegates. These places would be honorably filled by these men. Mr. Culbreth is a man of unsullied character, sound judgment and considerable legislative experience. No one can say aught against him. No man will guard the peoples' interests with more diligence. Mr. Douglass is one that is recognized as the representative of manliness and integrity. He is a young man full of vim, and will make his mark. He, too, will make a safe representative—one entitled to the fullest measure of public confidence and respect.

Judges Moore, Willis and Johnson should be continued in the Orphans' Court. Their record is well known and most honorable. Tried and true, they have the solid support of the Democrats and will receive endorsement at the polls by many of the better thinking Republicans. Men of all shades of opinion acknowledge their merits; indeed there should have been no party opposition to them. In contesting their places which they have so acceptably filled, the Republicans signally display the party spirit that moves them in the canvass. All these men are strong in the confidence of the people, and no improvement could be made on their mode of conducting their important offices.

The gentlemen in nomination for county commissioners will make a board which taxpayers can trust with the purse-strings of the county.—Messrs. Kinnamon, Gray, and Harris are all practical business men—the first named being a sturdy and intelligent farmer of Tuckahoe Neck, who made his appearance in that fertile section only a few years ago as a farm laborer for hire. Now he has obtained a competency of this world's goods, and the best of all has the good will and esteem of all who know him. Farmers will have a competent and worthy representative in the levy court in Mr. Kinnamon. Messrs. Gray and Harris are merchants and two of the most careful, conscientious business men in the county. Economical, yet not penurious, the affairs of the county will neither suffer by extravagance or by too great stint. Just such men are now wanted to take hold of the most important office to the taxpayers in Caroline county. These three gentlemen are the men for the place.

For the position of State's Attorney the people will find Marshall S. Mutchler to be a thorough and earnest worker, and a man of training and fitness for the position. He will be painstaking in his duties if called to the office, and will serve most efficiently.

Matthew Garey has established for himself a reputation as an officer that will not desert him in his canvass for the sheriffalty of the county. He was formerly a constable and the duties of this office, similar to those of the sheriff, were performed in a manner most acceptable to all with whom he had business contact. That he is competent and trustworthy, those who know him best can testify.

The name of Thos. B. Johns for Surveyor completes the ticket that combines all the elements of popularity, and we believe it will be chosen to a man on the 6th day of November.

The Hope of the Future.

It is our bounden duty and should be a labor of love with all Democrats to catch step and march in the charge that is going to be made on the Republican party of this country. The people have declared that the Republican party must go with all the crimes, frauds, and extravagances which have become part and parcel of its hold on the government. The signs of the popular uprising against this party are unmistakable. Of the thirty-eight State governments in the United States twenty-six are now administered the Democrats, or will be when next year's battle is waging.

We of Maryland want to be among those to bear the brunt of the battle. The history of the Maryland Democracy—their heroic and successful struggle with the sway of Republicanism which for six long years had full and deadly sweep in our own dear State, will call them to the front. Will our Democratic brethren present themselves in solid phalanx when the call is given next year? We believe they will. This year we are forming our lines and drilling for the great national struggle.

Fellow-Democrats, remember the past and hope for the future. The past stands written in sorrow and ashes and blood. Never were years of history more defamed with iniquity, more blackened with infamy, more crowded with distress, and apparently more utterly abandoned to the powers of darkness, than have been the years of the Republican party. No era was ever more completely covered with the vomit of the bottomless pit! And yet in the face of all this, that political party which belched ruin and distress unparalled over the country, is putting forth its effort for further sway even here in Maryland, and seeks another career of triumph and infamy. Shall it be granted? Shall we be so false to each other and to our country as to permit it? Shall we be so forgetful of the past as to falter in our present duty? Shall we at a moment when success is possible fail of victory and surrender to a foe whose iron heel we have felt so terribly before? Shall we hand over the offices of our State to those who will use them to revive and perpetuate the wrongs of years gone by? Did we find the dregs of that cup so sweet that we would fain taste them once again?

Maryland Democrats must help in this great battle, and all our strength must be banded for the struggle.

AMONG the first considerations by the next Legislature of Maryland should be of means looking to inducing emigrants and those looking for desirable homes to settle among us. The establishment of an emigration bureau wouldbe the most popular instance of the creation of a new office for a number of years. It need not be a party measure; both parties will commend themselves to the people by taking hold of this subject, and after careful investigation as to the requirements of the several sections where land is plenty and farmers are scarce, then take intelligent action to induce strangers to come among us. We need a large population to work our fields already in cultivation and to clear away the sprouts and bushes where want of farm help and lack of industry have allowed them to grow.

AT THE municipal election in Baltimore Wednesday Mr. Ferdinand C. Latrobe, the Democratic candidate for Mayor, was elected over Mr. J. Monroe Heiskell, who was supported by the Republicans and disaffected Democrats. It was a formidable combination against him, and his election under the circumstances renders it highly probable that in the State election, now so near at hand, where party lines will be more closely drawn and local disagreements cut less of a figure, the city of Baltimore will roll up about her usual Democrutic majority. Mr. Latrobe has three times held the position of mayor, being elected in 1875, 1877 and 1879, the last two years without opposition, and was succeeded last year by Mr. Whyte, the present incumbent.

POLITICS is active and much mixed in Southern Maryland. There are three tickets in the field in Calvert county, known as the Democratic, the Republican and the People's. In addition to these the independent candidates may be said to constitute a fourth ticket. Some of the candidates are on two of the tickets, while others are out in cards declining to serve on the tickets bearing their names. Party lines in Southern Maryland have in some degree given way to individual interests.

HON. GEORGE HOADLY, Governor-elect of Ohio, is in many respects a phenomenal man. He writes shorthand, can telegraph, speaks and writes five or six languages, and is a master of the classics. As a lawyer, he stands in the front rank of his profession.

CHARLIE ROSS. — There is something sadly fascinating in the persistant search of Charlie Ross' father for his lost son. He seems possessed with undeviating faith that his boy will yet be found. He grasps at every clue, and follows every rumor that may be divulged to his eager ear. His happiness has long since gone. His home is the abiding place of sorrow. The one ambition, the single purpose of his remaining years, is to find the boy whom he so dearly loved. A few days ago news reached him that a burglar in Missouri had said that he knew of his son's whereabouts. Immediately Mr. Ross started for that State and had an interview with the prisoner. As usual, the results were fruitless, but the father persuaded himself that something definite may yet come out it. Another clue has come from Wyoming Territory, but it also is as mysterious and incredible as the rest. But, through it all, Mr. Ross is hopeful and earnest. His parental zeal in searching for his son is one of the most affecting chapters in real life that has ever been known.

The Fate of Violent Legislation.

All the violent measures of the Republican party, which were devised in the heat of political passion and for purposes of political advantage, have now come to grief. They have failed and reacted against their authors because none of them rested on the basis of broad and enlightened statesmanship. Sectional prejudice, personal hatreds, and a bigoted, narrow policy prompted most of the legislation which disfigured the statute books during the years when extreme measures dominated the public councils.

When suffrage was conferred on the negro, fresh from the bonds of slavery, without condition and without preparation of any kind, against the protest of some of the ablest Republican leaders, the intention was to humiliate the South by negro representation in Congress. That amendment to the Constitution was adopted five years after the close of the rebellion, when it might be supposed the passions of the civil war had cooled. Intoxicated by success after the election of Gen. Grant in 1868, the party managers could not see beyond their limited horizon; nor would they listen to the voice of moderation. Opposition to the arbitrary decrees of the caucus was denounced as disloyalty to the Government.

And now, after thirteen years' experience, what is the practical result of this policy? The South, against which it was aimed, has an increased representation in the House of Representatives, and in the electoral colleges correspondingly, by the addition of the negro vote. It is politically stronger, sectionally considered, than at any former time in the history of the ceuntry, and it was made stronger by the Republican party. The conditions of 1870 and of 1883 are reversed. The Republicans leaders would now gladly revoke negro suffrage if they could; while the Democrats wish to preserve it.

The reconstruction laws were animated by the spirit that originated the suffrage amendment. Their main purpose was to make the uneducated race rule in the South by putting the late slaves over their former masters. To this end, military power was used to supersede civil authority in time of peace.

A carnival of villiany followed in the wake of these laws. Honest and influential Republicans at the North became indignant at these outrages in the South, perpetrated by the authority of their party and with the full support of Grant's Administration. A reaction ensued. Atrocious force bills and other schemes were defeated in Congress. Robbery and oppression became unpopular. The enormities committed in the Legislatures of South Carolina, Mississippi and Louisiana turned the currents of of public opinion, and finally led to the emancipation of the South from a vulgar and a vicious despotism.

The last of this partisan legislation, commonly known as the Civil Rights act, has been pronounced unconstitutional by a Supreme Court, of which eight of the nine Justices are Republicans. The single dissenting opinion was delivered by the only Southern man on the bench.

The Fourteenth Amendment prohibits States from making or enforcing any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States. Congress has no more power to make laws regulating social conditions in the States than it has to make police regulations there. When the Civil Rights Bill as originally proposed by Mr. Sumner, and in the present form, as reported by Gen. Butler from the Judiciary Committee of the House, was before the Senate, the foremost Republican lawyers of that body opposed it, on the very grounds now taken by the Supreme Court.

The authors of the Civil Rights act knew it was impotent and worthless from the start. Instead of being a benefit to the negro it has proved to be an aggravating injury, by stimulating race prejudices and by exciting discontent. It was a part of the general plan of the Republicans to capture and keep the negro vote by a pretended friendship, which was in the main hollow and heartless.

For thirteen years the negro has been a political slave of the Republican party. As he improves by education and by contact with independent opinion, he begins to see the falsity of the professions made in his behalf, and the selfishness of a policy which has really retarded his advancement to a higher plane. Hereafter the negro vote will be apt to divide in politics. Then the negro will get a new start in the battle of life.

We understand that sealskin coats are going out of style, and in consequence, colds are increasing among the fair sex. How fortunate there is such a remedy as Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup!

A baby was born in a cemetery at at Marshaltown, Iowa, a short time ago, but everywhere can be seen babies borne to the cemetery because mothers cruelly neglect to procure Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup, a sure cure for croup, coughs and colds.

LIBERAL PREMIUMS.

Subscribers to "Dr. Foote's Health Monthly" are offered unusually liberal premiums for the coming year. There is a long list of Scientific works, two of which are sent with the Health Monthly one year for fifty cents, and in the list of $1 premiums are included an elegant edition of Sharkspere and the American Standard Dictionary, books that have retailed largely at $3 per copy. The illustrated premium list and a sample copy of the paper are forwarded free by the publishers, the Murray Hill Publishing Co., 129 East Twenty-Eighth St., N. Y. City. 9 8 6m

OUR LADIES CAN APPLY THE REMEDY.

The women of America are better treated than those of any other country in the world. This fact is so universally admitted that we do not deem it necessary to bestow any time in arguing the point. Our women receive the greatest degree of courtesy and kindness. Their wishes are consulted on all occasions, and their convenience is studied in all our social arrangements. Hence it is that they exert an immense influence on the whole course of American life, and when any great object in the economy of life is to be attained, their good will and their aid becomes indispensable.

It is especially so in the great object of relieving the distressed, in preparing proper receptacles for the alleviation of the suffering, and making the home of misery overflow with gladness, on account of her presence and her unceasing efforts to quiet the agitated mind, and cool the fevered brow of the unfortunate sufferer. While all this is true, she is also gladly received, and her presence is ever highly appreciated, by the entire corps at T. Dawson Larrimore's Mammoth Dress Goods Establishment, formerly J. J. Jump and Co.

We have just opened all the latest novelties in Ladies' Fine Dress Goods, having received them this week from Northern cities. Styles to say the least are beautiful. Come and see them.

We have ample accommodation for the ladies, which is not available by any other mercantile establishment on the Shore, and that is a private room, where they can retire to arrange their toilet or spend their leisure moments in social chit-chat.

While we have thus studied the comfort of the Ladies, we have not forgotten to provide for the Gentlemen. To those who visit our establishment we would say, that we have an acre of ground enclosed in the rear of our building, for the protection of their horses and carriages, where we would invite all who deal with us to drive their teams. Entrance on Harrison street in rear of building. This is another feature not possessed by any other establishment, and when you have secured your horse, we have a plenty of room, to accommodate you in our spacious building, where you are ever welcome.

Should you desire to purchase Ready-Made Clothing, Hats, Caps, &c., we have the second and third floors filled with the latest styles, and the prices always guaranteed to give satisfaction.

T. DAWSON LARRIMORE,
SUCCESSOR TO
J. J. JUMP & CO.

I would be glad to welcome my old friends, whose company was always so agreeable while I was a clerk with J. J. Jump and Co., in this establishment, and also those patrons of the old firm whose acquaintance I have failed to make on account of my two years absence while in the clothing trade on Market Space, and the hand of friendship and good will is extended to all my faithful friends of the Market Space Clothing Enterprise.

The principal clerks of J. J. Jump and co. I have retained; Miss Maggie Stewart, and Messrs. Leonard and Ball.
