THE DEMOCRATIC CONVENTION.—The delegates elected on the Saturday previous, met in Convention at the Court House, on Tuesday, to nominate their county ticket. As the hour of organization approached the several aspirants and their friends seemed to warm up, and enter the caucuses upon the side walks and streets with renewed vigor and spirit. Defeat seemed to stare some in the face early in the day, and now and then could be heard the solemn exclamation, "that there was no confidence to be placed in the democratic party, now adays." The Convention organized at half past ten o'clock, by electing L. J. Catrup, Chairman, and appointing Alex. Chaplain, Secretary After some preliminaries, Samuel Dickinson and N. E. Nicols, were put in nomination for clerk, and ballotted for with the following result: Dickinson, 42; Nicols 6: scattering 2.—Dickinson was therefore declared the nominee. He is a man of wealth, owning property to the amount of between twenty-five and thirty thousand dollars. He was appointed a few years since to the office of Lottery Commissioner, an office which paid from $6,000 to $10,000 per year, and which his father had filled for several years previously. Mr. Nicols, his competitor for the place, is a poor, and self-made man. One who stood greatly in need of the office—but he was pushed aside. Mr. Dickinson is a man of large landed possessions and therefore triumphed over his more needy competitor. We have not been able to ascertain, if elected, his qualifications for the office—or by what means he would perform the responsible duty. H. H. Hayward, Wm. D. Roberts, John D. Nabb, T. N. Chance, Jas. B. Way, democrats, and Wm. P. Leaverton and N. Rice, old line Whigs, were put in nomination for the Register of Wills, and after several ballots, N. Rice was declared to be the nominee.—This is a triumph of an old line Fillmore whig over the true democracy. How the disappointed democrats will relish this, we do not pretend to say. Mr. Rice is a man of very ordinary business capacity, and ill qualified to take charge of such a responsible office as that of Register of Wills, where the fortunes and estates of the orphan are handled and preserved.

O. P. Sparks, on the first ballot, received the nomination for Sheriff. We do not know much of Mr. Spark's qualification for the office.

Wm. B. Clark and H H. Goldsborough, together, with a large number of others, were put in nomination for House of Delegates, and after several ballotings were elected. Mr. Clark represented with Wm. D. Roberts, the county in the last legislature; but the course of Mr. Roberts, although he proved himself an active and energetic member, has been disapproved by the democracy, while that of Mr. Clark has received their sanction.

John Reese an old line Whig, Jonathan Leonard and Wm. Caulk were then nominated for County Commissioners. Mr. Caulk, judging from what we can learn, is the only man who has the slightest pretensions to qualification. This office is a very important one, and should be filled by the best business men of the county.

Col. Groome is a whig, H. H. Goldsborough is a whig, and John Reese is a whig. Thus the democratic party have their ticket.

If the aim of the democratic party has been to select men for county offices who possess not the slightest qualifications for their respective position they have succeeded admirably in their design, and we call upon the people of the county to scan closely the character and qualifications of the aspirants on both sides and choose those whom the interest of the county demand to be placed in office.

MR. HICKS AND BALTIMORE ENTHUSIASM.—The Americans of Baltimore on Friday evening last, had the pleasure of listening to an address from our Gubernatorial candidate. After Mr. Hicks was introduced by the President, three cheers were given for "Gov. Hicks." Mr. H. then proceeded to make a few remarks in the midst of cheering and greeting—the enthusiasm of the large audience running to the highest pitch.

He took his seat amidst such deafening cheers that dispelled every idea of a dissatisfied American being in that company.

Hon. W. H. Purnell followed in one of his pleasing and eloquent addresses, urging upon the party the necessity of standing shoulder to shoulder in the coming contest. He was received, like Mr. Hicks, with the most unbounded applause.

Archibald Stirling, Jr., John L. Thomas and Edmund Law Rogers, Esqrs., followed in advocacy of the cause, and upon concluding the meeting adjourned, with three hearty cheers for all the American nominees.

STRANGE DOINGS OF THE DEMOCRACY.—Every body was more or less surprised at seeing the boasted democratic party of Maryland placing itself, on the 30th of July, under the command of an "unretracting and unrecanting" old Whig, as he calls himself with the view of beguiling some of his old Whig comrades into his support, and looked upon those proceedings as very strange doings for that party. But much stranger things have recently transpired.—The same democracy in this city, have shown an anxiety to go over to half a dozen and more "rank Know Nothings" in the formation of an independent ticket and thus given proof that they think very well of the Know Nothings in spite of all the denunciations they have heaped upon us.

This independent ticket spoken of above, by the Baltimore Clipper, and anxiously published by opposing journals, appears to be gotten up without any knowledge of the parties which compose it. Three out of the six have come out and strongly denounced the movement.

To show the spirit of their indignation we give the card of Mr. Montague. He says:

A rumor having reached my ear, that I would likely be on what is called a "Union Ticket," I take this oportunity to say it is a lie. I shall support every man cheerfully the American party have nominated, and especially Mr. Gardner, who was my successful competitor for the Clerkship of the Criminal Court, and I must say, I do not believe a better ticket could have possibly been selected.

ON Friday morning a destructive storm raged along the Atlantic coast, which was attended with many disasters and the loss of several lives. The storm commenced about midnight, and continued to blow for several hours. The Carlo Alberto, an Italian bark, was run ashore and two of the crew and a passenger drowned: the ship Clara Brookman, was wrecked, and her cargo valued at $140,000 lost: and the ship Roswell Sprague, grounded with three feet of water in her hold. Other disasters are also reported.

THE mails by the steamer Atlantic furnish nothing exciting, other than romantic accounts of the doings of the mutineers in India. The busy note of preparation for war is heard in every part of her Majesty's dominions, and, judging from the signs of the times, the bayonets of the English will glitter more profusely, shortly, in the vicinity of Delhi, and Lucklow, than at any time, in the suburbs of Sebastopol. Recruiting goes on vigorously, and a large complement of men has already been drawn from the Canadas.

THE following compose the American ticket of Queen Anne's County:—

For Clerk of the Circuit Court—Dr. Robert Goldsborough. For Register of Wills—David H. Crane. For the State Senate—S. J. Bradley. For the House of Delegates—Alfred Tucker, Jno. C. Tolson. For Sheriff—E. P. Jump. For County Commissioners—Maj. James Merrick, Wm. S. Price, Chas. E. Skinner. For Surveyor—Jas. W. Thompson.

THERE was a general stampede of negroes from Dover, Delaware, last week by the underground railroad. Capt. Hugh Martin, Mr. John Chipman, Mr. Philips, and Mr. Horsey have each lost valuable negro men, and Mrs. Spicer of Sussex county, a woman slave estimated to be worth $600.

THE Kent News complains of the landing of about 1,500 negroes, at Chestertown, on Sunday week, who were en-route for the camp meeting. It says they are 'nuisances' and calls upon the authorities to put a stop to a like invasion in the future.

THE account of the difficulty which happened in Cambridge on Tuesday of last week, from the Cambridge Eagle, shows the report in the Baltimore Sun, to be far from correct. The Eagle says:

After most of the passengers had gone down to the boat, a man named Edwards, accompanied by twelve or fifteen of his followers went to the jail, and Edwards demanded the deliverance of a prisoner named Nagle, who was arrested in the lower part of this county for stealing, and who was formerly from Baltimore, and known by some of the party. The jailor, who was standing in the door, of course, refused him admittance, when he was knocked down. This brought a crowd around the yard, some of them going in, and among others Deputy Sheriff Bell, and when he attempted to persuade him to be quiet he was knocked down by Edwards and kicked three or four times on the face and side.—Edwards was then gotten off by some of his associates.

New York Correspondence.

NEW YORK, Aug. 28, 1857.

Two of the pillars of Babylon have fallen. Great was the fall thereof, and the prophets of evil did rejoice. Nothing, however, is more preposterous than the attempt to judge of the financial condition of this city, still more of the country at large by the failures or successes of gamblers in Wall street. The worst result that follows, is the pulling down of a few country banks, which could not have met such an overthrow had they depended on a "specie basis." "Put not your trust in princes," saith scripture, and merchant princes form no exception to this rule. But the panic, and distrust, for a day or two, was all pervading. The great Broker who was popularly believed to indulge in a bath of five dollar gold pieces every night in the week, needed the needful at last, and found it not. I notice that the newspapers are denouncing the extravagance of the eldest son at Saratoga, but he is not the most noticeable offshoot of the family. A younger son has immortalized himself in divers country places by lighting cigars with ten dollar bank notes, and clearing obstinate calves off the sidewalk by running them through with a sword cane. The latter exploit was celebrated in a mock programme at——College, as the "Doleful Murder of Abel by Cain."

Business has not resumed its wonted tranquility; the town is full of country merchants, and there is a good prospect of a fair Fall trade, which is all that was to be expected after the financial and commercial reverses of last season. The West is paying up promptly and well; the South is rich, and buying generously. Sugar and molasses are still held in great quantities, for high prices; but holders are beginning to get sick of the game and prices must come down soon. Tea will not be much lower before Spring. Dry goods are selling well, without any advance in prices. The cotton mills are stopping all over the country. It is rumored that 5,000 looms are to be stopped this week. This will either bring cotton down, or enhance the value of goods. Cotton fabrics, however, will not sell above present prices. The people buy them only because they are cheap, and when they cease to possess this quality, consumers will spend their money for clothing of a more substantial and desirable character. After all the outcry of short crops of silk, silk fabrics are selling and are more likely to sell, at last year's prices.—The great auction sales of silks have not yet commenced.

The weather has been decidedly cool, for the last week, and great numbers have returned to town, finding the city the most comfortable place after all. To-day however, opens warm and sultry, and the consumption of lager is alarming. Apropos of lager, it is getting quite fashionable for parties to call for one, two or three mugs in the original "Deutshes," eines, twei, etc., as the case may be. A thirsty young sprig entered a saloon the other day, and, wishing to be in the mode, called out, "Twei, waitaw!" "Waitaw" speedily placed two foaming mugs before his customer. Sprig was non-plussed and requested the removal of the extra mug. "Didn't you order twei" says the "waitaw." Sprig had to guzzle both beakers, and is fully aware now that "twei," doesn't mean lager beer.

The breaking of the Atlantic telegraph cable caused more real regret and disappointment among all classes of the community than the breaking of all Wall street at once could possibly have done. Its progress has been watched with the intensest interest by men of all classes, and to the business men of New York, especially, it is an enterprise of vital importance. The death of Mortimer Livingston, Esq., may be regarded as one of the events of the week. This gentleman was at the head of one of the oldest and largest Knickerbocker families; a family which has distinguished itself in every work of private and public life, and whose history is intimately connected with the social and commercial progress of New York city. Many men and women exist in this part of the world merely on the strength of the name of Livingston.

Amusements are thinning out a little just now, but September will come in like a flood with all sorts of gayety for the people The next season of operas for which Frezzolini is engaged, promises to be the finest we have ever had. The promenade concerts have failed. Seabathing near the city is very popular, and all the resorts on Long Island and the Jersey shore are crowded. A wife of a well known merchant in this city, distinguished herself at Fire Island by sailing a yacht in blue breeches and a green jerkin, Perhaps this will be the costume after crinoline has had its day.

RIVINGTON.

LOCO FOCO CONVENTION.—The delegates to the Loco Foco Convention re-assembled in the Maryland Institute yesterday at twelve o'clock—Col. Edward Shriver, President in the chair. The object was to nominate a candidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals, for the first District, in place of James L. Bartol, and a candidate for Commissioner of Public Works, in place of S. S. Cunningham, both of whom had most positively declined serving, and who, even during the session of the Convention yesterday, had again sent communications, declining to suffer their names to be used.—Yet, notwithstanding, Mr. Bartol was again nominated for Judge of the Court of Appeals, and David Leiter, of Washington county, for Commissioner of Public Works. Much indignation was expressed by members at the course of the Convention, in renominating Mr. Bartol after his declination, and some declared they would not support him.—Balt. Clipper of Wednesday.

THE NEGRO STOLEN FROM CECIL COUNTY—HIS RETURN—RECOVERY OF THE FORGED PAPERS.—On Monday last we gave, says the Baltimore Patriot, of the 29 ult., a full account of the stealing of a free negro from Cecil County jail by the Sheriff of that county, and his subsequent sale in Richmond. Deputy Marshal Manly, who left for Richmond on Monday morning for the purpose of recovering the boy, if possible, returned this morning, having been successful in his search, and having the boy, George Washington Talbott, in his custody. The Deputy Marshal has kindly furnished us with an account of his movement during the week. He says that on his arrival in Richmond, he found Talbott in the hands of Messrs. Pulliam & Co., slave dealers, who were about sending him further south; he applied to the firm not only for possession of the boy, but also for the forged papers, which would be necessary in Maryland for a conviction of the parties charged with the abduction; they proposed that if Manly would pay them $150, the sum advanced on Talbott, they would deliver up the papers. In the meantime, a lawyer from Cecil County, named Rowan, made his appearance in Richmond, as counsel for Poole and Beatty, and offered the $150 for the papers but, not having the money to pay down, he was compelled to go back to Elkton for it. During his absence Marshal Manly did all in his power to get possession of the papers, but without success; Messrs. Pulliam & Co., having sealed them up and handed them over to a lawyer named Murray, who could not be induced to give them up, although notified that the papers were forgeries, and that he was laying himself to a criminal prosecution. At about three o'clock on Thursday, Mr. McDaniel, an attorney, at the instance of Mr. Manly, sued out a writ of habeas corpus before Judge Meredith, for the recovery of the negro Talbott and also for the forged papers. After a patient hearing, in which much argument was made on both sides, and in which it was contended that as the papers were sealed up no one had a right to break them open, Judge Meredith decided in favor of the Baltimore officer; he broke the seal himself, and after having had duplicate copies of the forged papers taken, handed the originals over to Mr Manly. These papers consist of what purports to be an original bill of the sale of the negro boy George Washington Tallbott from Otho Nowland to Jno. J. R. Poole; attached to this, and bearing the seal of Cecil County Court, is a forged affidavit signed by H. H. Mitchell, Clerk of the Court at Elkton, as to his knowledge of the contracting parties. It appears that after reaching Richmond with the boy Poole transferred him by bill of sale to Beatty, and it was by the latter that he was sold to the Richmond dealer; these two bills of sale are also among the papers recovered by Deputy Marshal Manly.

FURTHER PARTICULARS OF THE DISASTER TO THE STEAMER ST. NICHOLAS.—We gave in yesterday's Patriot, as far as could be ascertained, an account of the collision—in the bay—of the steamer St. Nicholas and a brig bound down, and the necessity of the former running ashore to save the boat and passengers. The St. Nicholas was on her return, and when about eight miles out from Annapolis met the steamer Belvidere, with the schooner Lightning in tow, bound down. Mr. N. Mitchell, the pilot of the St. Nicholas, had left the wheel house for the purpose of waiting upon some ladies to the main saloon, where supper was being prepared, and upon running upon the hurricane deck saw the Belvidere, which was a considerable distance from the schooner. There was a dense volume of black smoke issuing at the time from the smoke stack of the Belvidere, which concealed the schooner from his view. Knowing, however, that she could not be far off, he gave the necessary order to the man at the wheel, and, at the same time, signalled the engineer to back the boat, which was done at once. It was too late, however, to avoid a collision. She struck her bow most violently upon the starboard quarter of the schooner, carrying away one yawl boat of the latter, and almost tearing off her own bow. The steamer at the time was going along quite moderately, whilst a large portion of the company was on the upper deck enjoying themselves by dancing The violent concussion, as may be supposed, threw the whole company into the highest state of alarm, indeed many were thrown down by the motion, whilst others prepared to leap overboard, fearing some dreadful disaster at hand. In the meantime Capt. Guy, who was on the forward deck at the time, quickly ascertained the nature of the damage, and after quieting the fears of the passengers, assuring them at once that there was no danger, assumed the command of the boat, turned her bow to the shore of Sandy Point, about three miles distant, and in less than twenty minutes had run her bows upon the beach. The hull of the boat soon filled with water, and at last accounts she was lying in perfect safety in 6½ feet water. Soon after the collision took place, Captain Keene sent a boat to the St. Nicholas, and offered to remain by her as long as Capt. Guy desired, but his kind offer was declined as being unnecessary. A number of the passengers went ashore in the boats of the St. Nicholas, and were kindly cared for by Captain Mezick and Mr. W. S. Weeden, who threw open their dwellings as soon as the disaster was made known to them. Some of the parties proceeded to Annapolis, where they took the cars and came on to the city. The remainder were brought up yesterday afternoon on the steamer Lancaster, which left here at 9 o'clock this morning This accident is to be deeply regretted, as the boat was about to be placed on the line between this port and York River, as a freight and passenger boat, to run alternately with the steamer Gladiator.—Baltimore Patriot, of Saturday.

DEATH OF COMODORE CASSIN.—Commodore Stephen Cassin died at Georgetown on Saturday last, aged upwards of 70 years. He has been in the naval service fifty-seven years. He entered in 1800, and was on the retired list at the time of his death. He commanded the Ticonderoga, under Commodore McDonough, on Lake Champlain, in 1814. He entered the navy when a boy, and served under Perry at the naval battle on Lake Erie, where he distinguished himself and was promoted.—He was a terror to the pirates who infested the Atlantic ocean, and on the 28th and 29th September, 1822, he captured five piratical vessels. The late Naval Board had placed him on the retired list.

Information has been received of the death of Lt. Wm. H. Cheever, who died at Rio de Janeiro, on the 13th July last. He was attached to the United States frigate St. Lawrence.—Baltimore American.
