"Autumn Glory Time" Declared by Governor

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin proclaimed the period October 12 through November 1, as "Autumn Glory Time."

In his official proclamation Governor McKeldin referred to Western Maryland and to Garrett county in particular, as being one of the country's most beautiful scenic spots, and suggested that all Marylanders should see the miracle of nature which will soon turn the mountain peaks from verdant green into a kaliedoscopic mantle of beauty.The Governor particularly urged Marylanders living in the Eastern parts of the State to visit Western Maryland during the "Autumn Glory Time."

Issued at the request of the people of the area, the Governor's proclaation stressed the need for careful observance of all fire rules and regulations, and of careful obedience to the traffic laws, "to the end that the beauties of nature may not be marred, nor the enjoyment of our citizens curtailed by injury or death."
