provided as to the legacies of forty thousand dollars above bequeathed to them; and the issue of any deceased brother or sister to take per stirpes the share or shares to which its or their parent would if living be entitled; the share or shares of such issue as may be an infant or infants, to remain and continue upon, and be subject to the same trusts as are above declared as to the infant issue of my deceased daughters as above mentioned.

If any of my daughters shall die after me, without issue living at the time of their respective deaths, and intestate as to her or their respective legacies of forty thousand dollars, then as to the legacy of any daughter so dying, in trust for the use of her brothers and sisters, if any, who may be living at the time of her death, and the issue living of any brother or sister who may then be deceased; the shares of the brothers to be paid or transferred to them, and the shares of the sisters to be held in the same manner, upon the same trusts, and with the same limitations in all respects as are hereinbefore provided as to the legacies of forty thousand dollars above bequeathed to them; and the issue of any deceased brother or sister to take per stirpes the share or shares to which its or their parent would, if living, be entitled; the share or shares of such issue as may be an infant or infants, to remain and continue upon and be subject to the same trusts as are above declared, as to the infant issue of my deceased daughters as above mentioned.

(James Wilson.)

(4.) Fourth. Whereas, I have purchased from John W. Ward and others, a farm in Baltimore county, near Govanstown, which was conveyed to me by three deeds dated in the year 1846, and duly recorded; which farm I purchased for my sons, William C. Wilson and Melville Wilson; and whereas, they have not yet agreed upon the manner in which it is to be divided between them, so that I can execute deeds to them for their respective portions. Now in case I should die before the execution of such deeds, I give and devise the said farm to my trustees hereinafter named, in trust for my said two sons, William C. Wilson and Melville Wilson, their heirs and assigns, as tenants-in-common, and upon further trust, that as soon as the said William C. Wilson and Melville Wilson shall agree upon the division of said farm between them, my trustees shall convey to each of them the legal estate in and to the portions which shall be allotted to them respectively, in such wise that they and their heirs may hold and enjoy both the legal and equitable estates therein forever, in severalty. But it is my intention that my said sons William C. Wilson and Melville Wilson, shall be charged with their respective portions of the cost of said farm, and with the amount paid for stock and improvements, or otherwise paid or advanced for or to them respectively, in respect of said farm; the amount of which charges shall be deducted from their respective legacies of forty thousand dollars, as in the case of charges made against any of my children in my private leger, agreeably to a foregoing provision of my will.

(5.) Fifth. Whereas, I have purchased from Alexander C. Magruder, trustee, a lot of ground near the first turnpike gate on the York Turnpike road in Baltimore (James Wilson) county, and have fitted up thereon a chapel for the purpose of public worship and of a Sabbath School. I give and devise to said trustees the chapel and the land on which it stands, and so much of the said lot whereupon it stands, as may be necessary for the convenient occupation of the said chapel, and the right-of-way from said chapel to said turnpike
